HERE'S HOW — Canadian karate champion Michael Nikol demonstrates how he was handcuffed while a prisoner at Marin County Jail. He claims, and a deputy sheriff denies, that he was mistreated, his arms lifted painfully while handcuffed behind him during interrogation.

Court Gives Prisoners New Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, winding up the bulk of its business before hearing arguments on Watergate issues July 8, ruled today that prisoners are entitled to certain procedural rights when they are disciplined.

In a 6-to-3 ruling that for the first time gave inmates the right to defend themselves in disciplinary proceedings, the court held that prison authorities must give prisoners advance written notice of charges and a statement by impartial fact-finders of evidence against him.

Prisoners also should be allowed to call witnesses and present their own evidence so long as this does not threaten prison security, said the opinion by Justice Byron R. White. But it said prisoners are not entitled to "the full panoply of rights due a defendant in a criminal prosecution" such as the right to a lawyer and to cross-examine.

The court handed down opinions to clear nearly all remaining cases it heard during the current term. But one expected ruling was not issued. Withheld was a decision on a case involving whether Detroit school children can be bused across county lines to foster integration.

The court could decide the Detroit case after it returns from recess July 8 to hear arguments on Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's demands for addition material from the White House. Or it could be scheduled for reargument in the fall term.

In other action, the court:

Ruled unanimously in a Milwaukee case that judges must cite a specific reason when they choose to sentence young offenders as adults rather than under the more lenient Youth Corrections Act.

Ruled 7 to 2 that a prisoner is entitled to a hearing before a judge when he files suit to be freed.

Going into the antitrust issue again, ruled 5 to 3 that there was no violation in the merger of two big banks in Seattle, Wash., and sent back to a lower court a bank merger case from Connecticut.

Ruled 7 to 2 that in a post-trial contempt proceeding, a lawyer is entitled to reasonable notice of charges and a chance to be heard.

In recent years, the Supreme Court has given prisoners more freedom, such as practicing religion as they choose, mailing letters without unnecessary censorship. Also, 30 years ago, it allowed prisoners to bring suit in court.

But the court had never previously defined rights a person behind bars when facing disciplinary action.

The case arose in a class action suit by an inmate of the Nebraska Penal Complex at Lincoln filed on behalf of himself and other inmates contending that disciplinary procedures did not afford prisoners their constitutional guarantee of "due process of law."

A federal district court agreed in part and the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals expanded on the verdict, granting the prisoners additional rights —some of which the Supreme Court refused to uphold.

White said the procedural requirements would apply only to punishment for "serious misbehavior" and not minor infractions which result in temporary loss of inmate privileges.

Nurses Agree To End Their Strike

Settlement Comes After Three Weeks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A tentative settlement was reached today in the nearly three-week strike of 4,400 nurses that has caused a health care crisis for Northern California private hospitals.

The announcement was made at a news conference by the federal government's top mediator, W.J. Usery Jr., after a 43-hour marathon bargaining session that ended before dawn.

"I'm happy to announce that the CNA (California Nurses Association) and the three affiliated hospital associations reached tentative agreement subject to ratification," Usery said.

Irene Pope, president of the CNA, said nurses would meet tomorrow to discuss ratification, and if the pact is approved they would return to work immediately.

No details of the agreement were disclosed pending the nurses' ratification and formal ratification by the three hospital groups involved, in San Francisco, the East Bay, and Kaiser hospitals in Northern California.

"We're glad it's over; we're relieved," said Thomas DeMartino, administrator of Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Rafael.

The hospital's 62 registered nurses have been away from their jobs and the facility which normally has an average of 35 beds occupied each day, had 12 in-patients today since only the most seriously ill were being admitted.

DeMartino expressed hope that the settlement will be ratified by the rank and file of the nurses' union and that the nurses will be back to work by the end of the week. "We've got a lot of people who have worked a lot of hours," the administrator said.

The hospital used supervisory personnel and physicians to perform the duties of the striking nurses.

Funds Set For Alcohol Treatment

By MARY LEYDECKER

Funds to start the county's first official alcohol recovery home were voted unanimously yesterday by the Marin Board of Supervisors. (Other supervisors stories, pages 11, 12.)

The supervisors approved spending $22,144 as "seed money" for the first two months of operation of the home, proposed by the AlCom Foundation, a local nonprofit organization.

The money for the new facility is to come from the current mental health budget.

The county currently has an alcohol recovery unit run by Community Mental Health Services at Marin General Hospital, and it will continue as a short-range drying out facility, according to Donald Sanford, assistant director of health and human services.

The new home was proposed because the hospital unit only provides "revolving door" treatment, according to Walter F. Rogers Jr., executive secretary of AlCom. He said the only alternative now is to send alcoholics to Napa State Hospital, where there is no program for their treatment.

Rogers said that he and others have worked for years toward getting an alcohol recovery home in the county "but without seed money" it was impossible to get such a program started and thus obtain federal or state funding.

Earlier this year, he said, it was decided to put a proposal before the supervisors and then

Nixon Assures Allies On Firm Arms Race Stance

BRUSSELS (UPI) — President Nixon told America's European allies today he will push for progress in stopping the nuclear arms race during the Moscow summit and at all times will keep the NATO alliance's interests in mind.

"We will never sacrifice the interests of our allies to achieve agreements," White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler quoted Nixon as telling leaders of 14 other members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization during a two-hour closed meeting.

Nixon said that during his week-long summit beginning tomorrow with Soviet leader, Leonid Breshnev he would seek a ban on underground nuclear weapons tests, but said there were many roadblocks in the way. U.S. officials have said a full, permanent agreement would not come during the Moscow talks.

Ziegler said Nixon covered the whole range of U.S. relations with European allies and his summit during the closed session. Nixon pledged the United States will maintain its military strength in Europe and would not reduce forces without a similar move by the Soviet Union.

Following the closed meeting, Nixon signed a declaration reaffirming commitment of the NATO alliance, had lunch with King Baudouin and held private talks with several European leaders.

Nixon appeared fit and free of any hindrance from the phlebitis — swelling of the veins in his left leg — that struck him during the Mideast visit two weeks ago. He even walked the half mile from his residence to the palace where he had lunch without any notice of a limp.

Ziegler said today Nixon was not experiencing any pain although the leg was still swollen. He said Dr. Walter Tkach was checking the President daily and was satisfied with the progress. For his part, Tkach indicated he wished the Presi-

Demos Set Limit On Witnesses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic majority of the House Judiciary Committee sought today to set a limit of five witnesses for committee questioning in its impeachment inquiry. (See also story, page 2.)

Word of the Democratic strategy filtered out of a closed session and the plan left some Republicans fuming with anger —especially since some of the witnesses proposed by President Nixon's lawyer, James D. St. Clair, were not included.

The Democrats proposed to call only John W. Dean III, Nixon's chief accuser; Frederick C. LaRue, a former campaign aide knowledgeable about the payment of $75,000 hush money to E. Howard Hunt; Alexander Butterfield, who disclosed the existence of the White House taping system last summer; Henry E. Petersen, deputy attorney general; and Herbert W. Kalmbach, Nixon's personal attorney.

Under the Democratic plan the committee would end the examination of witnesses after seven days and begin voting on proposed articles of impeachment in time to send a bill to the House floor by the week of July 22.

Rep. Joseph J. Maraziti, R-N.J., complained, "this is the trial of the century and they (the Democrats) are trying to cut it off by July 15."

St. Clair, Republicans said, wanted to call Paul O'Brien, attorney for the Committee to Re-elect the President; William O. Bittman, attorney for Hunt, who received the $75,000 on Hunt's behalf; former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell; H. R. Haldeman, former White House chief of staff; as well as Dean and LaRue.

KARATE!

Marin Saga Chops Story Two Ways

By GEORGE NEVIN

The way the Canadian karate champion tells it, all he did was call the sheriff's deputy a pig, whereupon the deputy got mad and busted him.

The way the deputy tells it, the karate champion was incoherent, abusive and drunk, a public nuisance at least, a menace at most.

But whichever way it happened yesterday morning at a Novato motel, the arrest of Michael Nikol has touched off a minor international incident that threatens Canadian participation in a charity martial arts competition in San Francisco this weekend.

Nobody is disputing what happened first: Nikol, the six-foot, 200-pound coach of a Canadian karate team and a competitor himself, returned to his room at the Alvarado Inn about 2:30 a.m. yesterday and found it had been ransacked.

The sheriff's department was called, and deputy Wayne Woodside arrived to take a report.

But from that point on, Nikol and Woodside tell greatly differing accounts.

"After the deputy came in, he investigated for three or four or five minutes and decided he

Sausalito Set To Sue On Ferry Dock Impact Issue

Sausalito City Councilmen last night said they will sue the Golden Gate Bridge District if it insists on ignoring city pleas for a report assessing the environmental effect of a temporary downtown ferry terminal for the district's new 750-passenger boats. (Other Sausalito City Council stories, page 27.)

Councilmen emerged from a closed session discussion with City Atty. Leland H. Jordan to announce the city's intention to sue on grounds that the bridge district is violating requirements of the Federal Environmental Quality Act, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

Earlier this month, bridge district directors ignored still protest from Sausalito citizens and city officials and stated that the temporary dock would have no significant environmental impact on Sausalito.

In doing so, they approved a formal declaration that the project has "no appreciable opposition" and that it is not "likely to be controversial."

"This seems to be the only way to deal with the bridge district on this particular matter," McKenzie said.

The city will have 30 days to file suit after the bridge district formally files its notice of determination on the impact of the temporary facility.

Eleventh-Hour Compromise Set On Record California Budget

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — After a night-long session, legislative budget negotiators early today approved a record $10.2 billion-plus spending proposal for the coming fiscal year, the largest of any state in the nation.

The budget proposal, which was a compromise between versions passed by the Senate and Assembly, now returns to both houses for final passage and submission to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Included was about $254 million to cover state worker benefits and a 5.3 per cent pay hike, $104 million for park and wildlife enhancement land purchases and $7,500 for an official portrait of Reagan to be displayed in the Capitol.

Among the largest additions to the budget was about $93 million for acquisition of recreation lands, much of it made available by voter approval in June of the parks bond issue, Prop. 1.

An official budget total was not available from tired members of the joint conference committee, who labored through the 3-inch-thick document from 8 p.m. until just after midnight to reach agreement.

Approval was by voice vote from five of the six committee members. The absent member went home to get some sleep.

An unofficial tally showed the spending package reached nearly $10.29 billion, roughly $140 million more than sought by Reagan. It was also more than the $10.14 billion passed by the Senate and $10.21 billion approved by the Assembly.

Committee Chairman Sen. Randolph Coller, D-Yreka, said he hoped the massive job of double-checking budget and having it printed could be completed in time for a Senate floor vote tomorrow, one day before the legislature was scheduled to recess for summer.

The ranking committee assemblyman, Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, said he expected the Assembly to vote on the budget Friday.

That would give Reagan only until midnight Sunday to review and sign the bill before it is to go into effect July 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year.

Ross Councilmen Bow To Playground Suit Threat

Threatened with a law suit, the Ross Town Council last night rescinded a permit given earlier this month for relocation of facilities by Katherine Branson School.

The vote to rescind was 3-0 with Mayor Frederick S. Allen absent and Councilman John H. Chase not voting because he is a trustee of the school.

The school is seeking to move two tennis courts and to pave and enlarge a gravel parking lot.

A group of neighbors previously signed a letter written by Sanford H. Paganucci protesting the relocation and many of them were in last night's audience of about 35 persons, according to Councilman Roy Farrington Jones.

Opponents contend that the school "is changing markedly from the small quiet private school for girls it used to be," according to Paganucci's letter.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Fasken who signed Paganucci's letter, were represented at last night's meeting by attorney Vincent Mullins who insisted that an environmental impact report be done before the changes are considered by the council and that the problems of grading and paving a "football field sized" parking lot be considered, Jones said.

Councilmen met in closed session to consider Mullins' threat of a suit before voting to rescind the permit.

Jones said the town council on July 25 will consider the necessity of an environmental impact report on the project.

Senators Rebuff Liberal Oil Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate refused today to limit debate on proposals to end the oil depletion allowance and to give Americans a small income tax cut.

The move failed even to get a majority, with a 50-48 vote against invoking the Senate debate-limitation rule. A two-thirds vote is required.

The defeat, latest of a series for liberals, appeared to make it only a matter of time before they abandoned their 10-day-old attempt to attach tax reform to a bill to increase the national debt to $495 billion through next March 31.

School Holiday May Stall BART Tube Use

OAKLAND (UPI) — Because it wants to avoid a deluge of school children, the Bay Area Rapid Transit District may delay the scheduled opening of service between San Francisco and Oakland.

Service is scheduled to start Sept. 9 but that is Admission Day and schools will be closed.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Liz Obtains Swiss Divorce

Taylor

The Burton's personal and financial adviser and friend, New York lawyer Aaron R. Frosch, said there was an amicable financial settlement between the couple and that Miss Taylor keeps all her jewelry and her 249-ton yacht.

The movie stars announced earlier this year that they would end the marriage that culminated a nearly public courtship during the filming of the multimillion dollar movie, "Cleopatra."

The final breakup after several temporary estrangements followed a series of public fights and reunions spanning two continents.

Push For Privacy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford, fearing erosion of personal privacy, called today for prompt and broad federal legislation restricting use of government computer-stored information on individual citizens.

"I believe this is one of the most serious problems we face today — and one of the least realized," Ford said.

He said future abuse of computerized data "threatens to open the most personal affairs of each of us" without swift new safeguards.

"This is not a partisian matter," the vice president said in a speech opening a four-day meeting of the National Broadcast Editorial Association.

He hoped "that agreement can be reached on legislative language in time to get congressional action this year."

Among other things, Ford suggested that the federal law require that the government have no secret record-keeping systems; that all citizens be guaranteed almost unlimited access to any information in files on them; that the government get an individual's permission before providing information to anyone about him, and that steps be taken to protect the security and confidentiality of all material.

$4 Million Ransom

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas yesterday demanded a $4 million ransom and the release of hundreds of prisoners for the return of a kidnaped Mexican senator.

The demands were contained in a communique signed by Lucio Cabanas, leader of the "Poor People's party" guerrilla band.

The group has been blamed for more than 10 years of kidnapings, robberies and attacks on Mexican army convoys in the hills of Guerrero just north of Acapulco.

The letter received by a newspaper demanded "that all the jails in the State of Guerrero be opened" and that an unspecified number of "political prisoners" in federal jails be released.

The Mexican government made no official comment on the communique. Since last October it has refused to deal with terrorists and has twice refused to free prisoners to save kidnap victims.

Sen. Ruben Figueroa disappeared May 30 after he left his home for a mountain rendezvous with Cabanas, presumably to offer the guerrilla leader amnesty.

Sneak Attack

SAIGON (UPI) — Communist troops crept into a key government training camp 21 miles east of Saigon under cover of a heavy shelling barrage today and killed or wounded 35 trainees, the Saigon military command said.

One attacker was captured and another wounded, command spokesman Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien said.

Hien said the insurgents slipped past the heavily defended perimeter of the Yen The Camp, where government special commandos are trained. They launched their attack at 3 a.m. while artillery and mortar fire whistled into the compound.

Field reporters said Communist mortar and artillery fire pounded government positions Tuesday at Prek Tameak, 12 miles northeast of Phnom Penh on the Mekong River.

Interrogations

BELFAST (UPI) — Police today interrogated 25 suspected Irish Republican Army activists arrested in predawn raids on Roman Catholic areas of Belfast.

The raids by British troops yesterday took in 50 suspects, including some women, but 25 were released within four hours of their arrests in the Falls Road, Andersonstown and Turf Lodge areas, police said.

The arrests came amid persistent reports that the Provisional wing of the IRA, leading a bomb and gun campaign to oust British rule, is conducting a hunt in its own ranks for a suspected informer.

Security forces declined to comment, but they indicated past arrests of key Provisionals have followed tip-offs from within the organization.

Japan To Comply

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan, which operates the world's largest whaling industry, said today it would accept the International Whaling Commission (IWC) decision to impose selective moratoriums on commercial whaling.

Yukio Onda, section chief in charge of whaling at the fishery agency, said his agency will comply with the IWC decision made yesterday at a meeting in London.

"Japan should not take any action at this time," Onda said. 'It will do whatever is necessary when the scientific subcommittee changes the safe-catch quotas for the next year."

Onda said, however, that Japan may have to oppose any move to impose a total ban on the catching of fin whales next year.

A GIANT HAUL — Part of the largest marijuana seizure in history is unloaded at San Ysidro, south of San Diego. Five tons were found in asphalt tanker trucks Sunday, leading to discovery of 37 more tons in a Mexicali warehouse yesterday. (UPI Telephoto)

42 Tons Of Marijuana—Biggest Seizure In History—Uncovered

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — U.S. and Mexican officials have confiscated 42 tons of marijuana — the biggest seizure in history — with the discovery of a basement piled with tons of the weed which was to be smuggled into the United States in asphalt trucks to foil potsniffing government dogs.

The seizure was announced by the Drug Enforcement Administration yesterday.

The previous record was 28 tons, found in Culiacan, Mexico, in March 1973, by Mexican investigators, said John Bartles Jr., the DEA administrator.

The marijuana would have been worth $22.8 million in street sales in the United States, he said.

Investigators had been working on the case since January and learned two weeks ago that a big marijuana shipment was to cross the border in supposedly empty asphalt trucks, he said.

The crossings were planned for San Ysidro, which is just south of San Diego and across the border from Tijuana, Mexico.

The trucks are owned by an American firm but leased to an operator in Mexicali, Mexico. They carried asphalt and tar from the United States into Mexico, and supposedly returned empty.

Dogs specially trained to detect the odor of marijuana routinely examine vehicles crossing the border at San Ysidro — the busiest international crossing in the world.

But the strong odors of tar and asphalt masked the smell of marijuana from the dogs, the DEA said.

Inspectors looking into the supposedly empty tanks of two trucks Sunday morning found five tons of marijuana, and arrested two Mexican truck drivers. They were identified as David Gonzales Valle, 32, of Tecate, and Alejandro Lomas Reyes, 43, Mexicali.

Officers said they led U.S. and Mexican investigators to a warehouse on the outskirts of Mexicali. Beneath the floor was a secret hiding place with 37 tons of marijuana, processed and ready for shipment in 22-pound bricks which were stacked six feet high in the cavern, authorities said.

The seizure was not revealed until yesterday because it took Mexican authorities until then to haul away the enormous cache.

Employees of the warehouse were being held for questioning. Mexican sources said one woman had been arrested and two male suspects were being sought.

Public Will Get Impeach Evidence

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee has voted to make public 7,200 pages of confidential impeachment evidence, including the testimony which led a grand jury to name President Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator.

Next, the committee turns to a discussion on whether the witnesses it will question starting next week will be heard in public or private session. They may include some of the big names of the Watergate episode —Charles W. Colson and John W. Dean III among them.

By a 22-16 vote which cut across party lines, the committee — hoping for once to halt leaks — decided yesterday to publish the 36 volumes of evidence it has read and heard in 18 closed sessions over the past six weeks.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., and Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, the ranking Republican, were given broad discretionary power, however, to edit out vulgar language, irrelevancies and materials which could damage defendants' rights to a fair trial.

Rodino was uncertain about when the material would be released. Some members thought it could come out as early as next week, but Rodino said his only goal was to have it out by July 15, when the committee is to start debating whether to recommend impeachment to the House.

Rodino's motive in backing publication was to stop the leaks which have given the White House grounds to criticize his committee.

He argued the public had the right to know the evidence on which the committee would base its recommendations.

But Rep. Don Edwards, D-Cal- if., usually a Rodino ally, argued strongly against release.

If he were Nixon's defense counsel and the House voted to impeach Nixon, he said, he would open the Senate trial by arguing for dismissal of the case on the grounds Nixon's rights had been irreparably prejudiced by publicity from release of the evidence.

He called the vote the committee's "worst mistake."

Rodino ducked the question when reporters asked him how heavily he and Hutchinson would edit the materials.

Nixon Signs Bill To Protect Symbol

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A company or individual making unauthorized commercial use of the government's "Woodsy Owl" symbol could face a possible fine or jail term under legislation signed by President Nixon yesterday.

The bill authorizes the agriculture secretary to collect fees from companies or individuals wanting to make use of the character developed for a public relations campaign against littering and other pollution. Violators of the law are subject to a fine of up to $250 and six months in jail.

Lab Develops A Painless Rabies Serum

BERKELEY (UPI) — Cutter Laboratories has developed a federally-approved serum which can provide painless treatment for rabies.

Cutter officials said yesterday that the serum would be available to the public in August but only in limited supply.

The serum will eliminate the need for persons bitten by rabid animals to undergo the painful and dangerous "Pasteur treatment," which involves a series of inoculations with a serum taken from horses. Many persons suffer an adverse reaction from the horse serum.

Cutter's serum comes from human blood, and there is no adverse reaction, company officials said in a statement.

They explained that the blood comes from those who have rabies antibodies in their system. They said the reason the serum would be in short supply was because there were only a few of these persons.

The antibodies develop in the bloodstreams of those who have recovered from rabies itself. Others with the antibodies are those who have been vaccinated against rabies prior to exposure.

James Goodspeed, Cutter's marketing manager for plasma fractions, said most of the sources for his company's serum were veterinary medicine students at the University of California at Davis.

Those who have undergone the "Pasteur treatment" can also be used as donors, Goodspeed said.

He said the serum was called "Hyperab" and has been approved for sale by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

War Clouds Build Again In Mideast As Warnings Issued

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Egypt threatened today to use its air force to defend Lebanon against Israeli air strikes and Israel warned it stood ready to declare a new Middle East war if necessary to protect itself.

The warnings came in separate interviews as scores of Palestinian refugees fled their camps in Lebanon in fear of Israeli reprisal attacks for an Arab guerrilla raid that killed seven persons at the resort town of Nahariyya.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat told the magazine Al Sayyad in Cairo that he might send the nation's air force to fight in Lebanon if requested by the Lebanese government.

"We stand ready to send our air force immediately to fight the battle in Lebanon, and let Israel bear the consequences," Sadat said. He said Egyptian aid to Lebanon "depends on a decision by the Lebanese government."

"Israel must understand that Lebanon will not be left alone and that the Arabs, and Egypt in the forefront, are not more eager to preserve peace and avoid a fifth war than preserving the people of Lebanon," Sadat said.

In Tel Aviv, Israel's chief of staff Lt. Gen. Mordechai Gur said in an interview in the army magazine Bamahaneh that Israel preserved the option of going to war "if the skies darken."

"It is important to our neighbors to have them know that this option, under which we will declare war in the event that certain conditions evolve —this option remains open," he said. he did not elaborate on the conditions.

In Jerusalem, police said they dismantled three bazooka rockets and exploded them in the past 12 hours.

A police spokesman said one of the rockets was fired at the housing development of Ramat Eshkol during the night but failed to explode. He said the other two were found at a launching site in a nearby ravine and were detonated.

Arab newsmen said Israeli artillery began bombardment of four villages in southeast Lebanon last night and inflicted casualties, but they did not give specific figures.

An Israeli military spokesman denied the attacks took place, but Israeli leaders delivered strong hints reprisal raids would be launched.

Leavenworth Next Stop For Calley

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — Former Army Lt. William L. Calley today was flown to Fort Leavenworth prison while a federal judge considers his plea to be freed of a murder conviction in the My Lai massacre.

Calley, in civilian clothes, boarded a twin-engine Army plane at Fort Benning's Lawson Field for the flight to Kansas.

Kenneth Henson, one of Calley's lawyers, told newsmen he was informed last night that Calley would be sent to Fort Leavenworth after spending a week in the Fort Benning stockade whle an appeal of his sentence was argued in federal court.

Henson said he thought it might be 30 to 45 days before U.S. District Judge J. Robert Elliott rules on Calley's motion although the judge has indicated he may decide in Calley's favor.

Calley, serving a 10-year sentence for the murder of at least 22 civilians in the South Vietnamese hamlet six years ago, was escorted by two military policemen as he walked to the plane. He was not handcuffed.

As has been his custom, Calley made no comment to newsmen who watched him leave.

Silliphant To Wed Saigon Actress

SANTA MONICA, (UPI) — Screenwriter Sterling Silliphant, 55, who won an Academy Award for writing "In the Heat of the Night," took out a license Tuesday to marry Catherine Tian Mayo, 22, a South Vietnamese actress.

They were to be married today in a fashionable restaurant by Superior Court Judge Laurence J. Rittenband. It will be the fourth marriage for Silliphant and the second for Miss Mayo.

dent would take it a little easier.

In Moscow, women in white scarves and orange smocks took up shovels, hoses and lawn clippers today to cut grass and patch potholes in streets in preparation for Nixon's arrival tomorrow. He will hold his first meeting with Breshnev in the afternoon.

In separate sessions today with European leaders, Nixon met first with West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, then with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson and Italian Prime Minister Mariano Rumor.

Nixon told the NATO leaders that "the alliance stands stronger and more united than ever before," and then in public smiled as he signed the new agreement that NATO General Secretary Joseph Luns said assures all member countries of being "stronger and more secure."

The new NATO declaration came 14 months after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger called for a "new Atlantic charter" to include Europe's assuming greater responsiblity for its own defense.

Kissinger's 1973 statement brought an angry response from some NATO members — particularly France — who called it an American attempt to link European trade concessions to U.S. troops levels in Europe. Kissinger complained that the European nations were not doing their part and were treating the United States like a foe instead of an ally.

At European insistence, the charter was split into two declarations. The military section was wrtten by the 15 alliance ambassadors. The part on economic-political matters was drafted by the United States and the nine European Common Market nations. It still has not been completed.

Today's signing was an attempt to reassure all members of their dedication despite their differences. Luns said the document "sets the course of the alliance for the years ahead."

"I believe that, by what has been done today, all our countries are stronger and more secure," said Luns. "... For 25 years the Atlantic alliance has been a force for peace in the world. I am confident that it will continue to be so for so long as we have need of it."

NURSES

groups, Art Mendelson, said he did not know whether the contract settlement would mean increases in hospital rates. "That's up to the individual hospitals," he said.

Asked whether another strike might come at the end of the new contract term, Usery said, "Hopefully, the nurses and employers will work together to avoid any strike."

Usery entered the talks last weekend and kept the negotiators in session for nearly two days straight until agreement was reached at 5 a.m. today.

More than 4,400 nurses went on strike June 7 against 41 private hospitals in Northern California, demanding increased pay and fringe benefits, including a greater say in training of nurses and staffing for specialized treatment.

The talks were at a stalemate until federal mediators entered the dispute last weekend.

Although all the nurses were on strike, they continued to staff emergency and intensive care wards on a volunteer basis until last week. Hospital administrators said the tougher tactics created a "genuine health care crisis" and doctors worked overtime to help care for acutely ill patients.

The nurses' union contended that while the nurses were continuing their volunteer staffing, supervisory personnel and doctors were able to maintain non-emergency services in the hospitals.

"He only advised me to change my room" and made no suggestion on how to get back the ceremonial black belt and $30 in cash that had been stolen, Nikol said. "I got a little mad then and told him, 'No wonder Americans call you people pigs. You're the biggest pig I ever saw.'"

That did it, said Nikol. Woodside told him he was under arrest for being drunk in public and disturbing the peace, handcuffed him and took him away.

Woodside's version is quite different:

Nikol, the deputy said in a report, was "in a completely incoherent and very excited state. He was very abusive verbally and called the reporting officer many names."

Woodside said he told Nikol he was leaving because the coach was being uncooperative, but Nikol chased him into the parking lot and yelled, "You take a report, you pig," followed by a string of obscenities.

After Woodside agreed to come back into the room, the report continued, Nikol again "became a wild man, yelling and slamming his fist on the furniture and walls and throwing his clothes about the room."

When Woodside again tried to leave, Nikol first blocked his way, then shoved the door against the deputy, the report said. Woodside then arrested Nikol.

Back to Nikol: "I didn't resist when he told me I was under arrest. They put me in a room (the jail's drunk tank) not fit for a pig to be in. There was blood and dirt all over the place."

By that time, the deputies and jailors knew he was a karate champion, and Nikol sais they wouldn't let him out of the drunk tank to talk to his lawyer, who had been summoned by a friend.

"They told me they were understaffed and they were afraid I would destroy the whole station," he said.

Every time the deputies went into the tank to question him, they handcuffed him first and one deputy stood behind him and lifted his wrists into a painful position, according to Nikol.

They also refused to give him a breath test for alcohol because they knew it would prove he wasn't drunk but only had had "a few beers," Nikol contended.

Nikol continued his bizarre behavior, often yelling, 'Go ahead, shoot me, shoot me." Woodside said. He also made a supposed telephone call to the Canadian consulate, said Woodside, but when the deputy took the telephone to talk to the consul, there was no one on the line, according to the report.

Nikol, a former boxer who defected to Canada from Yugoslavia for political reasons about 13 years ago, was arraigned later yesterday before Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas on a charge of disturbing the peace and pleaded innocent. A pretrial conference was to be held today.

Whatever the facts surrounding the case, one thing is certain: the incident threatens to scuttle a 12-man Canadian delegation which was to have come to the Bay Area to take part in next weekend's World Invitational Martial Arts Championships.

The event is being sponsored at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium as a benefit for the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

After his arrest, Nikol said he phoned the Canadian delegation, which hadn't left for the Bay Area, and told the members not to come.

"After I cooled down a bit I called them back, but I still don't know if they're coming," he said today.

Nikol admits he had a "few beers" and acknowledged, "I got mad and demanded the guy (Woodside) do something other than give me some advice." But he insists he did not create the disturbance Woodside described.

"This is no way to treat a visitor from another country," he maintained.

Republican Group Selects Treasurer

William Richards of San Rafael, a retired Army colonel, was elected treasurer of the Republican Central Committee of Marin County last night, according to President Bert D. Inman.

He replaces Matthew A. Graham, longtime central committee member and officer, who has resigned to move to Maxwell, Colusa County.

Parnel Finn In Hospital Board Seat

Parnel Finn of Mill Valley, twice an applicant for the Marin Hospital District Board, last night was named to the board to fill the unexpired term of George E. Croke Jr. who will quit July 1.

Mrs. Finn of 19 Roosevelt Avenue unsuccessfully sought an opening on the board last year.

She is a member of the Marin County Personnel Commission and has been on the board of directors of several foundations, including the American Red Cross, the Marin General Hospital Foundation and the Marin Comprehensive Health Planning Council. She is past chairman of the Marin General Hospital Volunteer Council and was a member of the Marin County Grand Jury in 1969-70.

Mrs. Finn holds a nursing degree but is not now practicing.

She will serve the remainder of Croke's term which expires in December 1976.

T. David Fenix of Belvedere and J. Carl Schick of Larkspur also applied for the position. Hospital trustees interviewed all three applicants and met in closed session to select Croke's replacement.

The Marin Hospital District Board also:

SECRETARY — Elected Trustee Marion C. Ibach as secretary to replace Croke.

STAFF — Granted associated privileges on the Marin General Staff to doctors Robert E. Belknap of Mill Valley, Kathryn A. Kirkman of Corte Madera and Mitchell H. Koch of Orinda, and courtesy privileges to doctors Charles F. Eberle of Belvedere and Arthur M. Hoffman of Mill Valley.

ARCHITECT — Approved a $375,000 contract with the Rex Allen Partnership of San Francisco, architects who will do design and contract preparation for the Marin General Hospital expansion.

EQUIPMENT — Authorized the purchase of fluoroscopic radiology equipment for $168,595, emergency radio equipment for $5,581, and a neurological scanner for $564,306 over a five-year lease-purchase.

POLICY — Adopted a policy statement declaring that the hospital will not practice clinical medicine as a result of the proposed expansion. Bolinger said the policy is an assurance to private doctors that the hospital expansion does not mean that it will compete with their private practices.

BONDS — Decided that there is insufficient time to prepare an $8.6 million bond issue for the November ballot so the election to finance expansion of Marin General will be delayed.

CONTRACT — Extended for one month its contract with the county for lease of community mental health facilities and Short-Doyle and Medi-Cal payments. All are still being negotiated and any changes will be effective July 1.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to July 23 at 7 p.m. in the Coral Room of Marin General.

later seek a location for the facility as well as a staff.

Rogers, Dr. Dwight Murray, substance abuse unit chief for the Community Mental Health Services, and a state adviser worked out the proposal.

Additional board members, including many community leaders and officials, also have been added to AlCom but most have not yet attended a board meeting, Rogers said.

The new recovery home "will offer a peer-oriented self-help residential facility that provides food, shelter and rehabilitation services in a supportive nondrinking environment for ambulatory and mentally competent recovering alcoholics," according to the proposal.

The proposal said alcoholics will come to the home on a voluntary basis and it is envisioned that the periods of stay will range from one week to one month for some persons and from one to nine months for "more chronic individuals."

The staff is to be trained to recognize medical problems but patients will be taken to the Marin General Hospital emergency room for treatment, according to the prospectus. Psychiatric care will be provided by "selected members of the Marin psychiatric community," and the Community Mental Health staff will be available for crises.

Included in the expenses for the first two months is $9,750 for one-time charges such as equipment purchase.

During the first two months the facility is to care for at least 12 patients on a continuing basis. It is expected to open Nov. 1.

Guitar Study Supplants Violin

SANTA FE, N. M. (UPI) — School officials have replaced their violin instructing program with something that's a little more in tune with the times — the guitar.

School officials dropped the school's string program last year because of a lack of interest. Principal Joe Casados said the most students ever enrolled in the violin program totaled 15.

Casados said 248 students had already enrolled for the guitar course.

OBITUARIES

Josephine Bedecarrax Dies At 92

Josephine Bedecarrax, former owner of a Mill Valley French laundry and longtime resident of Mill Valley, died yesterday in a Santa Rosa convalescent hospital following a long illness.

A native of France, Mrs. Bedecarrax, 92, came to California 83 years ago. She lived in Mill Valley for 69 years before moving to the home of a daughter at 12 Walnut Circle in Rohnert Park about a year ago.

In Mill Valley she and her late husband, Jean, operated a French laundry and lived for many years on East Blithedale Avenue.

She was a member of the Pocahantas Lodge, Seminole Council No. 68 of San Francisco.

Survivors include her daughter, Madeline Fenton of Rohnert Park; two sons, Edmond and Robert Bedecarrax, of Fairfax, and six grandchildren. She was also the mother of the late Alfred Bedecarrax.

Funeral is at 10 a.m. Friday at Russell and Gooch Mortuary in Mill Valley followed by burial at Mount Olivet Cemetery in San Rafael. The rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the funeral home. Visitation will be after 8 a.m. tomorrow.

Raises Hike Patient Bill At Hospital

Deciding to raise Marin General Hospital rates even higher than recommended by staff, the Marin Hospital District Board last night adopted a 1974-75 budget of $13,531,215, an increase of $1.5 million over this year's spending plan.

Hospital staff had proposed that room rates be hiked between $9 and $50 but trustees increased medical, surgical, obstetric, pediatric, cardiac and intensive care rates by an additional $6.

Thus, all rates were increased by at least $15 and a semiprivate medical-surgical room which formerly cost $77 per day now costs $92.

The change by trustees will mean an additional $400,000 which will be used to cover salary increases to be negotiated in January, according to hospital administrator Ray K. Bolinger.

Staff had prepared a comparison of hospital rates in San Francisco and the East Bay which showed that Marin General rates are still below most hospitals in the survey even with the increases granted last night.

Budget figures for 1974-75 (with last year's figures in parentheses) are: salaries, $7,953,461 ($7,145,766); employee benefits, $920,869 ($857,462); professional fees, $1,720,835 ($1,550,680); supplies, $2,594,532 ($2,171,686; depreciation, $354,394 ($331,801); legal, auditing and miscellaneous, $90,000 ($81,889); and insurance, $206,040 ($154,435).

Grant Set For Bolinas Sewer Plans

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — A federal grant of $1,182,000 for the long-awaited Bolinas sewer project was announced today by officials.

Rep. John L. Burton, D-Sixth District, said the grant from the Environmental Protection Agency will finance 75 per cent of the cost of the sewage treatment and disposal plant to be built by the Bolinas Community Public Utilities District.

Other financing will come from state and district money.

It was reported last month that cost of the entire project has risen to about $1,965,000 from an estimated cost last November of $1,295,000.

Construction of the project is expected to begin soon and be completed before the first rains this fall, district directors said last month.

The project will end dumping of raw sewage into Bolinas Lagoon, a practice the Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board has long sought to halt.

TERMINAL

have centered on the increased capacity of the three new ferryboats, the first of which is expected to be in service by October. They are capable of carrying 750 passengers, 175 more than the present vessel. City officials and citizens believe the larger boats will mean bigger floods of visitors to Sausalito.

The bridge board's only concession was to promise that only 575 passengers at a time will be permitted to ride the new, taller ferries. That promise, however, is only for the life of the temporary facility. Plans are for a permanent downtown terminal that is expected to be complete in about one year.

Water Hike Backed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's Public Utilities Commission approved a water department request yesterday for a 17.4 per cent rate increase.

HERBERT MOORE

A Mass of Christian burial for Herbert J. Moore, father of Janet West of San Anselmo, will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. at St. Columba's Episcopal Church in Inverness.

Moore, 87, died June 17 in a local hospital after a lengthy illness.

A native of Ilfracombe, England, Moore settled in Des Moines, in 1915, enlisted in the Army and later achieved the rank of lieutenant. After World War I, Moore worked as an architect before becoming involved in the Spanish Civil War.

In the early 1940s, Moore headed an Army Corps of Engineers architect team working on the restoration of Fort La Fortaleza in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

He retired in 1948 to the island of Mallorca in Spain for 15 years and then came to Marin in 1965 where he settled in a rest home in Kentfield.

Besides his daughter, Moore is survived by two grandchildren.

Following the mass, committal services will be held at 11:30 a.m. Thursday at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo. Inurnment will be private.

JOSEPH L. BROGAN

Joseph L. Brogan, former Mill Valley resident, died yesterday in an Oakland Hospital after a brief illness. He was 44.

A native of Santa Cruz, Brogan lived most of his life in San Francisco and was a graduate of the University of San Francisco.

Brogan came to Mill Valley in 1964 and worked there as a real estate and insurance agent before returning to San Francisco in 1972.

He is survived by his wife, Catherine, of San Francisco and two children, Sherry and Mark, a brother, Phillip Brogan, of San Francisco and a sister, Patricia Durdell, of Sonoma.

Tomorrow at 10 a.m. a mass of Christian burial will be celebrated for the repose of his soul at St. Isabella's Catholic Church in Terra Linda. Rosary will be recited tonight at 8 o'clock at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael. Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

Private funeral has been held for Bertrand E. Brown, retired contractor and Mill Valley resident for over 40 years.

Brown, 90, died Monday at home after a long illness.

He was a native of London, England, who came to the United States at age 30. He had been in California for 60 years. He resided at 295 Cascade Drive.

He lived and worked as a contractor in Oakland for many years and then moved to Mill Valley in 1930.

YICK OY LEE

Yick Oy Lee, a resident of San Rafael for 43 years, died yesterday in a local hospital following a brief illness. She was 70.

Born in China, Mrs. Lee emigrated to the United States in 1931 and settled in San Rafael where she soon married Toy Lee, owner of a laundry on Second Street.

Mrs. Lee, a housewife, last resided at 248 Union Avenue.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four sons, Jim Lee Poy, Joseph Lee Poy, Donald Lee Poy and Harold Lee Poy of San Rafael, two daughters, Jean Louie of Houston, Tex. and Karen Leong of San Francisco. She is also survived by three grandchildren.

Funeral will be Saturday at 1 p.m. at Cathay Mortuary, San Francisco. Burial will be at the Ning Yung Cemetery, Colma.

WILLIAM LUCAS

Funeral for William W. Lucas, father of Kenneth Lucas, principal of Manor School in Fairfax, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at N. Gray and Co. in San Francisco.

Lucas, who was 80, died Monday at a San Jose rest home.

He was chief electrician for the San Francisco Chronicle for 32 years, and during his long career he designed and built two automated devices for handling newspapers and materials.

He was born in Visalia but moved to San Francisco as a boy. At the time of the 1906 earthquake, he was a newspaper boy and delivered his papers as usual.

He lived many years in the Sunset district of San Francisco.

He retired in 1968 but continued to work part time for the Chronicle for three more years.

In addition to his son in Marin County, he is survived by another son, Donald, principal of Lincoln High School in San Jose; two sisters, Josephine Dreifus and Trinity Lehtinen, both of Sacramento, and six grandchildren.

FLORENCE L. FITZPATRICK

Private burial is planned for Florence Lorie Fitzpatrick of Ross who died Tuesday at her home on Berry Lane.

Miss Fitzpatrick, 64, was born in Dayton, Wash. She later moved with her parents to Sunnyvale in Santa Clara County and also lived for many years in San Francisco.

In 1959, Miss Fitzpatrick moved to Ross where she lived on Berry Lane until her death. She was employed as the office manager und bookkeeper for a San Francisco based advertising firm.

Miss Fitzpatrick is survived by four sisters, Helen David of Ross, Charlene MacKillop of Honolulu, Hawaii, Lois Notaro of Burlingame in San Mateo County, Francis Burnham of Australia and a brother, Frank Fitzpatrick of Petaluma.

MRS. KAISER

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Funeral services for Mrs. Edgar F. Kaiser, who died in Moscow last Sunday, will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church tomorrow.

The services will be held at 2 p.m. and attended by family and close friends.

Mrs. Kaiser, wife of the industrialist, suffered a heart attack during a visit to the Soviet Union with her husband, who had been scheduled to attend a business conference there.

MARY HOWELL

Private service has been held for Mary E. Howell, an 18-year resident of Marin.

Mrs. Howell, 93, died at home Sunday following a brief illness. She resided at 245 Evergreen Avenue in Mill Valley.

She was the widow of Moses Howell, a railroad engineer.

HENRY HEWETT

Private service has been held for Henry E. Hewett, retired owner of an Educational Records Co. and six-year Marin resident.

Hewett, 67, died Monday at Marin General Hospital after a long illness.

A native of Massachusetts, he had lived in California for 26 years, first in Los Angeles and then in San Rafael. He resided at 918 Lea Drive at the time of his death.

Survivors include his wife, Lottie, of San Rafael; a stepson, Dennis Regan of San Rafael, and five step-grandchildren.

MOUNT TAMALPAIS CEMETERY

Natural Marin Beauty

for those who've loved our county

The beauty of Mount Tamalpais Cemetery is typically Marin. Here in a setting of soft, rolling hills and lovely vistas are Marin's native trees and shrubs, accented by beautiful lawns and flowers.

For over 90 years leading Marin families have chosen Mount Tamalpais as a final resting place. One good reason is the substantial endowment fund which assures the care and maintenance of this cemetery in the years ahead.

We invite your inspection of this peaceful site. Our staff is always ready to answer your questions and describe Mount Tamalpais facilities.

CHECKING THE HARDWARE

As gleaming handguns are held aloft in military fashion, Inspector Theodore Parnow moves down the long beige line of California Highway Patrol officers. The annual inspection which took place yesterday at the National Guard Armory in Santa Venetia checks the condition of officers' uniforms, equipment, and personal grooming. Parnow, of Fairfax, is deputy commander for the patrol in the Bay Area.

Four Members Of Family Slain; Motive Puzzles East Bay Police

"It's very bizarre," Police Lt. Robert Wilson said.

"They were one of the nicest families around here," said a neighbor, Joyce Figueira, 31.

Police discovered the bodies because of a telephone call by a worried employer who couldn't understand why Edward Blaiser, 43, had not shown up for work.

All the victims had been shot in the head with a small-caliber gun but the weapon could not be found, although detectives discovered a pair of plastic gloves with cartridges wrapped inside about 75 yards from the one story frame house.

Blaiser was a civilian employe at the Alameda Naval Air Station and his wife, Patricia, 37, worked as a secretary for the Pacific Intermountain Express Co.

The other victims were their children, Robert Blaiser, 15, and Deborah, 13.

Another son, Kenneth, 16, was working at a summer job in Modesto, neighbors said.

Although three Oakland policemen live next door to the Blaiser home, they reported they didn't hear any shots.

Before the bodies were found, five teen-age friends of the Blaiser children had called at the house but had not noticed anything unusual.

One of those youths, Randy Kern, 14, went inside the house to borrow a raft, saw a telephone off the hook and replaced it without noting anything out of the ordinary.

He said he had heard the telephone's dial tone and replaced it on the hook because he "figured they didn't want to be disturbed."

Japanese Films Due U.S. Airing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirteen classic Japanese films will be adapted for American television under a $448,427 grant announced today by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

"The Japanese Film" will be shown on the Public Broadcasting Service this November and will include Akiro Kurosawa's "Sanjuro," Kenji Mizoguchi's "Sansho the Baliff," Tadashi Imai's "The Night Drum" and Teinosuke Kinugasa's "Gates of Hell."

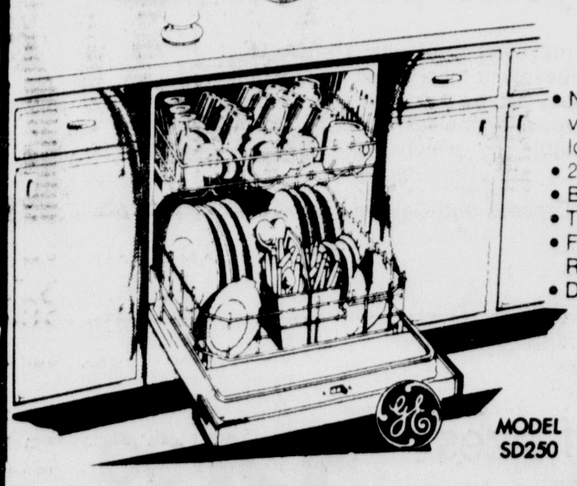

The series will be produced by KQED-TV, (Channel 9), San Francisco.

Winds Scour East Coast; Midwest Chill

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Storms ravaged the Atlantic Coast from Florida to Maine today. A summer Northeaster tossed pleasure and fishing vessels like popping corn off the Massachusetts coast.

The Coast Guard went to the aid of two fishing vessels off Cape Cod. Helicopters were sent to one boat which reported engine failure about 10 miles south of Chatham. A helicopter dropped a pump to the four-man crew of another vessel, and a Coast Guard boat went to the scene until an 82-foot patrol boat arrived to take the stricken vessel into tow.

In Squantum, a section of Quincy, Mass., winds gusting to 40 miles per hour were reported to have sunk or beached six to eight smaller boats. A spokesman said many boats were tossed around, flipped over and many dragged anchor. Sailing and motor boats at the Quincy Yacht Club were wrenched from their moorings.

Up to nine inches of rain drenched the Florida peninsula as a low pressure center treked north towards North Carolina. Small craft warnings were up from Appalachicola around the Florida Keys to Portland, Maine, and gale warnings were posted for the North Carolina coast.

Coast Guard officials said they were kept busy pulling ashore disabled vessels, including two off Port Boca Grande, Fla., with 10 persons aboard.

The high-powered winds pushed tides up four feet above normal, eating away the Florida coastline. Winds tore across the southeast at speeds up to 40 knots.

The National Hurricane Center in Miami said the low pressure system appeared to absorb a tropical depression in the southwestern Gulf, but later satellite pictures showed the tropical depression still hovered over the Yucatan Peninsula in Mexico.

Rain fell over most of the Atlantic Coast and extended west to the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley. Close to one-half inch of rain hit Bangor, Maine, in six hours.

A high pressure center, stalled over Wisconsin, dropped temperatures into the 50s from the Northeast to the northern and central plains. New York and Scranton, Penn., set record lows with 60 degree readings yesterday.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 99 degrees at Blythe, Calif., to 41 degrees at Marquette County Airport in Michigan.

In New York, the temperature dipped to 56 degrees, tying the record low for the date that was set in 1893.

Court Defends Topless Dance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dancing, even nude dancing, is a form of expression protected by the First Amendment and may not be prohibited by local authorities, the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled yesterday.

A three-judge panel of the appellate court, in a 2-1 decision, upheld a lower court ruling permitting nude dancing in Hempstead, N.Y., a Long Island community where police were trying to prosecute the owners of a topless bar.

"Dancing is a form of expression protected by the First Amendment," the court held. "Even nude dancing in a bar can be within the constitutional protection of free expression. To the extent that this expression is constitutionally protected, the town may not prohibit it."

Royalty In Canada

TORONTO (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mother, flying with a planeload of Canadian servicemen and their families, arrived yesterday from London to begin a week-long private visit to Toronto and Montreal.

Skeleton Revives British Spy Mystery

LONDON (UPI) — On a frosty October evening in 1971, Sir John Peregrine Henniken-Heaton, a former British secret agent with a Van Dyke beard, told his wife he was going 'round to his cricket club for a drink.

The veteran of years of cloak-and-dagger espionage in the Middle East stepped out of his Victorian-style villa in the quiet suburb of Ealing, slipped into the enveloping chill and vanished.

Police today reported a startling development in the case of the missing British baronet. It had all the makings of a great whodunit.

On Sunday, Henniker-Heaton's son Yvo was rummaging about the house in search of a box to store some papers. He came across a lone key pushed into a desk.

Yvo twisted the key in the lock on his father's smoking den and the door eased open for the first time in three years.

Inside on a bed, Yvo found his father's skeleton. An empty bottle lay nearby and an apparent suicide note was found in the pocket of his suit, police said.

Scotland Yard officials said today the discovery ended one mystery that touched off an international intelligence and police search when Henniken-Heaton vanished.

But they said the discovery also posed some additional questions about the bizarre circumstances of his death.

During the bloody years of the birth of Israel, Henniken-Heaton was in charge of British security in Palestine and the target of at least four assassination attempts by bombs blamed on Jewish underground groups.

When his wife, Lady Margaret, reported the disappearance, all of Britain's security agencies and Interpol were called in to investigate.

The family said at the time they believed he was the victim of Arab or Israeli guerrillas.

Secret service agents followed up tips he was murdered because of his continued Middle East connections, that he had been kidnaped and that his body had been dumped in chains into a flooded gravel pit near London.

The trails led nowhere.

Police sources said today a preliminary autopsy had failed to establish the cause of death. A coroner's inquest was ordered for tomorrow to begin the formal inquiry into the mystery of the locked door.

Scotland Yard officials raised some key unsolved points in the mystery:

Why was the ground floor room at the rear of the house not searched in the beginning? Police said they had been told at the time that the house had been combed from top to bottom.

With Lady Margaret, their son, a boarder and three dogs living in the house how did the presence of the body remain undetected, especially in the period immediately after death?

Black Caucus Urges Care On VA Official

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Congressional Black Caucus has urged President Nixon to nominate someone with a "genuine compassion" for veterans as the new head of the Veterans Administration.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., head of the caucus, yesterday said that to date, the VA had failed to meet its responsibility to men and women who risked their lives in defense of the country.

Mod Tycoon Invades Car Industry

WHAT'S A BRICKLIN? — It's a new car. It was put on the market yesterday by Arizona industrialist Malcolm Bricklin, who peers from beneath one of the sporty auto's gull-wing doors in a New York City unveiling. Bricklin says the $6,500 two-seater boasts unusual safety features that will make it competitive with Detroit. (UPI Telephoto)

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first new car produced in commercial quantity in the last 28 years, a sporty $6,500 two-seat fastback with elaborate safety features, made its public debut yesterday.

It is called a Bricklin, after Malcom Bricklin, 35, president of the new Phoenix, Ariz.-based General Vehicle Inc.

Twenty-eight years ago Henry J. Kaiser introduced the unsuccessful Kaiser automobile.

The car is being assembled in St. John, N.B., Canada, with plans for another assembly plant to be located in the southwestern United States next year.

Asked why he thought his car should fare any better than others which have tried to break the Detroit Big Three monopoly, Bricklin, a handsome man who disdains ties and tends toward mod dress, said he was after a share of the market Detroit wasn't interested in.

He also said he thought the Bricklin's European racing styling and its advanced safety features would prove attractive to this segment of the American car-buying public.

"We can make a profit on sales of 1,000 cars per month," said Bricklin, who was a millionaire by the time he was 25 when he conceived a hardware franchise chain that grew from three stores in Orlando, Fla., to 149 Handyman outlets throughout the country in 18 months.

"We're geared to go up to 50,000 units a year, with the first deliveries sometime in late July," he said.

Safety features on the new car include:

A bumper system that is designed to withstand impacts in excess of federal safety standards.

A perimeter box steel frame instead of the conventional U-frame, giving four-sided energy absorption rather than three-sided. (The "gull wing" doors are hinged to the roof and open from the bottom up.)

Integral roll cage protection.

An individually closed engine and fuel tank, isolating two danger areas from the passenger compartment.

Bricklin said the car would get from 15 to 20 miles per gallon.

Holiday Gasoline Should Be Plentiful

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American Automobile Association says motorists should find plentiful supplies of gasoline even though the traffic volume is expected to increase sharply during the coming Fourth of July holiday period.

The AAA said a survey of 5,556 gasoline stations around the nation showed that only one in 100 reported dry tanks. The percentage of stations pumping fuel after 6 p.m. weeknights increased to 70 per cent from 69 per cent last week while 62 per cent said they now operate after 6 p.m. Saturday and half of them on Sundays.

Antipollution Law Delay Is Signed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has signed a bill empowering the government to order power plants to burn coal instead of scarce oil and gas.

The act, intended to conserve scarce energy sources, also postpones additional controls on automobile exhaust emissions possibly until 1978 models and delays enforcement of more stringent downtown parking regulations in some cities as a step to reduce auto pollution.

500 Battling Plumas National Forest Blaze

SUSANVILLE (UPI) — Nearly 500 men today battled a fire which blackened 1,500 acres of brush and timber in the Plumas National Forest about 15 miles south of here.

A spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service said 485 men were on the fire lines and five bulldozers were being used to fight the blaze which broke out at mid-morning yesterday. Six air tankers dropped fire retardants on the blaze.

The spokesman said the fire was spread yesterday by southwesterly winds up to 30 miles per hour.

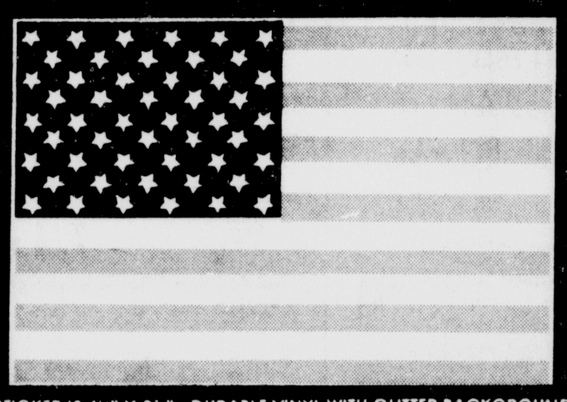

Firefighters made no estimate on when the fire could be contained.

Another Burton Takes His Oath

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House of Representatives now has a team of brothers —Rep. John L. Burton and Rep. Phillip Burton, both Democrats and both from San Francisco.

John Burton was sworn in yesterday by House speaker Carl Albert to fill the unexpired term of William S. Mailliard, a Republican who resigned his Sixth District seat to become ambassador to the Organization of American States.

To fill the unexpired term, John Burton had to win a special election and he will have to run again in November if he wants a full term.

On hand to witness the ceremony was the brothers' widowed mother, Mildren Burton, who predicted they would be quite successful in politics.

Also there were John Burton's daughter, Kimi, 9, and the brothers' brother, Robert, an educator.

After taking office John Burton cast his first vote —to cut the number of White House aides in the highest pay brackets.

In a congressional report two years ago, consumer activist Ralph Nader predicted the brothers would soon head a "new political dynasty on the West Coast to rival the East Coast's Kennedys."

Ike's Son Given General's Star

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John S.D. Eisenhower, son of the late president and five-star general Dwight D. Eisenhower, rose only to the rank of colonel in nearly 20 years of active army duty.

Yesterday, he made it to general, when the Army Reserve gave him his first star. His name appeared on the list of reserve colonels confirmed as brigadier generals by the Senate.

Eisenhower, whose son David married President Nixon's daughter Julie, quit the army in 1963 after 19½ years, giving up a pension he would have earned had he stayed in one day more than 20 years.

Justice's Wife Gets Status Before Bar

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Cathy Douglas, the wife of Associate Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, was sworn in yesterday as an attorney to practice before the federal bar in the Distroct of Maryland.

Mrs. Douglas, 31, already had been admitted to practice before the District of Columbia bar.

Supervisors Back Plan On 'Surplus Water Use'

Marin County supervisors agreed yesterday to support state legislation aimed at permitting the Marin Municipal Water District to continue serving "surplus water users" outside district boundaries. (Another supervisors story, page 1.)

The board's 3-to-2 vote lifted a legislative roadblock thrown up by supervisors some months ago when they refused to endorse the bill.

Supervisors Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Robert A. Roumiguiere called the measure "bad legislation designed to get the water district off the hook."

Unless the measure passes, the water district claims it will be forced to cut off service to "surplus water users" such as the Muir Woods National Monument, the Army forts in Southern Marin and about 25 homes on Wolfback Ridge.

Under existing law, the water district can not service users outside district boundaries if a water connection moratorium has been declared and service refused new users inside the district. Such a moratorium was imposed a year ago.

The water district's proposed legislation says it "may" provide service to existing users outside the district once a moratorium has been declared.

Assembly Bill 3859 by Assemblyman Jack T. Knox, D-Richmond, was introduced earlier this year for the water district but was dropped when Knox learned supervisors did not endorse it.

Tom Thorner, the water district's attorney, told supervisors yesterday that Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, has agreed to reintroduce the bill in the Senate if supervisors approve.

He said water would be supplied to present users outside the district for "human consumption, sanitation and fire protection."

Supervisor Michael Wornum, who strongly opposed the measure when first suggested by water district director Jack R. Felson, led the support for it yesterday.

Adoption was opposed by David Greenlee of the Marin Builder's Exchange who said it was unfair to service outside users and at the same time refuse new hookups to those inside the district.

Marin County Board Of Supervisors Also:

REZONING — Accepted a planning commission recommendation to rezone several small parcels owned by the Kent Estate in the Northridge area above Larkspur to permit one home for every five acres. Attorney Roger Kent protested that action. Other small parcels in the Northridge and Sleepy Hollow-San Rafael Divide areas were zoned to allow greater density.

CLAIM — Rejected a $250,000 claim from Paula Diane Levenberg of Mill Valley who said her ovaries became infected as a result of swimming in polluted water at Muir Beach.

FUNDS — Granted $2,000 to Operation Give a Damn in Marin City to operate a drug education program this summer.

FIRE — Asked the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission to consider forming county service areas to provide improved fire protection to unincorporated neighborhoods north and south of Puerto Suello Hill in San Rafael.

ORDINANCE — Set next Tuesday for a hearing on an ordinance increasing the hotel-motel tax to 6 per cent of a visitor's lodging bill. Currently, the tax is 5 per cent.

FIREWORKS — Approved $250 for fireworks at the Tiburon 10th Anniversary celebration and $100 for fireworks at the Point Reyes Station Fourth of July celebration.

APPOINTMENTS — Appointed Lily Whittle, Lotte McWaters, Robert Tanum and Peggy Hughes to the auditorium, cultural and fair advisory commission and expanded the commission from seven to nine members.

BOX OFFICE — Accepted the bid of Donald J. Hyams of Bolinas for operating the Marin Veterans Memorial Building box office. His was the only one of three bids received to meet standards.

REFORM — Appointed supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni to meet with the National Women's Political Caucus-Marin and County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney regarding electoral reform at the local level.

GEORGE P. LEONARD
Makes Offer

$20,000 Is Offered For Office

Former Marin County planning commissioner George P. Leonard of Stinson Beach yesterday made an offer to donate up to $20,000 in matching funds for a headquarters for the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

Leonard's offer, as told to the Marin County Board of Supervisors, is to match all gifts of $1,000 or more up to the $20,000 amount. He set a time limit of Dec. 1 for the offer.

The money is to be used either for a new headquarters for the senior citizens' group or for adding to the present facility, Whistlestop, in the old railroad building in San Rafael.

Leonard has given the senior council a $5,000 check to back his offer.

Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the council, said a campaign will be undertaken to raise the matching $20,000. It was also suggested that additional federal or other funds may be obtained.

The Reserve Funds Spent

Marin County supervisors appropriated $471,500 in reserve fundsduring the last 12 months and spent all but $3,908, county Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell has reported.

Most of the funds were accumulated from "salary savings" or the amount saved from temporarily vacant positions.

They were spent on a host of unbudgeted items ranging from overtime pay to sheriff's deputies to a controversial consultant's study for the grand jury.

Seven Killed In Border Incident

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Portuguese troops opened fire on an angry crowd of black miners yesterday, killing seven men and wounding six others, the army command said.

A crowd of 600 black miners returning home from South Africa to Mozambique by train refused to allow customs officials at the Ressano Garcia border post go through their baggage, the army said.

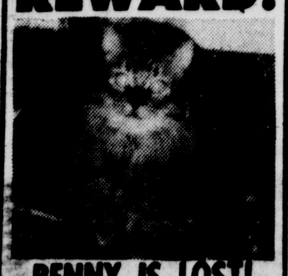

The miners began shouting down an army officer stationed at the border called in to explain the change in regime in Lisbon did not change Mozambique customs regulations, the army said.

The crowd tried to disarm the officer who summoned four of his troops. They opened fire in the railroad station.

Mill Valley Budget

Mill Valley's proposed 1974-75 budget of $3,077,025 will be discussed at a council hearing tomorrow at 8 p.m. at Mill Valley City Hall, according to City Mgr. Ronald L. Usher.

Board Raps Planner Goof On Tardy Nicasio Lot Split

By ERIK M. INGRAM

Calling it "absolutely preposterous," Marin County Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini yesterday demanded a full explanation of how the planning department could process a Nicasio Land division in violation of existing zoning.

Giacomini's show of anger came after supervisors agreed "as a matter of equity" to grant Lone Star Land Corp. an additional six months to complete the land division.

The planning department problem, labeled "a monumental screw up" by Giacomini, involves red tape which tangled beginning in September 1972, when the planning department approved Lone Star's application to divide a 30-acre parcel on Nicasio Valley Road into three 10-acre pieces.

The approval was given with a list of conditions to be performed within 18 months by Lone Star before the land division could be recorded.

Lone Star appealed several of the conditions to the planning commission, which upheld the appeal in April 1973. But before planning commission hearing, the land was rezoned to A-60, meaning it could no longer be divided. Also, new state law reduced the time for completing improvements from 18 months to 12 months.

Neither change was pointed out to the planning commission which approved the 10-acre lots in violation of A-60 zoning.

Earlier this year Lone Star's 12 months ran out and the planning department told the firm its tentative land division approval was void.

Lone Star representatives told supervisors yesterday that they never were told of the 12-month timetable, but were told not to worry about the zoning change to A-60.

Supervisors asked how the land division could have been processed in view of the zoning change. Chief of Current Planning Harvey E. Bragdon said he was not familiar with the case since it had been handled by Planner E. Ross Parkerson, who left county development about a month ago.

The board then granted the full 18-month schedule for land division improvements, saying Lone Star had been misled.

Armed Rescue Try Fails; Boys Held

A kidnapping and a futile try by former Sunny Hills residents to rescue friends from a San Mateo juvenile hall was termed "unfortunate" and "unusual" today by the director of the San Anselmo facility.

Two armed teen-agers were arrested Monday after they tried to free five friends from the Hillcrest Juvenile Hall.

Norman Herstein, executive director of Sunny Hills, today reported the background leading up to the incident.

He said two teen-age boys had been discharged from Sunny Hills some weeks ago because they refused to cooperate in the residential program, aimed at helping troublesome teen-agers.

The two were sent to Marin Juvenile Hall but subsequently escaped from there, Herstein said. Twice they then made night forays back to Sunny Hills, once stealing $50 and recruiting three more boys to join them and on the second occasion, persuading two girls to leave the home with them.

The girls were "shaky" in the program, Herstein said, "but I think they could have benefited" ffrom the facility.

The seven simply disappeared about two weeks ago, the director continued. He termed this most unusual "because most kids (who leave) are found in a day or so."

Then on Sunday morning five of the youngsters were found by San Mateo authorities at a makeshift camp in the hills west of San Mateo and were taken to the juvenile hall.

That evening, according to San Mateo police, two teen-age boys called a taxi to a San Mateo motel, and armed with a pellet pistol, a .22-caliber automatic rifle and a bow and arrow, ordered the taxi driver to drive them to the juvenile hall.

As the two held a rifle to the taxi driver's head, they ordered him to step aside so they could bolt inside when the door was opened. Instead, the taxi driver managed to get inside and lock the door behind him.

He and a guard called police, who later found the two youths in the nearby countryside. They have been charged with kidnapping.

Herstein said that most of the teen-agers who come to Sunny Hills, a voluntary unlocked facility, "face their problems and work on them." A few, however, like the two boys Herstein believes led the seven, are "very difficult kids" who are "knowledgeable about the ways of the world."

Youngsters at Sunny Hills come from various Bay Area counties and either have been in trouble or "starting to get into trouble." They stay an average of 18 months, he said.

"We can work with most kids, at least to some extent," Herstein said, but he later added, "You can't win 'em all."

Chemical Cancer Danger Studied

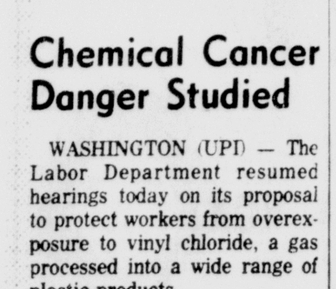

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Labor Department resumed hearings today on its proposal to protect workers from overexposure to vinyl chloride, a gas processed into a wide range of plastic products.

Scientists have linked 19 cases of angiosarcoma, a form of liver cancer, to exposure to vinyl chloride and the government has proposed that workers should be exposed to "no detectable level" of vinyl chloride.

Something Fishy

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Missouri has been apportioned $144,922 in federal aid for fish restoration and $723,361 for wildlife restoration and hunter safety, according to the State Conservation Commission.

Berkeley Sets Tax On Sports Tickets Sales

BERKELEY (AP) — The City Council here has voted unanimously to levy a 10 per cent tax on gross ticket sales on Oakland Raiders games and other professional sporting events held within the city limits.

The council also passed a resolution last night urging University of California Berkeley Chancellor Albert Bowker to stop scheduling pro sports events on campus.

The council has been critical of the traffic congestion caused by games.

False Alarms

MENLO PARK (UPI) — There were 1,675,697 fire alarms in the United States during 1971 of which 420,260 were false, Stanford Research Institute estimates.

Quentin Peninsula Housing Plan Pushed

The City of Larkspur should do what it can to see that low-income and moderate-income housing is included in a development proposed for San Quentin Peninsula, the planning commission decided last night.

Planning director John E. Roberto said commissioners recommended that the city council form a committee "to explore the possibility and feasibility" of such housing in the project planned by Lincoln Property Co. of Menlo Park. The firm plans restaurants, offices and apartments on the peninsula.

The committee should include representatives of the Marin County Housing Authority, Larkspur City Council and Planning Commission, the developer, the Ecumenical Housing Association and the city planning staff, according to the commission.

The planning commissioners also endorsed the housing authority's attempts to see that housing for low and moderate income families is built in Marin under the county general plan.

The Larkspur Planning Commission also:

IMPACT REPORT — Approved an environmental impact report for the 30-unit Skylark townhouse project.

GUIDELINES — Postponed until its July 9 meeting preparation of guidelines for an environmental impact report on the San Quentin Peninsula development plan by Lincoln Property Co.

CAR CRASH ON NORTH SAN PEDRO ROAD

A Marin County fireman checks for gasoline leaks near an overturned sports car in the dry brush off North San Pedro Road. The Highway Patrol said the auto, driven by Sidney B. Anderson, 19, of 1006 Green Oak Drive, Novato skidded off the road and overturned shortly before 5 p.m. yesterday. Andersen suffered a broken jaw and was reported in good condition today at Marin General Hospital. Passenger Cherie Pozo, 15, of 780 Pine Lane, San Rafael, complained of pain and also was treated at the hospital.

Novato Fills Vacancies On Commission

Margaret A. Coady, city historian, and Lewis E. Fredrickson, assistant county flood control engineer, were appointed to the Novato Planning Commission last night by the Novato City Council.

They will succeed Albert Solnit, who resigned recently, and Daniel P. Donovan, who wasn't reappointed.

Mrs. Coady, of 747 Bradley Avenue, is a former member of the city's beautification committee and has arranged historical displays at city hall.

Fredrickson, of 1036 Third Street, is a civil engineer with the Marin County Flood Control District.

Dorothy Mariani, a substitute teacher, of 6 Washington Street, was appointed to the parks and recreation commission to succeed Sandra Karlovic, who resigned.

The council also appointed C. Shannon Murphy, proprietor of the Novato Art Center, 808 Grant Avenue, and Anthony Fornos, an engineer, of 11 Betty Lane, to the plan review committee.

William Lockett, of 2804 Topaz Drive, and Anna Cox of 652 McClay Road, were appointed to the environmental quality committee. They succeed Joseph Y. Seminario and Carolyn Jones who were no longer eligible because they live outside the city.

Harassment Of Guards Is Admitted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A longtime inmate of San Quentin Prison's tough adjustment center admitted under cross examination yesterday he had stabbed prison guards with pencils and ball point pens.

Hugo A. Pinell, 29, was the fourth of six prison inmates to testify in a civil rights suit charging the prison's adjustment center, a maximum security block, was unconstitutional. They charge inmates are subject to cruel and unusual punishment.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Sanford Svetcov sought to prove Pinell had a long history of violence and behavioral problems at the prison.

He asked Pinell if there had been "more than 50 instances" of confrontations with guards and Pinell replied, "I don't keep count of it."

Pinell, on the stand for the third day before U.S. District Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli, has been convicted of voluntary manslaughter, killing a guard, and assault for stabbing a fellow inmate.

Vocational Training To Be Expanded

A five-year master plan for the Marin County Regional Occupational Program which envisions greatly increasing the number of vocational training classes in Marin high schools was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

Under the program, which would include increased cooperation between the county schools office and the Marin's high schools, such classes as janitorial maintenance, horticulture, dairying, graphics communication and data processing would be offered.

Robert E. Spain, assistant county superintendent of schools, said that if the plan is carried out, the occupational training program would be tripled from its present size.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

BUDGET — Set July 9 for completion of budget review for 1974-75 and consideration of raises for employees.

PRINCIPALS — Approved a new schedule for principals of schools operated by the district which would require the principals to work 215 days a year instead of 230 without reduction in pay.

TAMALPAIS — Agreed to back Marin County officials in an attempt to have the Tamalpais retirement center remain on tax rolls.

ATTENDANCE — Approved appeals of three families in the Sausalito School District who want their children to attend Mill Valley School District schools.

BID — Accepted the low bid of $17,220 from Pacheco and Sarmiento for 1974-75 maintenance of the Manzanita and Novato children's centers.

MEETING — Adjourned to July 9 for the annual organizational meeting of the board at which officers will be elected.

Approval Withheld On Church Center

The San Rafael Planning Commission last night withheld approval of an environmental impact report for a church and office building on a knoll off Highway 101, pending more study by staff and environmental consultants.

Proposed are 14 buildings totaling 50,000 square feet and a 17,000-square-foot church on a 6.84-acre site north of Le Chateau restaurant and Las Gallinas Valley Golf Course.

The development, envisioned as a regional center for California Conference of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America, would require grading 200,000 cubic yards of earth from the top of the hill site, leveling the knoll from an elevation of 150 feet to an elevation of 100 feet.

Commissioners said last night they need more information on the tax-exempt status of the church, and asked for more review of the development's impact on traffic at the Highway 101-Lucas Valley interchange, according to senior planner Dwight A. Winther.

An impact report by Williams and Mocine lists these significant environmental effects: topography alteration; reduction of permeable surface area; alteration of water flow patterns; a localized decrease in erosion, and increased traffic.

City staff has recommended that alternative site plans be studied to minimize grading.

Commissioners Alan M. Kay and John A. Starkweather were absent.

The San Rafael Planning Commission Also:

SETBACK — Approved a front yard setback for a residence proposed at 279 Bungalow Avenue, a site neighbors have urged the city buy as open space. Commissioners Dorothy L. Breiner and Donn E. Nissen opposed the setback.

MARIN OPEN HOUSE — Extended for one year a use permit for Marin Open House, a drug treatment facility at 1466 Lincoln Avenue.

TELE-VUE — Approved a permit for a warehouse and office facility requested by Tele-Vue Systems Inc. at 60 Golden Gate Drive.

TENNIS — Approved a retail commercial, warehouse and tennis teaching facility at 25 Dodie Street, but said that one of three buildings in the complex must be redesigned.

DESIGN REVIEW — Approved design and environmental review of a 14-unit apartment complex at 1476 Lincoln Avenue, an office building at 35 Professional Center Parkway and a restaurant planned for 809 Irwin Street.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall to discuss the city general plan.

National Forest Closed To Public

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. Forest Service yesterday closed most of Los Padres National Forest to the public for the summer because of "emergency" fire conditions.

Heavy winter snowfall smashed down so many trees and brush that dry "blowup" fuel is lying throughout the forest.

The situation has "created an extreme fire hazard," said Robert Lancaster, of the U.S. Forest Service.

Planners To Discuss Tiburon Plan Impact

The environmental impact report for the proposed Sequoia Pacific development for downtown Tiburon will be discussed at a planning commission meeting today at 8 p.m. at Tiburon City Hall, according to Planning Director Robert E. Fosnot.

Fosnot said that the commission will be reviewing the reactions of other local governmental agencies to the report.

Sierra Bank cares about you as well as your money.

Banks are not generally known for being big-hearted institutions. But let's face it, there are banks and there are banks. One of the many unique things about Sierra National Bank is the special attention our people give our customers. And we're proud to be a part of the community.

Sierra Bank can do more for you than those giant, impersonal banks.

First, we're not like the big state-wide banks. Our interests and commitments are right here in Marin, and Sonoma Counties. We care about our community and we think it shows in the way we work with you. When your Sierra man or woman helps you with a money problem, they don't have to "check with Montgomery Street" like some of the big boys do. Every service we offer is performed right in your own community. In banking today, attitude and personal service mean more than sheer size. And you have every element of government insurance with Sierra that you do with the giants.

We're small, flexible and stream-lined compared with the giant banks. That makes its easier for us to respond to local people's banking needs.

—A Free Checking Account
With only $100 minimum balance . . .

Most of the big state-wide banks require a $200 to $300 minimum for a free checking account. We give you the same thing for only $100 minimum balance. Here's what Free Checking means. No service charge and postage paid both ways by Sierra. All the services of a checking account at no charge.

Evergreen Checking Account

There's also the famous Evergreen Checking Account. This is a bounce-proof checking account which covers checks written beyond your balance up to a specified maximum overdraft amount. And if you've ever overdrawn your checking account, you know Evergreen Checking is a very nice thing to have.

—Loans, Loans, Loans

Auto Loans, Home Improvement and Mortgage Loans, Business Loans, Debt Consolidation Loans, Travel Loans, Education Loans. If you can think of a reason to borrow money, we'll probably think of a reason to loan it to you. And at extremely competitive rates, of course.

Very interesting interest on savings accounts.

There's a lot of conflicting information floating around these days about Interest Rates on Savings Accounts. We'll try to simplify this. On specified types of accounts, Sierra National pays the highest interest the federal government will allow.

Passbook Savings	5% Annual Rate
90 days—less than 1 year	5½% Annual Rate*
1 year/$500 minimum	6% Annual Rate*
2½ year/$500 minimum	6½% Annual Rate*
4 year/$1000 minimum	7% Annual Rate*

Compare these rates with those of other savings institutions, and you'll see why Sierra's interest on savings can be more interesting to you.

Your Sierra Bank branch managers.

Get to know these people. They're your neighbors and they certainly want to know you.

Drop in and talk over your money situation.
That's what we're here for. And the coffee's on us.

ORGANIC JOHN Calella of Kentfield prepares food for the diet he has developed which excludes meat, fish and fowl and combines fruits, vegetables, grains and nuts to create his optimum diet. The theory has been illustrated on a poster (behind him) which he will explain at the Marin Art and Garden Fair July 6 and 7. He is also writing a book "Let There Be Salade" and developing a game which expounds his theories.

ORGANIC JOHN'S IDEAS

Strict Vegetarian Says Balance All-Important

By JOAN LISETOR

John Calella was a "fat, Italian baby" until he developed a new way of eating in 1960.

Calella, who lives in Kentfield and calls himself "Organic John," is a vegetarian in the strictest sense — no fish, fowl or dairy products. His diet consists of fruits and vegetables, nuts and occasionally grains.

It is not just the foods but how they are combined, according to his philosophy. He calls his philosophy "Salade," which is also the title of the book he is writing, explaining the concept.

"Salade is the relationship between man and food," he said. "There are no health foods, only the proper combination. An orange is healthy unless the person has a high acid content."

Salade is the beginning of the universal reinforcement of man, according to Calella.

"The salad as we know it is something we throw together with lettuce and mayonnaise, and every mouthful tastes the same. In my salads every mouthful tastes different, rather than of the dressing," he said.

CALELLA NEVER combines fruits and vegetables, nor does he believe that certain fruits or vegetables combine. To illustrate his nutritional beliefs Calella has had a poster designed, which will have its first public exposure at the Marin Art and Garden Center Fair July 6 and 7.

The nucleus of the poster is the sun, nucleus of all living things, Calella explained. Surrounding the sun is a seven-petaled lotus, the first food eaten by man, according to Indian mythology.

Surrounding the lotus is a background of 12 pyramids, indicating the 12 months of the year, surrounded by melon flowers indicating quarters of the moon. Beads of water spread through the illustration, separating foods Calella believes do not combine. Sweet fruits combine only with other sweet fruit, although low acid fruits can combine with acid-fruits.

Water circles the entire band of protein sources — avocado, sunflower, nuts, olives and coconut — separating it from all fruits and the starchy vegetables. All vegetables combine with each other, he says.

"The essence of my foods is based on mineral. If minerals are deficient the body must work for proper elimination, and vitamins cannot be stored. There is nothing new about my theory, but the times are ready for it. We have to ask ourselves if we are eating because we are nervous gluttons or to feed ourselves," Calella said.

Starch addiction is more predominant than drug addiction, he said.

NUTRITION IS more than a way of eating to Calella; he believes it can bring peace to mankind.

Too many starches cause an over-secretion which stimulates neurons to the brain that cause aggressive behavior, he believes. His theory is further advanced by studies that attribute psychological disorders to imbalance in certain vitamins and amino acids. Sounder bodies create harmony from within is another theory, he said.

Calella doesn't try to push his theories on non-believers.

"If you believe meat, fish, fowl, sauces and wines make you healthy —do it," he said. "I'm not dogmatic."

However, he runs a catering service and will not compromise with the menus.

During his "Italian baby" days, Calella said, he ate whatever was put in front of him. He grew up in New York, where he became a hairdresser and then came to California to "find his philosophy." He was graduated in 1972 from Sonoma State College with a degree in sociology.

Before he started eating properly, practicing yoga and running for exercise, he had asthma and a heart murmur. His health has been perfect since he developed his philosophy of foods, which includes fasting, he claims.

"I FAST periodically, especially if I 'cheat.' My cheat happens to be spaghetti. Or I fast if I just feel like relaxing without food. I know what my body wants," he said.

During the fasts he drinks only water, and hunger does not bother him. After three to five days the organs in the body stop going through the motions of digesting, and he claims no discomfort.

Calella will be at the fair to explain his optimum diet and how nature's garden can feed us all.

Lemonade Makes Easy-To-Store Thirst Fighter

Here's a recipe for fresh lemonade that'll keep you going back for more. The syrup base can be kept handy in the refrigerator for individual glasses, or made into a pitcher-full.

LEMONY FRESH LEMONADE

1 tbsp. fresh grated lemon peel
1½ cups sugar
½ cup boiling water
1½ cups fresh squeezed lemon juice

In covered jar, combine lemon peel, sugar and boiling water; cover and shake until sugar dissolves. Add lemon juice. Store tightly covered in refrigerator until ready to use. Makes 2⅔ cups syrup base. Covering retains vitamin C.

Lemonade by the glass: Pour ¼ to ⅓ cup syrup base into tall glass; add ¾ cup cold water and ice cubes. Stir briskly.

Lemonade by the pitcher: Combine full recipe syrup base with about 5 cups cold water in large pitcher. Add ice cubes and stir. Makes 1¾ quarts.

Portable Energy For Hike, Bike

Chances are the pleasant weather has turned your family's fancies toward spending more time out of doors. Two popular favorite activities are hiking and biking for exercise and fun. While not overly strenuous, they do require energy and often increase the appetite.

Here is a recipe for a new bar cookie that will both help fight fatigue and quiet the hunger pangs of your family in the open air. These Hiking and Biking Bars are made with iron-rich light or dark molasses. In addition, they contain protein-rich peanut butter, peanuts, and fortified high-protein cereal.

The Hiking and Biking Bars are flavored with a ripe banana and are dotted with semi-sweet chocolate pieces for extra appeal to the youngsters. These bars hold together well, making them a good choice for carrying along on all out-door activities.

HIKING AND BIKING MOLASSES BARS

⅓ cup butter or margarine
½ cup chunky peanut butter
½ cup light or dark molasses
1 cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
4 eggs
4 cups fortified high-protein cereal, crushed
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon baking soda
1 cup mashed ripe banana
1½ cups semi-sweet chocolate

Coquilles — A Scallops Delight Dish

Coquilles St. Jacques, the French name for scallops, also applies to a recipe in which scallops are the main feature.

Coquilles St. Jacques usually is served in ramekins or baking shells as a hot appetizer or first course. The version of this legendary dish shown here combines peanut oil, scallops, mushrooms and shallots with a cream sauce, white wine and catsup. The mixture is divided into four scallop shells or baking dishes, sprinkled with Gruyere cheese and baked for five minutes until bubbly and lightly browned.

COQUILLES ST. JACQUES

7 tablespoons peanut oil
1 pound sea scallops, cut into quarters
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 tablespoon minced shallots
5 tablespoons unsifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon white pepper
1¼ cups light cream
⅓ cup dry white wine
2 teaspoons catsup
4 (6-inch) scallop shells, lightly oiled
4 tablespoons shredded Gruyere cheese
4 parsley sprigs

Heat three tablespoons pea-

A TANGY, curried green grape sauce is an excellent contrast of flavor and texture for broiled salmon steaks and a steamed rice ball. The sauce also may be used as a dress-up for less expensive meats and fish.

Grape Sauce Adds Glamor, Not Expense

Beating the game of high food prices takes more than just careful shopping. It takes ingenuity such as creating new ways to use in-season produce. And turning less expensive meats into company fare.

Here's a marvelous way to dress up the less expensive meats we're all eating nowadays with plentiful juicy Thompson seedless grapes. Top chicken, the less expensive kinds of fish, even lamb shoulder chops and turkey legs with Grapes in Bombay Curry Sauce. The crisp, sprightly-flavored grapes contrast nicely with the tender meat.

GRAPES IN BOMBAY CURRY SAUCE

1¼ cups firmly packed brown sugar
1¼ cups white vinegar
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup apple sauce
1 large onion, chopped
1 clove garlic
1 tablespoon salt
2 teaspoons ginger
1 to 2 teaspoons curry
1 cup uncooked rice
1 pound Thompson seedless grapes

In a suacepan, combine sugar, vinegar, lemon juice, apple sauce, onion, garlic, salt, ginger and curry. Bring to a boil. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until slightly thickened. (About 20 minutes). Add grapes. Keep warm. Prepare rice ball, following directions below. Place rice ball in center of serving bowl; sprinkle with paprika. Pour sauce around rice. Serve with broiled salmon steaks, using favorite method. Garnish fish with lemon wedges and parsley sprigs.

Makes four to six servings of same.

RICE BALL

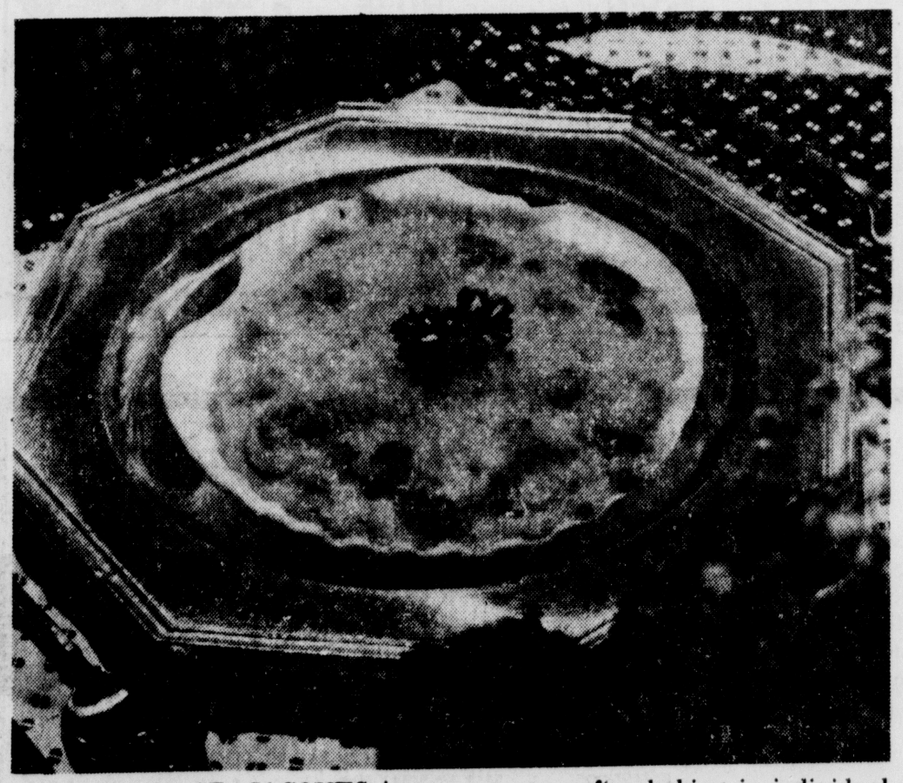

2 cups pearl rice
Cold water

Wash rice three times. Drain and place in heavy saucepan. If depth of rice is 1 inch, add enough cold water to cover rice with an inch of water. Let stand 1 to 2 hours. Over medium heat, bring to a boil. Cook 3 minutes. Cover pan and reduce heat to low. Cook 5 minutes. Turn off heat.

Let stand, covered, 10 minutes. Then turn rice onto plate. When cool enough to handle, press into oiled rice ball mold, or into two oiled bowls (6 inches each).

Steam, to reheat before serving.

Makes four to six servings.

COQUILLES ST. JACQUES is a contemporary favorite that is served as a hot appetizer or first course after baking in individual baking dishes for a brief five minutes.

pieces

1 cup chopped salted peanuts

In large bowl, cream together butter and peanut butter. Stir in molasses, sugar and vanilla. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add cereal. On waxed paper, sift flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda together. Add flour mixture alternately with mashed banana, stirring after each addition until just blended. Stir in chocolate pieces and peanuts.

Pour batter into a greased 15 by 10 by 1-inch baking pan. Bake in a preheated 350 degree oven for 30 minutes, or until firm to the touch. Cool in pan on wire rick. Cut into bars. Store in container in cool, dry place.

Makes 25 bars.

nut oil in a skillet over medium heat. Add scallops and stir to coat with oil. Simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes or until firm. Stir occasionally. Remove scallops and set aside. Cook liquid until reduced to ½ cup and set aside.

Heat remaining four tablespoons peanut oil in saucepan. Saute mushrooms and shallots until tender. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Remove from heat and gradually blend in reserved stock and light cream. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir in wine, catsup, and scallops. Divide prepared mixture evenly into the scallop shells. Top with cheese. Broil for five minutes or until bubbly and lightly browned.

Garnish with parsley sprigs. Makes four servings.

Two Filled Crocks Best Of Friends With Cold Cuts

You can make a whole meal — and a lot of warm friends — with companion crocks of Beer Cheese Spread and old-fashioned baked beans, plus a platter of cold cuts. With these, have bread to every taste — pumpernickel, caraway rye, white.

BEER CHEESE SPREAD

1 pound natural cheddar cheese
1 pound natural Swiss cheese
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 small garlic clove, mashed
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 cup beer (about)

Grate cheese coarsely or finely, according to personal preference. Add dry mustard, mashed garlic and Worcestershire sauce. Add beer until mixture is of spreadable consistency. (The amount of beer depends on coarseness of grated cheese. The finer the grate, the more beer will be required.) Serve with crackers, dark or light bread. Makes about 10 generous servings.

Powdered Sugar Prevents Stickiness

Dip your fingers in powdered sugar before picking up bits of pie pastry or cookie dough to be rerolled.

The sugar will prevent stickiness and help keep the dough tender.

Keep Mushrooms

Fresh mushrooms will stay fresh at home for about five days. They should be refrigerated, covered loosely with a damp paper towel in a place where they can get good air circulation. Do not store in a plastic bag.

FIRST IN MARIN COUNTY

A Meat Cutter Career Launched

By BETTY FROST

Elizabeth Jackson of Corte Madera has been accepted in the apprenticeship program for meat cutters by the Butcher Union Local 115.

Mrs. Jackson is the first woman apprentice meat cutter in Marin County, and is the first black woman in the Bay Area to have the opportunity to enter the program, according to Ernest Couly, business representative of Local 115.

Mrs. Jackson is one of 40 women meat wrappers working in Marin County and has been employed as a wrapper in the Cooperative Food Store in Corte Madera for eight years. She will retain the seniority acquired during her years as a meat wrapper, and receive the apprenticeship training in cutting during a 30-day trial period at the Co-op meat market. In addition she will attend classes in San Francisco two nights a week for two years. Upon completion of these requirements the trainee will become a journeyman meat cutter.

THREE WOMEN in San Francisco are taking similar training at Safeway stores, according to Couly. The breakthrough for women in the craft is in response to a new state law, which now allows women to carry more than 25 pounds. Quarters of meat, weighing from 120 to 165 pounds were believed too heavy for women to handle.

"Now, most meat comes primal cut, packed in boxes, from the slaughter house, or a breaking point," Couly explained." Electric dollies carry the meat packages from the truck into the store. These changes in procedure make the work faster and more efficient for everyone," he indicated.

Women can become meat cutter apprentices by making application through a company or the union headquarters from the outside, or those already employed as meat wrappers can apply, the union official pointed out.

An experienced wrapper, one who has been employed over 90 days, will receive 73 per cent of the wage received by a journeyman meat cutter. At the present the journeyman meat cutter's wage for a 40-hour work week, achieved after a two year apprenticeship, is $241.60.

At the meat counter Mrs. Jackson is receiving congratulations from customers and some teasing from fellow workers as she starts her training.

"I LIKE a challenging job," she said.

The ratio of men meat cutters to women meat wrappers is five to one locally. Women were first employed as meat wrappers during World War II when the self-service wrap was introduced to meat markets.

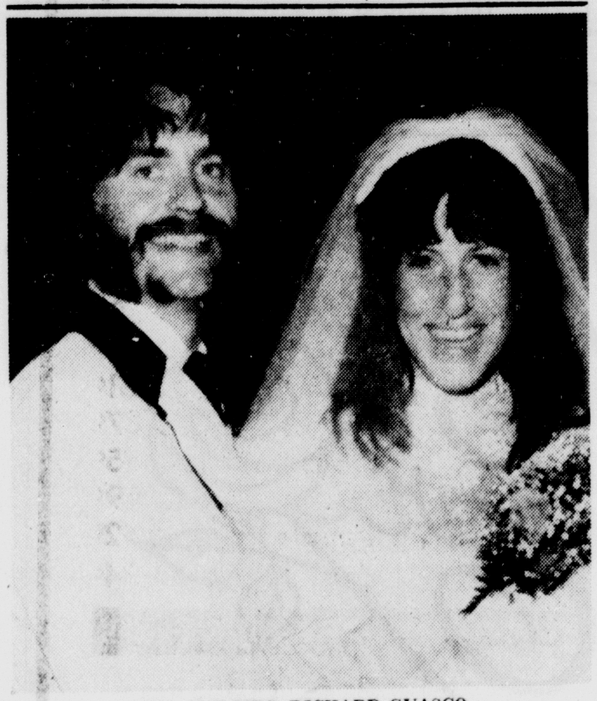

Mrs. Jackson, divorced, is the mother of five children.

BEGINNING HER apprenticeship as a meat cutter, Elizabeth Jackson uses a meat bandsaw to cut a loin of pork into a roast; then cut through the bones to make chop-size servings and later trimming the pork with a knife. Mrs. Jackson, who has been employed as a meat wrapper at the Cooperative Food Store in Corte Madera, is the first Marin woman to be accepted into the meat-cutting apprenticeship program.

House Plants Need Some Outings, Too

Give your house plants a summer vacation by placing them outdoors for the summer in a shady protected area on your patio or porch, suggests the Society of American Florists. Let them adjust gradually to the outdoors by placing them outside for a few hours a day for a week or so before letting them camp out overnight.

Remember, they may need watering more frequently since they'll be exposed to wind.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

If You're Afraid To Share Him, Forget About Marriage

DEAR HELEN:

My first husband was honest and considerate — and kept other women at their distance.

Now I have met a widower of 50 who tells me he loves me, but I'm afraid I'd have a nervous breakdown if I married him.

Young girls in his office sign their memos with "love," "kisses," "affectionately," and other quips. They send him valentines and other greeting cards with gushy sentiments. A "friend of the family" visited him from out of town. He saw nothing wrong with the fact that she was female.

Am I too narrow, as he says? Should I believe these are just friends and the secretaries are kidding? Or am I right in being — AFRAID TO MARRY HIM

DEAR AFRAID:

My guess is yes to the first two questions, and, unless you can change your attitude, a definite "yes" on the third.

It's a pretty sure thing that secretaries make over this man because he's "safe," the type who is lovable but not lecherous and therefore has many women friends.

But if you can't share him, then don't marry him. You'd both be miserable. — H.

P.S. Read on:

DEAR HELEN:

I can't understand these women who cling to their husbands like jealous octupuses. I'd be miserable if my man didn't kid with his secretaries and harmlessly "flirt" with my women friends. I'm proud of his popularity, and secure in my marriage.

As the saying goes, "The barking dog doesn't bite, but beware the quiet one." Any trustful wife understands a joker: every girl at the office is my husband's girlfriend — he likes them and they like him. But there it ends, and everyone knows it.

At home when I am in a bad mood, he says, "Hey, if you don't love me, I have a dozen girls in my office. Just say the word and I'll start a harem." My answer is, "OK, duck." — ONE SMART HAPPY WIFE

DEAR HELEN:

My wife, who was keen on careers for women before she married, has become the club woman type. She's out a lot, but just spins her wheels, and frankly she's getting to be a bore.

She always said she'd go back to work when the kids were all in school, but I wonder if she now means "in college"?

Maybe I'm going against my "brothers" when I say I wish my wife would get interested in women's liberation. I'd like to be liberated from a female who has regressed from an interesting woman to a vapid housewife!

How can I raise her consciousness to pre-marriage level? — SHORT-CHANGED HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND:

Perhaps your wife is just going through the "club woman phase," which usually follows the "intense motherhood period," and often precedes the "what am I doing with my life?" quandary that sends her out in search of a job.

Wedding trip to Hawaii

Theodore E. Fullmer, Sharon Cicanese Wed

Theodore E. Fullmer IV of San Rafael claimed Sharon Cicanese, also of San Rafael, as his bride June 15 in a ceremony at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis P. Cicanese, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. T.E. Fullmer. All are residents of San Rafael.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Michael Cicanese of Rohnert Park. The bridegroom's sister, Nancy Fullmer of San Rafael, was the bridesmaid.

Jim McDermott of San Rafael was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bridegroom's brother-in-law, Michael Kerrigan of Larkspur.

Both Theodore and Sharon are graduates of San Rafael High School. She is employed by the Hibernia Bank in San Francisco, and he is owner of the Montecito Union 76 Station in San Rafael.

The bride is the sister of Michael Cicanese of Rohnert Park and the granddaughter of Mrs. Carmen Miletti of Monroe, Mich.

Mrs. Michael Kerrigan of Larkspur is also the bridegroom's sister, and he is the grandson of Mrs. Vera Petersen of Escalon.

Engagement Of Couple Announced

Ruth Brooner of Santa Rosa has announced the engagement of her daughter Kathleen May Brooner to Michael Shawver of San Rafael.

Kathleen attends Santa Rosa High School. She is the sister of James Brooner of Santa Rosa.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron of San Rafael and the brother of George and Cindy Shawver and Barbara Wadlewski. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and is manager of Shoreline Cleaners in Mill Valley.

The couple plans to be wed next year.

PARENT AND CHILD

Some Chilling Facts On Finding Teen-Age Jobs

By MARY KELLY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW YORK — "Must I work in an office?" "Must I do 'mostly nothing' until I get married?"

Qualms, queries and careers of teen-age girls were aired at a recent conference of about 100 young women, government officials, educators, community leaders and representatives of labor and industry from 14 states here.

Generally the girls seemed to feel they are at a frustrating gap in getting adequate counseling, training and cooperation in landing jobs that meet their particular dimensions of interest.

There was the repeated assertion that teen women lack confidence today. Counseling at many schools is not updated, they charge. In the job market men are given the preference. All girls today do not want to work in offices or become secretaries as is so often advised. Some choose health and social services and computer technology, others would like to join the ranks of labor.

THE MEETING here was a follow-up of a survey of four geographical areas of the United States made by the Young Women's Christian Association. Those surveyed reported a serious lack in quality and quantity of job training. They ask for recognition of their "needs."

The findings of this survey were published in a 70-page report called "Action Is Needed."

"I found I don't want to work in an office after two weeks' trial," said Sadie Anderson, 18, of Chattanooga, Tenn. "Now I'm working in a hospital, and I like it. The discouraging thing to many girls is that you can't get a job without having had experience first. And, of course, you can't get experience without a job coming first."

Sandy Carruthers of Denver, who is the director of Better Jobs for Women funded by the U.S. Department of Labor, said that "certainly young women today are more interested in viable options when it comes to choosing a job. Also they realize the good earnings of men in the labor force.

"Our problem is not so much needing legislation to equalize employment of women. But it is a question of employers being willing to implement the legislation, and labor unions being more willing to place women.

THE OPENING address here was made by Carmen B. Maymi, director of Women's Bureau, Employment Standards Administration, U.S. Department of Labor. Saying that "extensive changes" in the work women do are in sight, she added:

"Efforts already under way to move them out of the low-skilled, low-paying jobs should make a significant difference. Better education will bring them into prominent civil and political activities and into more skilled jobs in trades and crafts."

Women still can maintain their "affection and dignity," Dr. Susanne Reed, psychotherapist, told the group, "as they make the needed shift from overemphasis on family life to that of service in the community or on the job.

"They need to meet people, become interested in many things, make compromises."

Ann Emigh of Seattle is helping to form a women's educational vocation center. She stated that the great need is to build woman's confidence in herself. The center will work toward better jobs and better pay for women in work including carpentry, auto mechanics, electrical work and plumbing.

"Only 4 per cent of the employees in trades and crafts are women," she said.

Joyce Hartwell, who heads Lady Carpenter Enterprises in New York, where women are taught how to make major home repairs and improvements, noted that "young people are another exploited people."

Bags For Daytime Are Becoming Bigger

Try A Combination Handbag Next Time

A Simpler Look

If you're tired of the chain necklace look, switch to a simpler look. Hang an antique watch (real or reproduction) from a bead necklace or narrow black grosgrain ribbon.

Diane Schulz Of Novato Is Married

Bethel Baptist Church in Novato was the setting for the June 15 wedding of Diane Lea Schulz to Brian Paul Scott, both of Novato.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Schulz of Novato and Brian is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Scott of Novato. A reception followed the afternoon wedding at the Marinwood Community Center. The newlyweds will live in Novato after a wedding trip to Southern California.

Lana Martin of Petaluma was maid of honor and bridesmaids were the bride's sister, Beth Schulz of Novato, and Jean Bachowsky, also of Novato.

Leonard Rodriquez of Novato was best man and ushers were David Hopkins of Vacaville and the bride's brother, Daniel Schulz of Novato.

Danie was graduated from San Marin High School and works as a volunteer at Novato General Hospital. She is also the sister of Kristen Schulz and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sirpless of Sterling Park, Va. and Mrs. Arthur Schulz of Minneapolis, Minn. She is the great granddaughter of Mrs. Rudy Larson and Mrs. James Ferrell, both of Minneapolis.

Brian was graduated from Novato High School and attends Alameda College. He is employed at Safeway Distribution Center in Richmond.

The bridegroom is the brother of Bruce and Craig Scott of Novato and Mrs. Wayne Cole of Vallejo. He is the grandson of Mrs. Herbert Yohner of Vallejo.

FALL AND winter fashions are not for the shrinking violet. They're for the woman who thinks big and will dare an outsized cape in a compact car. For example — Calvin Klein's giant swirling cape of camel-colored wool with hood. It was among styles unveiled to the fashion press Monday in the American Designers Group press week under way in New York. (UPI Telephoto)

THE OUTSIZE CAPE

Fall, Winter Fashions Are For Those Who Can Think Very Big

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fall and winter fashions are not for the shrinking violet. They're for the woman who thinks big even though she isn't physically so.

They're for the daring who will hazard an outside cape in a compact car. They're for the woman who has the assurance she can manipulate several feet of scarf or shawl through a revolving door.

They're for the woman who can show off a 36-gore skirt in a daytime dress, or the one who can float confidently into a room in 37 yards of chiffon in an evening dress.

THEY'RE FOR the woman who knows the term "big top" has no reference to the circus but to the bulky look that takes over from the skinny sleeves and bodices of previous seasons.

They're also for the woman not offended by the word "loose" — because that's the adjective that crops up repeatedly at fall and winter fashion shows.

Geoffrey Beene, designer and manufacturer, refers to his entire new collection of feminine apparel as "loose, flowing, easy" and goes on to say that his designs have been "loosening up for over two years."

Beene is the man who put 36 gores in a daytime dress, 37 yards of ombre silk chiffon in a long evening dress and then over it, a floor-length evening cloak in gray-beige tweed.

Just about every designer of note is scarf-happy for fall. Calvin Klein is happier than most with rectangular stretches of wool, some so long that they fall below hemlines front and back, even though there's material also looped two and three times around the throat.

KLEIN AND Beene were among the designers-manufacturers who Monday showed their collections to visiting editors from newspapers, radio and television. The shows are part of a week-long series under sponsorship of the American Designers Group.

The "big top" is devised by several means in the major collections.

Shannon Rodgers, designer and partner with Jerry Silverman, puts bloused tops on both day and evening clothes, makes the "flyway" jacket, which has an almost cape fullness at the back, and like so many others features the bat-wing sleeve, with its depth starting right where it joins the waistline.

Calvin Klein does any number of jackets and pants combinations with the jackets bloused and full, but pulled in at the upper hips with drawstrings, like some ski parkas. He adds to the room-at-the-top look with hoods on many of the jackets.

Almost all of the Klein pants — and he shows far more of them than dresses — are cut on slim lines right to the cuffs. Klein's cape to end all capes is one giant swirl of camel-colored wool, with hood, reaching to the ankles.

Susan Smith Engagement Is Revealed

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Smith of Novato have announced the engagement of their daughter Susan M. Smith to Michael Bianchi of Novato.

Susan was graduated from Novato High School. She is the sister of Joan Olson of Novato.

Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmo S. Bianchi of Novato and the brother of Lily Ann, Edith and Edna Bianchi. He was graduated from Healdsburg High School and is a self-employed cabinet maker.

The couple plans a fall wedding.

Vows Are Said In San Rafael

First Presbyterian Church in San Rafael was the setting for the June 15 wedding of Janice S. Huntoon of Terra Linda to Leffler A. Brown of Rohnert Park. A reception followed at Marin Country Club in Ignacio.

Laurine Pisano of Novato was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. John R. Huntoon of Fremont, Mrs. Richard Brown of Modesto and Mrs. William Berlin of Stockton.

The bridegroom's brother Richard Brown of Modesto was best man and ushers were the bride's brother John R. Huntoon of Fremont, Doug Deskin of Terra Linda and Gary Walker of Corte Madera.

Janice is the daughter of Betty M. Huntoon of Terra Linda. She was graduated from Terra Linda High School, College of Marin and the California State University, San Francisco. She is currently working on her Master's Degree at Sonoma State College and works at Fireman's Fund in Terra Linda. Janice is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Laudon of Kansas City, Mo.

Leffler is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Headley A. Brown of Auburn. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School, College of Marin and Golden Gate University. He is employed at the Clorox Co. in Oakland and is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Leffler Brown of Berkeley.

The couple will live in Rohnert Park after a wedding trip to the Hawaiian Islands.

A Vegetarian Diet Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A vegetarian diet can be adequate nutritionally if it includes a variety of plant foods and certain nutrients, says the National Research Council's committee on nutritional misinformation.

In a four-page report, the committee said judicious mixing of lower-quality plant protein foods can provide about the same nutritional value as high-quality animal protein foods.

Milk and eggs should be added, especially for preschool children, to provide enough calcium, iron, riboflavin and vitamin B12. The committee also said fortified soybean milk or a vitamin B12 supplement is necessary for total vegetarians.

Almonte District Budget At $57,268

The Almonte Sanitary District board has approved a 1974-75 budget of $57,268, up about $3,000 from this year's spending.

John J. Crncich, board secretary, said that the budget approved Monday means the district's tax rate will remain the same as this year's, 37 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

(State law limits all tax rates to no more than those of the 1971-72 fiscal year.)

Budget categories for next year with this year's spending in parentheses include:

Salaries $4,290 ($3,890); maintenance $22,960 ($23,600) bond service $14,900 ($13,247); administrative services $2,285 ($1,915); Camino Alto Sewer Line $4,000 ($4,000); Southern Marin Subregional Sewerage Agency contribution $1,600 (0); Improvement District A contribution $1,200 ($1,197) and sewer flow testing $6,033 (0).

New Prizes Announced For Miss Marin Pageant

New prizes in the Miss Marin beauty pageant starting event on the way to the Miss Universe competition — have been announced by Arthur C. Madsen Jr., pageant spokesman.

Madsen, proprietor of Art's Photo of Marin in San Anselmo, said prizes now include a $25 savings account from Bank of Marin, a cash scholarship and an all-expenses-paid trip to the Miss California Pageant in Los Angeles, where Miss Marin will compete for the state title.

Deadline for entry in the Miss Marin competition is 5 p.m. Saturday. Judging will take place July 6 at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Ford Resumes Plant Production

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. resumed production of autos at its Milpitas plant yesterday when 2,500 workers were recalled following a layoff of three days.

Ford said truck production would resume Wednesday when 1,500 more workers will be recalled.

Nurses To Join Butchers Union?

ASHLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Some 90 employees, including nurses, at the city-owned Ashland Community Hospital, may soon carry butchers union cards.

The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Union Local 324 yesterday filed a petition with the National Labor Relations Board seeking to become the bargaining agent for the employees.

Nurse's aide Fran Cox said her husband was a member of the local and its officials offered to help hospital workers get better pay.

Shouted Remarks Charge Dropped For McCarthy

SAN JOSE (AP) — Charge was dropped yesterday against John F. Sean McCarthy of San Rafael, an unsuccessful Republican candidate for Congress who was arrested after allegedly shouting criticisms of President Nixon during a speech by Vice-President Gerald Ford.

McCarthy, 25-year old son of former state Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael, was arrested April 20 at the LeBaron Hotel in San Jose after allegedly shouting criticism of President Nixon and the Committee to Re-elect the President.

Judge Edward H. Nelson issued a bench warrant for McCarthy's arrest when he failed to appear in court earlier and set bail at $200.

San Jose Deputy Dist. Atty. Randy Hey told Nelson his office was dropping the charge against McCarthy for lack of evidence and "in the interest of justice."

McCarthy lost a bid June 4 to gain the Republican party nomination to fill a seat in Congress vacated by William Maillard of San Francisco.

Maillard dropped out of the contest to accept an appointment as U.S. Ambassador to the Organization of American States.

McCarthy and his attorney were not at the hearing.

Trio Named To Hospital Board

They are Samuel J. Tibbits, president of the Lutheran Hospital Society of Southern California; John E. Smits, a former vice president for Kaiser Foundation Hospitals, and Stoddard P. Johnston, president of Monterey-Salinas Television, which operates KMST, Channel 46.

The appointments require Senate confirmation. Commissioners receive $100 a day for their services. Tibbits and Smits are Republicans and Johnston is a Democrat.

LAST DAYS — Kenneth Wehring goes through his nightly ritual of removing newspapers from the street racks outside the building. He will perform the chore for the last time Friday after which the depot will be transferred over to its new tenants, the Novato Fire Protection District.

NOVATO'S TRAVEL HUB

Greyhound Depot Closing To Make Way For Fire District

By FRANK FARRARA

The Novato Greyhound bus depot, travel and shipping hub of the city, will close Friday evening after more than 30 years of operation.

The depot along Highway 101 just north of Grant Avenue is housed in a modest building, flanked by benches for waiting passengers and filled with newspaper racks, soft drink and candy dispensers, paperback books, smokes and packages for shipment.

Behind the counter is congenial Kenneth Wehring, who is ending 14 years as agent and saying farewell to his longtime customers.

Wehring said the other day he didn't have any idea the depot itself would be closed when he gave Greyhound notice two months ago he was leaving the job.

The depot, built as a bus station 33 years ago is being closed because it has been rented to the Novato Fire Protection District, he said.

"I hate to see it happen this way," Wehring said. Since the Golden Gate Transit started hauling commuters it has been "kind of a rat race," Wehring said.

At first the district told us it didn't want bus stations, "but if you want to sell tickets, okay," he reported. Then last December, 24 of the 27 Golden Gate commuter buses were routed away from the depot, he said.

"Everything has been dropping down and down. I used to take 90 Chronicles and sell them all. Now I'm taking nine and look, I have five left," he said.

Three weeks ago when the Golden Gate district moved its downtown bus stop to an open area along the freeway south of Grant Avenue, Wehring stopped selling commute books.

Of the new stop, he said, "there's no place to sit, no shelter and I think it's a hazard."

Wehring said he has been working six days a week for 14 years with only one vacation, "two weeks, six years ago when Greyhound went on strike."

"I won't miss the hours for the amount of pay and I won't miss working six days a week. I will miss being with the public . . . all kinds of people. There's no other business in town like it. If there is one place that could be considered the hub of the city it's the bus station."

Greyhound is seeking another location for a depot, "but I don't know where they'll find one," Wehring said.

Two years ago, Wehring added the Western Union office to the depot to "put it all together to make a living."

One of the vital functions of the depot is the shipping business, a service depended upon by many local businessmen, he said.

Leafing through a stack of shipping forms, he said, "look at these, personal to Salt Lake City, a motor part for a local dealer, tractor parts, personal items to Massachusetts, a package for the school district . . . They pour in and out at Christmas time. A lot of people wouldn't ship any other way."

"The whole month of December we're just swamped," said his wife, Sophie, who has been working with him through the years.

As a serviceman from Hamilton Air Froce Base left, Wehring said, "you might tell them at the base effective next Friday there is not going to be a Greyhound depot."

Wehring said he is leaving because "with one thing after another, it got to the point it isn't worthwhile."

As soon as he closes out the depot he is going on a vacation, he said.

"Greyhound has been good to us, we have no complaints," he said.

One of his customers walked in and quipped "Can I make it here in time for the last bus to Dodge City?"

Move To Merge Sanitary District With City Fails

A call for an election to make the Novato Sanitary District a subsidiary district of the City of Novato has failed.

George C. Quesada, newly elected director and former city councilman, made the motion Monday night for an election, but it died for lack of a second.

Quesada successfully campaigned for the board seat on a platform of combining the district and the city.

Dist. Mgr. Charles A. Joseph said under a subsidiary district the city council would become the board of the district, which includes both the city and unincorporated areas.

The board also received a preliminary operating budget of $474,520, up $5,670 from the current year, and set July 8 for budget discussion and July 22 for adoption.

Joseph also submitted a capital improvement budget of $115,600, down $51,200.

He estimated the tax rate would be 35.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the Novato plant zone and 32 cents in the remainder of the district.

Thomas D. Hardcastle was reelected president of the board and Quesada was appointed to the personnel and insurance committee. Outgoing Director George De Tuncq was given a resolution of appreciation for his services.

Bike-Auto Crash Injures Child

A 10-year-old Larkspur youth was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken leg suffered yesterday when his bicycle collided with a car in Larkspur.

Christopher A. Hinde of 421 Holcomb Avenue was injured when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Susan J. Griffin, 16, of 940 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera. The collision occured about 7 p.m. at the intersection of Williams and Chanticleer Avenues, according to Larkspur police.

Police said the youth entered the intersection from an access way and struck the car. The bicycle was dragged about 20 feet by the car but Hinde was thrown clear upon collision.

'DEAR SAM' NOTE

Hub Council Condemns Beef Cost

San Anselmo's mayor, Martin G. Blinder, a man of boundless energy for varying causes, last night encouraged the city council to send a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz, chiding the federal official.

"Last week you exhorted Americans — Americans like the citizens of San Anselmo — to buy more beef," the letter said. "It may interest you to know that at today's prices, the average citizen of San Anselmo saves his purchases of beef for special occasions. . . he can't afford to do otherwise.

"If you want the citizens of San Anselmo to buy beef, I suggest that you pass on to the customer the falling prices paid to cattlemen. If you want to sell more, you must sell it for less. Tell the middlemen, before they kill the people at both ends."

The city council voted 4-1 to send the letter with Councilman John H. Colteaux voting no. He said he thought the manuscript was "more of a letter to the editor" and ought to be sent as such by Dr. Blinder.

Spirit Of '76 Hovers Over Hub's Park

The San Anselmo City Council last night agreed that it would be all right to dedicate a new parking lot and park to the principles of the American Revolution — as long as it is clear that it was the one in 1776 and not a more recent uprising.

The city council was offered the opportunity to be "the first in the county to do anything for the Bicentennial."

Claudia Goldthwaite, San Anselmo's representative on the Marin committee planning participation in the national 1976 celebration, in making the suggestion also held out an additional carrot:

Possibly federal or state money might be available to help pay for the park now under construction at the Hub intersection if it were dedicated to the Bicentennial. Councilman Pieter Toal expressed concern, though, about using the word "revolution" in the park's name. "People may think it's the next one," not the one in 1776, he said.

Councilman John H. Colteaux added "we want control over the plaque," which would be placed in the park.

Concern was also expressed over the number of people who might come to San Anselmo for the park dedication.

"We can stand a few thousand people every 200 years," said Mayor Martin G. Blinder.

The San Anselmo City Council also:

CABLE — Postponed to July 23 a public hearing and decision on the request for a rate increase by Tele-Vue Systems Inc.

DENIALS — Turned down appeals from property owners who wanted to build houses on lots on Holstein Road and Indian Rock Court. Their plans had been turned down because of a possible conflict with the city's new general plan.

VACANCIES — Announced that three vacancies will exist soon on the Design Review Committee and two on the planning commission. City officials are seeking applicants and are especially interested in finding someone with landscape architecture experience for the Design Review Committee.

RESOLUTION — Adopted a resolution asking strict regulation of "indirect stationary sources of air pollution," such as shopping centers and housing tracts, by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control Board.

More Pay Increases Announced

The San Rafael Board of Education last night gave school administrators a 6.2 per cent salary and fringe benefit boost.

The boost affects 30 administrators, including all principals and assistant principals, and will cost $35,000 annually, according to Paul W. Robinson, director of administrative services.

Robinson noted the salary increase approved last night is in addition to a 2 per cent boost given in January.

The board also hiked substitute teacher pay from $31.50 daily to $34, and said that substitutes who teach more than 15 days annually will receive $37 daily.

In other action, the board appointed Robert Gilbride temporary principal of Terra Linda High School, and said Jon Slezak will become the school system's director of instructional services at an annual salary of $25,339.

The board next meets at 7:30 p.m. July 9 in the administration building.

STATE UNIVERSITIES

Campuses So Diverse Prove Hard To Govern

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON
(Second of two articles)

The 19 campuses of the California State University and Colleges offer much diversity — and accompanying problems in governance.

From little California State College, Stanislaus, with enrollment of 2,600, they range in size to California State University, Long Beach, and California State University, San Diego, each with more than 30,000 students — among the largest higher education institutions in the United States.

Governing all of them, with their various sizes and styles, presents a complex chore to the 21 part-time trustees. To get the information needed, the trustees must depend primarily on the chancellor's office in Los Angeles, with its bureaucracy of more than 400.

Every new course must be approved by the chancellor's office. "We are trying to avoid too many overspecialized courses on too many campuses," explained William O. Weissich of San Rafael, one of the 20 trustees — all except one — appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

However, "we try to let local campuses have as much autonomy as possible, as long as it conforms to statewide policy," Weissich said.

This has been the cause of some friction within the system, but according to Weissich, revolts against the authority of trustees and chancellor have been mostly by faculty members rather than campus presidents.

The president of each college, by trustee policy, is accountable for anything that occurs on his campus. The faculties, Weissich emphasized, do not make decisions on governance. "The president should get their advice but does not have to get their consent."

As in other education systems, there have been efforts by faculty to assume a greater role in governing the colleges. One revolt came over the appointment of S. I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley as president of San Francisco State College. This occurred when the campus was in uproar. The former president, Robert R. Smith (who once was a San Rafael High School teacher), resigned abruptly and flew off to Ethiopia. Yet the academic senate complained bitterly when the trustees made a quickie appointment of Hayakawa.

There was similar outcry from the faculty of what now is California State University, San Francisco, when the trustees chose Paul F. Romberg to succeed Hayakawa. The academic senate contended it should have been involved in the selection.

That, however, is not the way it's done in the state university and colleges system. A presidential selection committee is set up, consisting of the chancellor, vice chancellor, chairman of the board of trustees and two other trustees appointed by him, a citizen member of the campus advisory board, and three campus representatives. These last usually are faculty members but may include a student. This committee screens applicants and recommends two or more to the chancellor, who in turn must recommend at least two to the board of trustees. Then the board makes the selection.

Growing faculty militance is not, of course, restricted to demanding a voice in selection of campus presidents. Faculty organizations insist on more voice in everything to do with the state universities and colleges, just as they insist on more voice in everything to do with high schools and elementary schools.

There is a big push for collective bargaining, with an offshoot of the California Teachers Association and the California Federation of Teachers busily trying to outdo each other. If that comes, faculty voice indeed will be powerful.

"If collective bargaining comes to pass," says Weissich gloomily, "the whole structure of relationships between faculty and administration is going to change. Instead of dealing with them as professional people, we'll have to deal with them as employees."

Weissich believes the state university and colleges need to put more emphasis on career education. "Our young people realize," he says, "that when they get through college, they're not qualified to fill a job." That, he believes, is at the heart of much student dissatisfaction.

Along with a change in emphasis, he sees need for constant effort to improve the quality of the 19 universities and colleges, some of which have grown too rapidly. And he thinks the faculties — if they can, as he puts it, continue to be dealt with as professionals — have a large role in this.

"The faculties themselves should make constant efforts to hire only quality and retain and promote only quality people," he says.

Flight Safety

LONDON (UPI) — Flight International, an aviation magazine, reported that 1973 was a good year for safety in the air. It said the number of fatal accidents on scheduled services fell sharply. But the over-all number of passengers killed — more than 1,000 — was down only 8 per cent because modern jets carry bigger passenger loads, it said.

Burton Spends Most For Election

Rep. John L. Burton, D-San Francisco, spent $123,531 in his congressional campaign, according to campaign finance reports at the Marin County elections office.

Burton's expenditures were triple those of his Republican rival, Thomas O. Caylor of San Francisco.

Burton's receipts, including 24 contributions from labor unions, totaled $94,049, according to his report.

The John Burton Congressional Committee reported $34,805 in receipts and $64,928 in expenses while the John Burton Special Election Congressional Committee reported $60,244 in receipts and $58,603 in expenses.

Burton was elected to complete the term of William S. Mailliard through this year and will face Caylor in the November election for a full two-year term.

Caylor reported $40,924 in receipts, including $1,000 from J. W. Mailliard III of Sausalito, brother of the former incumbent and $1,900 from Putnam Livermore, former state GOP chairman.

Also listed as $1,000 contributors were J. B. McIntosh, a San Francisco travel agent, and Mortimer Fleischaker III, a San Francisco businessman.

Caylor listed his expenses at $36,726.

Democrat Alan F. Reeves of San Francisco reported $13,827 in expenditures and $14,160 in receipts, including $7,545 of his own money. His only major contribution was $2,500 from David Brown, a Tulsa businessman.

Among the contributions were $500 from the California Medical Political Action Committee and $500 from the Committee for Responsible Government in San Francisco.

Terrence V. McGuire of San Rafael, another Democrat, reported $3,870 in expenditures and $4,634 in receipts, including $1,634 of his own money. He didn't report any contributors of $1,000 or more.

Alan D. French of San Francisco, Democrat, reported $2,239 in receipts including $1,753 from Mr. and Mrs. E. G. French of Hayward and expenses totaling $3,390.

Wesley Wilkes of Tiburon, Republican, reported he received and spent $80.63, and Leslie A. Grant of San Rafael, a Republican, reported not more than $500 spent or received.

Sean McCarthy of San Rafael, Republican, reported he neither received contributions nor had any expenditures.

No reports were on file for Jane M. Wall of San Francisco, a Republican, or the Rev. Raymond Broshears of San Francisco, Peace and Freedom Party candidate.

Contributions from $100 to $999 reported by candidates are:

Former General Gains Freedom

MOSCOW (UPI) — Former Gen. Pyotr G. Grigorenko, confined to mental hospitals for more than five years for his dissident activities, gained his freedom today.

"I am happy to be home and thankful for the support I received from people in the West," he told a Western newsman at his Moscow apartment.

Grigorenko, 67, was accompanied by a doctor on the drive from the Stolbovaya psychiatric hospital 37 miles south of Moscow. He looked tired and appeared somewhat confused at his sudden freedom.

PUC Grants Greyhound Most Of Rate Increase

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Public Utilities Commission yesterday granted Greyhound Lines most of its requested 11 per cent interim rate increase for intrastate passenger fares and express rates.

The company asked for 16 per cent in two steps, the first one to be an interim 11 per cent boost to offset fuel and labor costs.

The PUC granted an immediate 1.36 per cent increase from March 5, and Tuesday's boost brought the total to 10.48 per cent for the first step.

(Officials of the Golden Gate Transit District and Greyhound said the rate increase would have no effect on Marin commuters since Greyhound no longer serves them. They added that only individuals traveling long distance in the state by Greyhound would be affected.)

Hearings on this step were held April 9 and 10 and recommendations of the PUC staff and the company on an increase differed substantially, the PUC said.

It said the Tuesday increase was justified by increased operating expenses.

Fountain Parts Being Returned

NEWPORT BEACH (UPI) — Fifteen pieces of disassembled Roman fountain, which were stolen from a Los Angeles warehouse and then found on a dock in Japan, are on their way back home, according to officials of the Marriott Hotel here.

The hotel chain purchased the antique brass fountain in Italy for $150,000, planning to bring it back in pieces and reassemble it in front of a hotel. Fifteen pieces were stolen but later recovered in Japan and will be shipped back to the United States, hotel officials said yesterday.

Beef Loan Set

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Uruguay has agreed to lend Argentina between up to 12,000 tons of beef to overcome a shortage in the Buenos Aires area, the national meat board said yesterday.

Jorge Pareda, president of the meat board said the loan would be paid back in October and November.

Ehrlichman's Trial Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John D. Ehrlichman, one of President Nixon's most intimate advisers before leaving the White House under the Watergate cloud 14 months ago, went on trial today on charges of conspiracy and perjury.

No matter what the outcome of the trial —first major prosecution to stem directly from the Watergate investigation —it is sure to have some impact on Congress' impeachment investigation against Nixon.

Ehrlichman is being tried on charges growing out of the break-in of the Beverly Hills office of Dr. Lewis Fielding, psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers figure Daniel Ellsberg, on Labor Day weekend, 1971 — more than nine months before the Watergate burglary in Washington. Ehrlichman faces another trial in September along with other former Nixon intimates on Watergate cover-up charges.

Desegregation Case Reopened

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An appeals court has ordered a federal judge to reopen a case concerning racial segregation in San Francisco's classrooms in order to determine the school board's intent.

The Ninth U.S. Court of Appeals' decision yesterday went against Judge Stanley A. Weigel who had ordered the schools desegregated.

Appellate court justices found that the U.S. District Court judge had issued his order without determining that school authorities had deliberately discriminated against minority group students.

Death Penalty Is Invoked For Slaying

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Ronald L. Sims, 23, who shot a man in the back with a shotgun at point blank range in a $10 holdup, yesterday became the second killer sentenced to be executed since California put the death penalty back on the law books.

A jury of 10 women and two men, after two days deliberation, ruled that the killing was "willful, deliberate and premeditated and committed during the course of a robbery."

That is one of the offenses requiring the death penalty under the new execution law which went into effect Jan. 1, designed to meet the Supreme Court objections to the penalty as previously applied.

The first death penalty was imposed June 13 in San Bernardino on a 35-year-old transient found guilty of killing a young boy and girl in a lovers lane slaying near Victorville.

Impact Report Is Ordered

Sausalito City councilmen last night overruled planning commissioners and voted to require an environmental impact report for seven single-family homes proposed for the Toyon Terrace subdivision.

The 3-to-1 decision, Sally Stanford dissenting, overturned a planning commission finding that there would be no significant environmental impact from the project planned by Caroline-Knudson Inc. for seven half-acre lots on Woodward Avenue, south of Spring Street.

A majority of the council agreed that an impact report should be prepared.

Sausalito Will Seek Corps Land

The City of Sausalito will ask for about 13 acres of property, recently declared surplus by the federal government, at the Army Corps of Engineers headquarters on the city's waterfront, councilmen decided last night. (Another Sausalito City Council story, page 1.)

They approved hiring a summer intern, preferably a college student, to develop a plan for public recreation on the property, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

If the plan is accepted by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, a division of the U.S. Department of Interior, the city will receive the surplus land free, McKenzie said.

The only sour note is that Ocean Traders, Sausalito's commercial fishing wholesaler, may be forced to move from the city.

Ocean Traders occupies the north pier on the corps of engineers property. Declared surplus yesterday was the south pier, a building and land surrounding it. Without the south pier, the corps may be forced to take over the north pier for its own use and evict the commercial fishing operation, the city manager said.

City officials will meet with representatives of Ocean Traders tomorrow to discuss the matter.

Also interested in obtaining the property is the Golden Gate Bridge District, which would like to use the pier to dock its ferries when they are not in service. McKenzie said he will meet with bridge district officials next week to discuss the city and the bridge district using the pier cooperatively.

NO MAGIC IN MARGINS

I'm sure that by now most consumers are totally confused about the meat supply and price situation with the many varied reports by the media. One of the main purposes of the recent conferences in Washington was to help the livestock industry find ways to stimulate sales of meat. The narrowing of the margins between the price the farmer receives and the retail price for meat was another stated objective. It was proposed that "red hot" meat specials be advertised by the retailers so the consumers could take advantage of this "low price" meat.

But then it was announced that the government would buy $100 million worth of beef and pork for the fall school-lunch program. Immediately, the wholesale prices went up, leaving meat buyers uncertain what would happen next.

Let me explain what I can about the situation today. Despite news reports to the contrary, lower farm prices are being passed on to customers now — at least at Alpha Beta. In checking our current list of meat and poultry prices against those of a year ago, it is interesting to note that many meat cuts are almost 20 cents a pound lower than a year ago. Turkey prices have dropped dramatically this summer, and chicken is down an amazing 34% from a year ago. This is in spite of the fact that there has been an increase in labor, transportation, and rent costs — and everyone knows what has happened to their own utility bills. These are all factors which add to the margin or difference between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays. That margin increase is not magic.

I must tell you, honestly, even our best meat authorities can't predict exactly what the future will bring. We know there are fewer cattle being placed on feed for the fall and winter market, which could mean another round of shortages and higher prices. We hope not. We can add our voice to those who tell you that meat is a good buy right now.

Suit Filed To Break Drug Advertising Ban

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — California consumers could save between $60 million and $150 million annually if state laws banning advertising and discounting of prescription drug prices were repealed, according to a suit filed in Superior Court here.

The suit, sponsored by a number of consumer groups, challenges the constitutionality of a law which makes it a misdemeanor to advertise the prices of prescription drugs or to sell the drugs at a discount.

"In California, pharmacists are able to set the price of prescription drugs at high levels with little risk that they will lose customers to competitors who charge lower prices," the suit charges. "Without advertising, the consumer is unable to obtain information to determine whether he is paying a reasonable price or whether he should take his business elsewhere."

Plaintiffs include the Los Angeles County Health Rights Department, the Committee for the Rights of the Disabled and the Disabled Action Committee of California. The civil suit names the state Board of Pharmacy as the defendant and asks for an injunction to prevent further expenditure of public funds to enforce the law.

"Study after study," the suit said, "demonstrates that the price of a given prescription drug will vary markedly from pharmacy to pharmacy within the same city, sometimes by more than 300 per cent." The federal trade commission, the suit claims, has published a study showing that advertising prohibitions inflate drug prices from 16 to 34 per cent.

"That means that consumers in California were overcharged from $60 million to $150 million on their estimated $430 million in prescription drug purchases in 1973," the suit said.

"It is not unusual for a family to pay $10 for a prescription, not knowing that within a few blocks, the same drug would only cost $5," the suit charges.

Advertising and discount pricing, according to the suit, would bring down drug prices because of increased competition. The suit claims that Pennsylvania residents pay 38 per cent less for prescription drugs than Californians do because the Pennsylvania Supreme Court struck down a similar law banning advertising.

Housing Chief Kept From Attending Charge Hearing

The Marin County Housing Authority board met in closed session for nearly two hours last night to hear charges against Wallace K. Shepherd, agency executive director, but took no action following the meeting.

Shepherd had asked to attend the meeting where unspecified charges by board members Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. and Rogers Jones were to be discussed, but permission was denied by a 4-3 vote.

Jones, Ehrlich, Leatrice Mikkelsen and Myrna Bergerson voted to exclude him, while board members Arthur Miller Jr., Robert E. Eklund and Chairman Harold A. Strouss voted to let him attend the closed meeting and read a prepared statement.

Shepherd said that after the session he asked for a public meeting to discuss any charges against him. The board agreed to hold such a hearing within 30 days but set no date, he said.

Couple Hits The Jackpot At Stamp Machine

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — A Logan couple hit the jackpot when they dropped a dime into a stamp machine at the local Post Office.

But honesty prevailed. The lucky twosome rolled up 989 of the stamps with an unsigned note explaining what happened and stuffed them in mailbox.

"We wish they'd left their names so we could thank them," said Postmaster J.R. Rowberry.

Man Held In Theft Of Car

A Petaluma man was arrested yesterday on suspicion of possessing stolen property — an automobile reported taken June 18 while parked in front of its owner's home in Petaluma.

Neal Wayne Loshbaugh, 18, of 1290 McKenzie Drive was arrested in his backyard at 1:30 p.m. by Petaluma police — who noticed him in the process of altering upholstery, license plates, and serial numbers on the stolen car — according to sergeant Leo D. Hutchison.

Loshbaugh was being held today in Sonoma County Jail, pending a court appearance.

A Good Loser Wins —So Does College

Twenty-seven years ago next fall, a young man known as "Red" Diamond joined the faculty of what was then Marin Junior College and was made basketball coach. That first year at Kentfield, he coached the cage team into the national junior college championship.

A lot has happened to what is now College of Marin and to Irwin P. Diamond in the intervening 27 years.

DIAMOND CONTINUED as basketball coach for 10 years, then was named dean of men to succeed Arleigh Williams who left that job to become director of student activities at University of California, Berkeley. Three years later, Diamond was appointed to the newly created position of dean of students.

When Stephen E. Epler resigned as college superintendent-president in 1966, Diamond was named acting president. He hoped, naturally, to be chosen for the permanent spot.

Instead, the trustees the following year gave the job to William K. Ramstad of San Jose. It was a choice that did not turn out too well. The board asked for Ramstad's resignation after one year, then wound up having to buy up the remainder of his three-year contract.

There followed another interim appointment. But this time it did not go to Diamond, but to Louis H. Herkenhoff, assistant dean of the adult school. And after a year, the board again went outside to select a president, giving the job to John A. Grasham of Los Angeles.

FOR SEVEN years under Ramstad, Herkenhoff and Grasham, "Red" Diamond continued as dean of students, to the general satisfaction of trustees, administration, and student body. Looking back through our files, we discover only one time when we found occasion to be critical of him. That was over a matter of discipline in a time of college turmoil (here and elsewhere).

Diamond made no fuss about being "passed over" for the job of president. He took it with the same level-headedness as he had taken that national basketball championship back in 1947.

When Ramstad was named president in 1967, Diamond gave an interview to the College of Marin Times in which he said:

"To the young people among you who are truly serious about entering a society which presents great opportunity and harsh competition, I can only say that you too very soon will be facing the possibility of disappointment, rejection and defeat. It is all part of living. Being a good loser, in my mind, does not mean hiding your feelings, being a 'good sport' or pretending you didn't care anyway. Being a good loser simply means not giving up. The only sure way to avoid disappointment is never to try anything, and being afraid to try anything is not to live."

THAT STATEMENT says a lot for "Red" Diamond. And it says something that the present trustees of the college district that last week they named Diamond as president of his beloved Kentfield institution. Grasham will continue as district superintendent.

We wish Irwin Diamond a long and successful tenure as college president. He didn't give up, and he deserved to win.

ERNEST B. FURGURSON:

Leadership Lacking For Worldwide Campaign To Prevent Spreading Hunger

WASHINGTON — When the heat and the humidity both keep pushing 90 and tomatoes pop out on urban vines like freckles on a redhead, it is hard to appreciate that anybody anywhere is worried about food. The daring may enter a supermarket and be force-fed some inkling of it all, but only barely. For the worst by far is yet to come.

There are almost as many theories of how to solve the problem of feeding the world as there are mouths to feed, but the problem looms bigger and closer. Frustration is pandemic; hunger is close behind.

"I think it's time we came to an understanding."

ALL IN THE SAME week, these things happened:

In Washington, a report to the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs urged the United States to take the lead in organizing a new international food reserve. But the committee also heard that neither more spending in agriculture nor even increased food productivity is an adequate answer to forthcoming world food shortages.

At the United Nations, the Nobel Prize winner who developed new rice strains heralded as a "green revolution" declared that in Asia and Africa few nations are concerned about stepping up fertilizer production to make that revolution real.

In New York, an international conference on population agreed without serious dissent that the world was en route to reproducing itself over the brink of starvation.

In Tokyo, a spokesman for the Japanese fishing industry maintained that his countrymen must continue to eat whale meat, and so Japanese whalers must continue to kill whales even if it means the mammals' extinction.

In St. Pol-de-Leon, Brittany, French farmers destroyed 300 tons of artichokes because they were dissatisfied with sales this season.

In Shelbyville, Tenn., a single broiler producer smothered 300,000 newborn chicks and destroyed 800,000 fertilized eggs as he shut down his local operation to protest the slackening price of chickens — which are somewhat more basic than artichokes.

There is a lot of insanity going around.

A YEAR AGO, the farmers, most of them, were clamoring for price controls on their products to be removed.

Simultaneously, housewives were organizing boycotts to protest the high prices already demanded for some items. Now the farmers are desperate for government intervention to keep prices from dropping so far on beef and poultry, for example, that the producers get wiped out.

In our country, prices are on a roller coaster capable of doing in both producer and consumer in its wild dips and climbs. Supply and demand gyrate out of sync. It is easy to blame it all on Mr. Nixon's Earl Butz, who chortles when Americans have to pay higher prices because so much grain is sold abroad, and Herbert Stein, who clings to laissez faire economic theory as if the last hundred years had never happened.

YET IN THE INCREASINGLY short run, those two will be but minor actors who gave history a nudge. The economic imbalances, temporary price acrobatics, slaughtering of stock at the very time responsible authorities are urging record production —all these are sideshows. The inexorable main event was outlined 176 years ago by Thomas Malthus, who predicted that population would increase faster than food production, and that would define the future of man.

The suggested ways to circumvent it vary from genocide to a return to breast-feeding to eliminating the pet-food industry to some that make sense on the grand scale necessary. All of those latter demand government commitment and leadership on a level above ethnic, geographic or religious politics.

There is no sign that such leadership is forthcoming. The proof is copious that the showdown is hurrying near.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

Subject Matter Becoming More Important In Schools?

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Is subject matter beginning to come back into its own in California public schools? A school superintendent whom I interviewed recently thinks it is.

"During the '60s and the first part of the '70s," he said, "the emphasis has been on methods. Subject matter has been overlooked. The attention has been on how we teach rather than what we teach.

"I think the pendulum is starting to swing the other way. During the second half of the '70s, I think you will see renewed emphasis on subject matter — course content."

EMPHASIS ON METHODS rather than matter actually runs back well beyond 1960. The situation has its roots in the manner in which teachers themselves are educated.

For many years, it has been the practice in most teacher training institutions to require more hours of professional education courses than of academic courses in the subjects to be taught. James D. Koerner verified this with an analysis of 1,684 transcripts of credit from 32 institutions in his 1965 book, "The Miseducation of American Teachers." Since the schools of education placed more emphasis on process than on command of the subjects to be taught, it is scarcely surprising that their graduates approached their jobs in the same way.

The slighting of matter for method opened the way for what happened in the late '60s and early '70s: the "revolution of relevance."

For teachers trained to believe in "how" rather than "what," it was natural to downgrade course content still further in attempts to "turn on" disenchanted students. All sorts of courses with minimal content began to appear in high schools and colleges, masquerading as academic subjects.

CALDER PICKETT, professor of journalism at University of Kansas, put his finger on the problem in an article in the spring issue of the Jayhawk Journalist, titled "The University as Garbage Can." He wrote, among other things:

"When did 'mickey mouse' courses become as respectable as, say, chemistry or history?. . . I will guess that much of this began a few years ago when a screaming mob could invade a lecture course in anthropology and demand the rostrum, when all of us could bravely arise in democratic convocation and vote to cancel term papers and final examinations so that we could listen to rock groups and meditate on the war in Vietnam."

Pickett suggested that "a scholar of the future will learn much about our times by studying the titles of courses that had their temporary day on the campuses: 'Future Shock,' 'The Greening of America,' 'Education and Ecstasy,' maybe even 'The Valley of the Dolls.'"

He called this denigration of the curriculum in the name of relevance "creeping McLuhanism."

"We watch light shows and absorb things from the tube or from movies or from rock songs," he wrote. "We FEEL deeply, sitting around touching each others' bottoms so that we can RELATE. Books are out, unless they're fun to read."

THIS PERVERSION of education extended down to the high schools with its manifestations in "alternative schools" with "unstructured curricula" and a profusion of garbage courses masquerading as English or social studies.

The excuse for most of these was that they enabled the teacher to "communicate" better with the students. Never mind what happened to course content; the important thing was process or method.

The proof of the pudding, however, came in declining average scores on college entrance tests, diminished regard for the high school diploma, and an increase in drop-outs despite the presumed relevance of the new programs.

The superintendent with whom I talked thinks the educators have begun to catch on. However, schools are staffed by tenured teachers well inculcated with the theory that method is more important than matter, so it would be unrealistic to expect a quick turn-around.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Piecemeal Disclosures Call For Tough Action By Rodino

WASHINGTON — Why should anyone be disturbed by the leaks which continue to pour from the House and Senate Watergate committees and their staffs? All the facts ought to come out, shouldn't they?

The whole country should be resentful and revolted by these leaks. The reason is that tney constitute a one-sided disclosure of one-sided evidence designed to persuade the public that the president is guilty before he has been indicted.

THE HOUSE JUDICIARY Committee is not empowered to try the president. It is only empowered to gather evidence to determine whether he should be tried.

But the purposeful disclosure of the results of incomplete investigation and giving out accusatory inferences drawn from such incomplete investigation are the same as leaking grand jury findings before they are handed to the judge — which is illegal, unfair, unethical and immoral.

And nothing is being done to stop it — except that Chairman Peter (Horatius) Rodino Jr., D-N.J., is standing at the bridge with a feather duster proclaiming "this far and a little farther."

But the leaks continue. Not a day goes by without additional one-sided revelations by those members of the House Judiciary Committee who are all-out for impeachment by any means and by members of the legal staff. After one recent committee session there were 14 leaks. A "confidential staff memorandum" judging the president "culpable" was leaked the same day it was given to the committee. Eight of 14 staff memoranda prepared by staff member William P. Dixon, who worked for Sen. George McGovern in the 1972 presidential campaign, have been made public. Part of the contents of secret FBI documents has been leaked from the Judiciary Committee.

BUT SHOULDN'T the facts come out? Of course they should, but not piecemeal and not just one-sided, limited evidence telling only part of the story. Nothing should be held back and nothing will be held back when the House Judiciary Committee renders its verdict on whether the president should be impeached.

But what has been happening is that several members of the committee and its staff have been rendering their personal verdicts before the investigation is complete and leaking whatever evidence comes into their hands to convict the president ahead of the committee's own decision.

And nothing is yet being done to stop it.

CHAIRMAN RODINO is reported to be distressed and dismayed. He also says he's very frustrated. He feels he cannot control the members of his committee and thus far, at least, has not been able to deter the leaking members of his investigative and legal staff.

Something can be done, but it would take real conviction that it needs to be done and some guts to do it.

Secy. of State Henry Kissinger has shown the way. He said he would resign if the attacks on him by faceless leak and innuendo weren't stopped, and his name cleared by an arm of Congress.

That's the key to stopping one-sided Judiciary Committee leaks. If Rodino confronted the committee leakers with his determination to resign as chairman if the leaks didn't stop, I believe that would end it. The pro-impeachment committee members couldn't abide his resignation because they would then lose all chance of impeaching the president, and if the leaks don't stop they will destroy confidence in the impeachment proceedings.

Questions Legality Of Early Retirement

In your article "Defeated Legislators Due Pension Bonanza", (UPI news story June 21 - Editor.) you seem to have overlooked your own sound analysis of the pertinent facts. In Paragraph 6 you state, "All three of the public officials gave up their reelection chances in the legislature to run for the statewide offices."

My understanding of the legislation passed in 1965 is that it will cover those legislators who are defeated for reelection because of redistricting. By no stretch of reason could you deduct that a man who did not try for reelection in his district for his old position, but who chose to try for a higher position statewide and failed to win would be entitled to this bonus retirement, since his defeat was in no way due to redistricting.

I believe that legal action could be taken against any legislator drawing an early retirement under these circumstances. Could you obtain a legal opinion on this?

FLORENCE E. HUGHES
San Anselmo.

(The legislators' retirement law (Government Code sections 9359 et seq) provides for early retirement benefits if a legislator is defeated for re-election subsequent to reapportionment or if he "chooses not to run" for re-election. A legislator running for statewide office has chosen not to run for re-election, hence is eligible for the early retirement benefits. — Editor.)

Flag Day Spirit Needed For July 4

This is to express our appreciation to your paper and especially to Associate Editor Bryce W. Anderson for the assistance rendered the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks No. 1108, Marin Barracks World War I Veterans No. 550, Wilkens Post No. 37 American Legion and Tamalpais Post No. 72, Veterans of Foreign Wars, during the preparation, planning and presentation of the Flag Day ceremony held on the Magnolia Terrace of the Elks Lodge on June 9.

We also wish to thank the 4-H Clubs of America, Boy Scouts and Explorer Posts and the Marin Composite Air Rescue Squadron No. 4 for their splendid spirit which contributed to this program. . .

To all the military units and/or individuals, both active, reserve, or retired, civic, service and fraternal who this year as in the past so proudly carried our nation's colors in the community March of Flags, we give a special salute and say well done.

It was in great part due to this effort that this year's tribute to our flag was a most successful event attended by an increasing number of Marin County citizens desirous of having an occasion and place to honor the Stars and Stripes. . .

In a few days we Americans will, or should, give thanks and hopefully take time out to celebrate the birthday of our nation, July 4, 1776. Of late, this day, which should mean so much to every American, has suffered the fate of other of our nation's days to be thankful for and reverently remembered, especially Memorial Day and Veterans' Day. It is unthinkable that we as a nation should let commercialism, apathy, ingratitude and lack of pride and respect subject these days to the lack of pride and reverence they now endure. . .

'San Rafael Looks Like A Dump In Most Places'

We visit friends often at the senior citizens' home (Martinelli House) on Lincoln Avenue in San Rafael, and once again you can tell you are in San Rafael.

Your city takes no pride whatsoever in clean streets — bare dirt wherever you look along sidewalks and buildings or else grown up with weeds and the like. I guess your city fathers don't care, cause San Rafael looks like a dump in most places. The years have left many ugly scars.

Martinelli House, with all its hoopla grand opening, looks a mess from the gutter. Try stepping in the mud as I did getting out of the car. It's been that way since it opened. It fits in with the rest of the tackiness that the "master plan" will take care of.

San Rafael Sets Drug Unit Plans

By NELS JOHNSON

A highly trained narcotics squad charged with busting major dope peddlers in Marin County, is being organized by the San Rafael Police Department.

The City of San Rafael, which is sponsoring the intercity drug unit, has received approval from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration for a $165,000 grant to fund the project.

In addition, the San Rafael City Council has allocated $18,691 to the program.

Head of the drug squad will be San Rafael's new police chief, Lawrence Kelly. The unit will also include five paid staff members — a project coordinator, a police inspector, three undercover investigators and a police clerk.

LAWRENCE R. KELLY
Heads drug squad

The narcotics squad will be based in a San Rafael office building, and will direct its attention "toward the distribution of narcotics which are of such magnitude that it indicates an involvement beyond a single city or unincorporated jurisdiction," according to the federal grant application filed by the city.

The application states: "The unit will concentrate on locating and identifying major suppliers and distributors of illicit drugs within Marin County. . .A coordinated attack against the principles of the organized narcotics syndicates and the subsequent removal from narcotics trafficking will decrease the availability of narcotics and result in a decrease in associated crimes, such as burglary, armed robbery, larceny.

"In addition to concentrating on local major suppliers and distributors of illicit drugs within Marin County, the unit will also direct some of its efforts toward those persons dealing in street quantities of narcotics."

A budget prepared by Kelly proposes the following expenses: salaries and benefits, $97,747; travel, $1,950; evaluation of project, $15,000; equipment, $27,429; supplies and operating expenses, $41,565.

City officials said they are currently awaiting receipt of a contract with the federal government for the project, and said the unit will be in operation by Sept. 1. The city will seek another grant next year to continue the program.

Kelly, who replaces retiring Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori on Aug. 1, said Marin has become a drug mecca and is in desperate need of an elite drug unit.

"Information we have received indicates there is a substantial amount of drugs within Marin County," he said, noting two huge drug factories were discovered in East San Rafael within the last year.

Bay Area counties surrounding Marin have such narcotics squads and in effect have prompted large drug traffickers to move to Marin "where there is no heat," he said.

Informants, undercover officers, surveillance, and narcotics buying programs, among others, will be employed to weed out these big dealers, Kelly said.

The deputy chief said the drug unit will strive to be "more diligent" than the ill-fated Marin Drug Abuse Bureau, a county narcotics squad abolished by supervisors two years ago.

(The old county drug bureau was established in 1967 with a five-man staff and a $52,587 budget after the grand jury persuaded supervisors that "the lives of our children and the future of our country" were menaced by increasing narcotics crimes.

(By 1969, the unit's budget had soared to $117,000, while 90 per cent of the agents' arrests were for narcotics possession rather than sales.

(In budget hearings in subsequent years, supervisors whittled bureau manpower and funding until its demise in 1972.)

Kelly noted that the new drug bureau has already drawn criticism from officials involved with drug treatment, but called critics premature.

The county Technical Advisory Committee on Drug Abuse complained last week that it was not consulted before the bureau was organized, and said it feared the bureau might use illicit procedures to obtain drug arrests.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors yesterday set a public hearing on the new bureau for next Tuesday. The move followed criticism of the unit from Michael Cowan, director of Center Point, a drug treatment facility.

Cowan told supervisors he was disturbed that "no input" had been received from his agency as well as Marin Open House, another antidrug facility.

An Impasse In Petaluma Over Employees' Salaries

Negotiations between the City of Petaluma and a union representing 45 maintenance, sewer and water employees have reached a standstill.

The employees, represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, had asked for an 11.5 per cent pay hike over the coming fiscal year.

During a special meeting Monday, the city council unanimously voted to offer an 8 per cent increase and more fringe benefits as recommended by City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer.

Union members told the council they cannot live on their present salaries, and the increase offered isn't enough to improve their situation.

The union charged that some employees are so poorly paid they are almost eligible for food stamps.

Mayor Helen Putnam told the employees she regretted being able to offer only 8 per cent. Inflation, she said, was the reason the city could not offer more.

The council also awarded to the Ghilotti Brothers Construction Co. of San Rafael a $357,000 contract to reconstruct South McDowell Boulevard between McKenzie Avenue and Fire Station No. 3, and authorized Police Chief Larry D. Higgins to replace retiring police dog Arko with two more animals.

Petaluma Board Stalls On Special Revenue Panel

The Petaluma Board of Education's effort to establish an advisory committee to help with a tentative revenue increase election ran into a snag last night when board members found they could not agree among themselves on the committee's function.

While member Robert T. Stimson said he felt a committee composed of lay persons, and board members and teachers could "provide community input" in determining financial needs of the Petaluma Elementary and High School districts, member Mary Shearer and chairman Daniel B. Plumley said the group should have a more limited role.

"I just don't feel a lay committee is capable of evaluating districts we ourselves can't even evaluate," Plumley said.

Mrs. Shearer warned that "when you ask people to work that hard you're obligated to take their recommendations."

The difference of opinion was resolved after lengthy discussion by member Dr. Wesley W. Ebert, who proposed that the board itself set a "philosophical direction" for the committee to follow.

The board will meet at an undetermined time and date next week to thrash out its own official position on a revenue election.

Board members have indicated they generally believe the two Petaluma districts must have more money to operate. Local revenues are lower than state per-pupil averages, business manager George Castleberry told the board last night.

The board set July 9 as the date to formally call for an election.

If an election is approved, the matter will be placed on the Nov. 5 ballot in the form of two questions, one concerning the high school district and the other the elementary district. The districts do not share identical boundaries.

The board also agreed to present the $3.29 million tentative elementary district budget and the $8.9 million tentative high school district budget to the Sonoma County Superintendent of Schools for evaluation.

Approval Of Train Leaders Is Withheld

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Commerce Committee yesterday withheld approval of the nominations of current Amtrack president Roger Lewis and former official Jerry Morgan to a new board of directors of the national rail passenger corporation.

The action, taken when other board members were approved, is not a rejection of either man and does not necessarily mean that either will not be eventually approved.

The two names were withheld to allow the committee to investigate the legality and propriety of an Amtrack deferred compensation program which allows Amtrack officials who leave the company to receive compensation in addition to the maximum $60,000 a year mandated by Congress.

A WELCOME COMPARISON

Occasionally we are fortunate enough to get a home such as this. Outstanding area, close to schools and shopping. Large lot with plenty of parking, and most important, an extra large, immaculate luxury home that can not be duplicated. Starting with the immense family room with rock fireplace, cathedral ceilings, ceramic tile floor, wormwood paneling (this room is unbelievable), large living room with another rock fireplace, 3 large bdrms., 2 baths, large modern kitchen, separate utility room and 2 car garage. We could go on and on with all the features, but see for yourself. This can not be duplicated at $53,950.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Senate Approves School Aid To Curb Inflation

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Without a vote to spare, the Senate has approved a $90 million bonus for California schools to help them meet inflation.

The bill (SB1592) by Sen. Ralph C. Dills moved to an uncertain future today in the Assembly. The Gardena Democrat said he hoped to speed the measure to final passage before the Legislature adjourns Friday.

Costs of the bill would be split half-and-half between the state and local property taxpayers. It was designed to provide an inflation cushion for schools, but would also move slightly towards equalizing educational costs between rich and poor districts.

"I don't think we ought to have our schools suffer," Dills declared. He said the state's portion of the inflation funds could come from a "big, fat" budget surplus this year, which he estimated would total $300 million.

Local districts would provide their share of the funds from up to $45 million now earmarked for property tax rollbacks. In most cases, Dills said, it would not result in a direct tax increase, but smaller rollbacks than planned.

The bill passed the Senate yesterday on a 27-10 vote, the bare two-thirds majority needed.

Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, argued the money from local districts would amount to a tax increase without a vote of the people.

Another Republican opponent, Sen. George Deukmejian of Long Beach, said the state already was providing $600 million a year in school aid and planned adding another $123 million next year.

The state's $45 million would be directed strictly at poor districts. It would raise by $10 the minimum standards for what each school should spend per student.

Wealthy districts, which already spend way over that "foundation level," would not benefit. Moreover, taxpayers in such districts would be barred from voting future spending increases.

The restriction was described as a first step toward meeting the landmark Serrano court decision, in which a Los Angeles judge ruled that California relies unfairly on property taxes to support schools and discriminates against children in poor districts.

HOUSING POLICY

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure repealing a 24-year-old constitutional requirement that voters have the final say on construction of low-cost housing has been placed on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

The proposed constitutional amendment (ACA40) by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, was assured a spot on the ballot yesterday when the Senate approved it on a 28-9 vote, only one more than the bare two-thirds majority required.

Under a 1950 amendment to the state Constitution, local voters must ratify low-rent housing projects which already had been approved by a city council or board of supervisors.

But Sen. Peter Behr, R-San Rafael, expressed confidence in the wisdom of local governing boards in approving local cost housing and termed the referendum requirement "unfair and unreasonable."

EQUAL RIGHTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A measure removing "sexist" references in the California Constitution has narrowly passed the Senate.

Supported by women's rights activists, the proposed constitutional amendment (ACA99) by Assemblyman Alan Sieroty, was approved yesterday on a 27-7 vote, the bare two-thirds majority required, and returned to the Assembly for acceptance of amendments. There was no debate.

The measure, which would require voter approval, would eliminate from the Constitution any references to the male gender, changing terms such as workmen's compensation to workers' compensation.

BOND ISSUE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation placing a $150 million bond issue on the Nov. 5 ballot to finance school construction has won unanimous passage from the Senate.

The measure (AB3236) by Assemblyman Alister McAlister, D-San Jose, was approved yesterday on a 35-0 vote and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in amendments. There was no debate.

The bond issue would provide $50 million for rehabilitation of earthquake-unsafe schools and $100 million for construction of new schools to meet student growth.

LIVING STATUS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Employees of a charter city would no longer be required to live within the city limit under legislation which has passed the Senate.

The proposed constitutional amendment (ACA103) by Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills, was approved 30-2 yesterday and returned to the Assembly for concurrence in minor amendments.

Currently, general law cities cannot impose a requirement that their employees, such as police and firemen, must reside within its jurisdiction. The Berman measure would prohibit charter cities from imposing the same restriction.

If approved by the Assembly, the legislation would be subject to voter ratification at the Nov. 5 general election.

COURT COSTS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The state would be required to pay the entire cost of establishing a new superior court judgeship under a "precedent-setting" bill which has won final legislative approval.

The measure (SB1946) by Sen. Fred Marler Jr., R-Redding, passed the Senate yesterday on a 30-0 vote and was sent to Gov. Ronald Reagan.

It would appropriate $60,000 to Shasta County to pay the full cost of establishing a new superior court judgeship. Currently, the cost is shared jointly by the county and state.

A REAGAN VETO

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A bill extending the state's homeowners' property tax exemption to welfare recipients was vetoed yesterday by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who said it would result in "overlapping benefits for many recipients."

The measure (SB688) by Sen. Nicholas C. Petris, D-Oakland, would have affected a total of 120,000 welfare families in California.

"Extending the homeowners' exemption to welfare recipients will place California taxpayers in the position of funding overlapping benefits for many recipients," Reagan said in his veto message.

BILLS DELAYED

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An Assembly committee hearing on four rival bills designed to resolve farm labor disputes by providing secret ballot union elections was delayed yesterday until Aug. 7.

The measures had been scheduled for a hearing today by the Labor Relations Committee.

Assembly Speaker-designate Leo T. McCarthy, who also is chairman of the committee, explained the delay in a statement:

"There is a growing concensus that the Legislature must act constructively on the farm labor issue this session. I strongly share that view . . ."

The Legislature will recess later this week until August 7 for a summer vacation. No farm labor bill yet has cleared a legislative committee this year.

ANTINOISE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Starting next year, the state Department of Motor Vehicles will refuse to register any new car, truck or off-highway vehicle which does not meet state noise standards.

Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday signed a bill (AB661) which prohibits the DMV from registering such vehicles. Its author is Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada.

Current state law prohibits any person from selling any new motor vehicle or new off-highway vehicle which exceeds certain noise standards.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

THE GOVERNOR

Salary — Indicated at a news conference that he is opposed to pending legislation that would increase the salaries of top state officials, including governor, by 20 per cent.

Arts — Vetoed a bill requiring that seven of the 15 members of the California Arts Commission be widely known artists or members of the art community. (SB1486)Gregorio, D-San Mateo.)

Welfare — Vetoed a bill extending the state's homeowners' property tax exemption to welfare recipients. (SB688-Petris, D-Oakland.)

Noise — Signed a bill prohibiting the Department of Motor Vehicles from registering any new car, truck or off-highway vehicle which does not meet state noise standards. (AB661-Lanterman, R-La Canada.)

THE SENATE

Passed

Women — Eliminates from the state constitution any references to the male gender. (ACA99-Sieroty, D-Los Angeles. 27-7. To Assembly.)

Bonds — Places a $150 million school bond issue on the Nov. 5 ballot. (AB3236-McAlister, D-San Jose. 35-0. To Assembly for concurrence in amendments.)

Vote — Repeals constitutional requirement that voters have final say on construction of low-cost housing.(ACA40-Brown, D-San Francisco. 28-9. Goes on Nov. 5 ballot.)

Schools — Provides $9 million for California schools. (SB1592-Dills, D-Gardena. 27-10. To Assembly.)

Judge — Requires the state to pay full costs of establishing a new superior court judgeship. (SB1946-Marler, R-Redding. 30-0. To governor.)

Employees — Repeals restriction that employees of a charter city must live within the city limit. (ACA101-Berman, D-Beverly Hills. 30-2. To Assembly for concurrence in amendments.)

THE ASSEMBLY

No major action.

Cardinals Given Partial Pay Hike

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Cardinals working at the Vatican have received an unpublicized pay raise, but the papal state's administrators are taking back part of it with the other hand, Vatican sources said yesterday.

They said the Vatican, taking into account the steep rise in the cost of living in neighboring Italy, has been paying the 35 resident Cardinals a monthly bonus of $123 since January as a partial reimbursement of servants' salaries.

On the other hand, the sources said, Cardinals now have to pay for their own electricity, gas and heating, which previously was free, and this has wiped out a good share of the bonus.

Foot Examined

BOSTON (UPI) — Mrs. Rose Kennedy was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital yesterday for an examination of an arthritic foot condition, hospital officials reported.

San Rafael, air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources but the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

FORECASTS

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Excessive Vibration Appears To Have An Effect On Health

Does excessive vibration, especially in an industrial setting, have an adverse effect on health and safety? According to recent studies, it does. And, in the future, vibration exposure could be added to other occupational hazards such as noise, airborne chemicals, and too much heat and dust. In many instances, vibration is coupled with the noise of chain saws, jackhammers, printing presses, and manufacturing equipment.

Donald E. Wasserman and Donald W. Badger, who toured more than 45 plants, quarries, farms, and work sites throughout the United States, estimated that approximately eight million workers are exposed to some form of industrial vibration. Some were exposed constantly and for a longer time than others. There was, however, no agreement as to what the vibrative motions did to these workers.

VIBRATING TOOLS may affect the whole body or just a parto of it (segmental). Operators of bulldozers and other types of heavy equipment may feel a bit unsteady at the end of the day. One Russian study reported marked changes in bone structure along with chemical changes in the blood. In a Polish study on vibration sickness, victims developed gastrointestinal symptoms, dizziness, insomnia, and muscular atrophy.

Considerable research has been done on the effects of vibration from hand tools, such as pneumatic chippers, hammers, and chain saws. In fact, at least 30 years ago, we saw men who developed circulatory changes in the fingers (Raynaud's syndrome or white fingers) after operating a pneumatic hammer to dig up a paved road. One or more of the fingers employed to grasp or guide the tool became numb or "felt dead." Lighter weight drills may do the same.

THE NUMBNESS did not persist, but prolonged use of the vibratory tool made the fingers sensitive to the cold, and, on exposure, the skin blanched or the extremity became cold and numb. In some instances, the arms and shoulders were involved.

Apparently, acute exposure to vibration can injure the tiny blood vessels, affect the muscles and, in some, the bones and joints. Treatment is not too satisfactory, although cure may follow a change of occupation. Heat, massage, and drugs to improve the circulation are helpful.

Dr. Van Dellen welcomes reader questions. While he cannot reply to them individually, he will answer those of general interest in his column. Write to Dr. Van Dellen, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

PRESSURE LEVELS

H. I. writes: My doctor put me on a strict reducing diet because of my arthritis. I lost 22 pounds in a month and my blood pressure (which used to be normal) now is low — 100. Would reducing do this to a 32-year-old woman?

REPLY

Blood pressure levels fluctuate from minute to minute, day to day, and month to month. Differences of 10 points are observed frequently and, during the next visit to your physician, you may find that the reading is what it was originally. A pressure in the low 100s is still normal.

DEPILATORY CHEMICALS

E.S. writes: Is it safe for a person to use a depilatory to remove hair in the nostrils?

REPLY

No, depilatory chemicals are too strong for the delicate nasal membranes. Trim the hairs with blunt-nosed scissors.

BOWEL OBSTRUCTION

L. C. writes: How can a person tell if he has obstruction of the bowel?

REPLY

There is severe abdominal pain with vomiting and constipation. When obstruction is complete, nothing passes, the intestine balloons up and, in time, goes into reverse, causing nausea and vomiting. Toxins develop and death ensues unless corrective surgery is done. A partial obstruction is associated with cramping that does not respond to the usual drugs that relax the intestine.

NEGATIVE PAP TEST

A reader writes: Does a negative cervical Pap smear mean that there is no cancer?

REPLY

Yes — in that area. We must assume that the secretions were obtained properly and the laboratory is reliable.

SPREAD OF HEPATITIS

T. S. writes: Can hepatitis be spread by dirty public washrooms?

REPLY

Possibly, because the virus responsible for the liver disorder is transmitted via contaminated wastes that find their way into the body by way of the fingers and mouth.

Transit Systems Not Bound To Political Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 5-to-4 yesterday that city transit systems are not required to accept political advertisements on buses, streetcars or subways.

Justice Harry A. Blackmun, speaking for the majority, said transit companies can limit advertising to "innocuous and less controversial commercial and service-oriented advertising" to minimize any appearances of political favoritism.

Justice William O. Douglas said political candidates had no right to force their messages "upon a captive audience, which uses public transit vehicles, not as a place for discussion, but only as a means of transport."

Jingle Plants Crowd Nashville Music Row

By JAY SHARBUTT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Music Row. The name evokes a bucolic boulevard of country balladiers, tobacco-chewing tunesmiths, good ol' boys who came here barefoot, with no other visible means of support than a dream, and who currently drive Cadillacs.

Now Music Row, 1974, encompasses about five blocks. It's still down-home, still tree-lined, but its music and loot therefrom no longer is pure country. It's also pop, soul and jingles. Jingles? Yeah, those 30-and 60-second radio or TV ditties that urge you to fly United, drink Miller beer, shave with Gillette and hopefully keep on truckin' in a GMC model. All were recorded here.

And though Nashville's jungle works still is small by New York or Los Angeles standards, it's growing. One union official claims work here is up "at least 100 per cent from three years ago."

He's Paul Wilder, secretary of the local American Federation of Radio and Television Artists - AFTRA - office.

Wilder, a lean, tanned man, says when he joined the local eight years ago it only had 43 members. Now it has 600, he says, and 50 per cent of them regularly announce on or sing in jingles here.

He partly attributes the growth to a local fee, set in 1970, that was so rock-bottom "we almost gave it away. But it's also due to the wealth of talent we have, the 'sound' they get.

"Our problem was, how do you get major ad agencies to at least come see what we have here. And the answer was the local rate."

He said it only applies to commercials aired here. The far higher rate for commercials destined for national or major market broadcast is the same as in Los Angeles and New York.

"But at least it got our foot in the door," he said.

The American Federation of Musicians local, which claims 2,300 members, says at least 500 to 600 of them regularly do jingle dates under a local and national fee plan similar to that of AFTRA.

It estimates the city has 50 jungle production firms, but Music Row veterans say only about four or five of these get most of the nationally or regionally aired jingle trade.

Reagan Vetos Bill To Shake Up Arts Panel

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday vetoed legislation requiring that seven of the 15 members of the California Arts Commission be widely known artists or members of the arts community. The measure SB1486 was by Sen. Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

"I will not support changes in the qualifications for members of the California Arts Commission unless there is some demonstrated evidence of a need for change," Reagan said in his veto message.

The bill provided that members of the arts community could include those persons in ethnic minority art and culture, artists' guilds and unions, professional arts administration and arts education.

Reagan said he was "not convinced that providing representation for a variety of specific factions will enhance the commission's ability to provide quality art programs in California. The present membership is well qualified to meet its responsibilities under the law."

Despite the veto, Gregorio said he would work for changes in the commission's membership.

"It appears that the commission will continue to be composed mainly of affluent arts patrons and fund raisers who, although crucial to the survival of the arts in this state, form a very narrow base of thinking and communication," Gregorio said.

New Miss California Ready For Women's Lib Critics

Miss Alice Rose Tobler, the 5 ft. 7 in. blue-eyed music major who won the Miss California crown Saturday told newsmen she hasn't encountered women's liberationists critical of the pageant, "and I'm sorry I haven't."

"I don't feel empty headed," she said in defense of the pageant. "I'm just the same person I was before."

Miss Tobler, who measures 36-24-36, said the pageant judges are more interested in the charm and "personal beauty" of contestants than their build.

She said she laughed her way down the winners ramp after taking swim suit competition "because I had just lost eight pounds the week before." She now weighs 112 pounds.

"We're here to develop ourselves," said Miss Tobler. "The Miss America pageant has given away $1 million in scholarships this year. They're trying to open up women as human beings through the pageant," she said.

Miss Tobler, who will graduate from Canada College and plans to finish her last two years of schooling at San Francisco State University, said she will not return to school next year so she can devote her time to "my responsibilities as Miss California."

Environment Czar Talks To Mayors

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The Environmental Protection Agency will enforce smog control measures required by law, but not demand the impossible, EPA Administrator Russell E. Train told the nation's mayors yesterday.

He told the 42nd U.S. Conference of Mayors, however, "The transportation control plans are not just temporary stopgap measures which we can wish away with just a few years' delay."

Train addressed the mayors on the second day of the conference which has been largely directed toward getting the federal government to work to solve urban problems through revenue sharing and federal bloc grants.

"Even when all cars on the road have controls meeting the statutory 90 per cent reduction in emissions from 1970 levels, many areas will still need transportation controls because of the sheer number of autos involved and the quantity of gasoline consumed," Train said.

However, he said the EPA recognized some controls were "unreasonable and undesirable because they would cause severe social and economic disruption."

Train said proposed legislation would avoid severe effects and said as an example, he considered gasoline rationing unreasonable.

EPA will enforce compliance dates for measures including gasoline vapor recovery, vehicle inspection and maintenance, parking management and bus fleet expansion, he said.

"In summary, we will not demand the impossible or the clearly unreasonable," he said. "But we will enforce transportation control requirements."

Politics aimed at the presidential election two years hence was an undercurrent theme and Democrats, led by National Chairman Robert Strauss, held a late night caucus Monday to discuss how to attract the unemployed and poverty stricken to the party cause.

Federal Counts In Wallace Shooting Off

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William B. Saxbe announced yesterday that federal charges have been dropped against Arthur H. Bremer, convicted in Maryland and sentenced to 53 years in jail for the shooting of Gov. George C. Wallace.

The Alabama governor, campaigning for the Democratic presidential nomination, was critically wounded May 15, 1972, in Laurel, Md. and convicted under Maryland law.

Bremer was also indicted by a federal grand jury in Baltimore on charges of injuring Wallace, assault of a Secret Service agent, illegally transporting firearms and using a firearm to commit a federal felony. The federal charges were dropped by U.S. District Judge Edward S. Northrop.

STEPHANIE SEGARS
If grades stay up

Girl, 15, Has Brisk Trade In G-Strings

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Fifteen-year-old Stephanie Segars' after-school job has found a lucrative market. She makes G-strings and pasties for "exotic dancers."

She can earn $100 a week in her spare time — providing her grades don't fall. If they start to slip, her mother, Mrs. William Segars, says that'll be the end of the money-making hobby.

Stephanie says big companies charge $8 to $12 for pasties. She throws them in for free with a G-string order. While their G-strings cost $30 to $50, hers run $5 to $35, depending on design and material.

Material for a full outfit - top and bottom - costs has as little as 25 cents. "Out of three-eights of a yard of material I can get four G-strings," she says.

It appears the schoolgirl has always had a knack for capitalizing on a profitable venture. A few years ago when she wanted to show her horse, Supreme Court, in Kentucky, she raised the entry fee by catching, cooking and selling crabs.

After she graduates from Plant High School, Stephanie plans to study marine biology, fashion or theater in college.

Major Auto Makers Told Of Pollution

DETROIT (AP) — Four major automakers were notified by the government today that up to 1.4 million of their 1972 model cars appear in violation of federal air pollution standards and may be subject to recall.

An Environmental Protection Agency spokesman in Washington said the apparent violations involve cars built by General Motors, Ford, Chrysler and Volkswagen. He said the automakers would be given 10 days to respond to the EPA's findings.

He said the companies' Washington representatives were notified by hand-delivered letters this morning. Phone calls to company headquarters were made at the same time, the spokesman said.

G.M., Chrysler and Volkswagen said today they have received notification from the EPA about the findings but would have no comment at the present time. Ford spokesmen were unavailable for comment.

By GARY HUGHES

A Short Talk With Charlie O.

I met Charlie Finley Monday night. It was quite an experience.

In the top of the ninth inning of Monday's A's — Angels game Alvin Dark had made a number of defensive changes. The press box announcer read them off but I missed a couple of them so after the game I went down to ask Alvin exactly what he had done. His office door was open but as I started in I immediately realized he was occupied and my concern over his batting order became unimportant. Charles O. Finley himself was sitting there.

I VERY QUIETLY started to back out of the area since I felt that I might be intruding on some high level decision-making. Charley stopped my retreat with a very gracious, "Come in, young man." I accepted the invitation and had Alvin straighten out my scorecard. I then thought I'd take advantage of the opportunity to get an exclusive comment from Finley with Alvin the only other person present.

The A's had let Deron Johnson go to Milwaukee the day before. It had been rumored that Oakland was interested in obtaining Ed Kirkpatrick, a catcher-outfielder-first baseman with Pittsburgh. I asked Charley if the rumored interest in Kirkpatrick was true, what chance did he feel he had of getting him now that word was out?

His answer: "Lets assume that we might be interested in Kirkpatrick. Eliminating Pittsburgh and of course ourselves, 22 teams are left. Since we finished on top each of these 22 teams has a shot at any player before we do. If another team is aware of our interest our chances of obtaining a player are greatly diminished."

CHARLIE THEN LOOKED at Dark and said, "Don't worry, we'll come up with somebody. Isn't that right Alvin?" Dark replied laughingly, "You mean you'll come up with someone. You always do." Finley enjoyed that and commented, "I certainly hope our luck holds up."

A few of the other writers began to filter in and Alvin was asked if Ray Fosse was expected back. Finley interrupted Dark's answer by saying, "Alvin, I'm going to answer that question because you haven't been brought up to date on this. Fosse will be examined by a neurosurgeon tomorrow. The biggest concern facing this club is when and if Ray Fosse can catch. Last year the doctors said that Gene Tenace would be unable to catch every day without facing shoulder surgery. It was for that reason he was moved to first base. Now we have a situation where we have Tenace catching every day. There is no telling how long he can go. If Fosse has an injured nerve rather than a muscle he could be out all year. We'll have to do something."

Finley then asked Dark if he thought the players appreciated his cheering during the game. Dark said that he was sure the players realized Finley was there.

IT WAS MY OBSERVATION that everyone realized Charlie was there. The clubhouse guard warned me to have my press pass ready because "the man was in town." The food was better than usual in the press lounge (swiss steak). The press box announcer always gives the night's attendance followed by the season's total, last year's total at the same point, and the amount of increase or decrease. Monday night he gave only the night's figure.

Prior to the game Sal Bando had expressed gratitude to me because I had tried to place his so called "rip" at Dark in proper perspective. Though he had been "quoted" widely as saying that Dark "couldn't manage a meat market," he assured me that I was correct when I wrote that he had never repeated the remarks that he had made.

I WAS ABLE TO corner Finley as I was leaving. I mentioned that in light of his history of rehiring ex-employees that there was a catcher in the league who hadn't caught a game all year that used to work for him. He asked me to name him and I mentioned Phil Roof of the Twins. Finley said that Roof had caught a game the day before in Minnesota and that he had seen the game.

Now why did Roof catch his first game of the year when Finley was looking on? Hmmmm.

HARD LANDING — Marijke Schaar of the Netherlands was in no position to return the ball at this point in her match with Australian Evonne Goolagong yesterday. Mrs. Schaar lost, 6-1, 6-1.

Squealing Girls Invade Wimbledon To See Him

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Someone must have turned out the primary schools yesterday for hundreds of squealing girls poured into the Wimbledon Tennis grounds demanding that their idol, Bjorn Borg of Sweden, be delivered up to them.

And Billie Jean King and Rosemary Casals were delighted. Well, it was audience participation, they said. And that was what their World Team Tennis back home was all about, everybody getting noisily involved in what was happening on court. (Another story, picture on page 43.)

But what was happening at staid Wimbledon has never happened in WTT.

The stampede towards the players dining room where the 18-year-old Swede had taken refuge caught the stewards by surprise. One of them gasped, while pushing back the throng: "Imagine what it would be like if he could also sing."

The chants of "We want Borg"—unprecedented in the birthplace of tournament tennis —brought a storm of shushing from the older generation, to no avail.

Despite the approval of top-seeded Billie Jean and fourth-seeded Rosemary, Wimbledon plans to go on as it has been doing since 1877 with no applause during rallies and no cheering at any time. And if World Team Tennis has any doubts that this policy pays here there were 27,000 admissions yesterday — a two-day total of 52,000, many of them at the $8 top.

As far as the box office goes this will be the richest of the 88 Wimbledons so far. It has to be to pay prizes totalling $234,480. The quality of play yesterday did not reflect this golden standard, but for connoisseurs there was one absorbing match in which age, wielding a rapier, disarmed youth armed with a cutlass.

In other words, Ken Rosewall of Australia, 39, the ninth seed, moved into the last 32 of the men's singles by beating Vijay Amritraj, 20, of India, 6-2, 5-7, 9-8, 6-1.

Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill, the third seed, took up where he left off because of fading light Monday night and won the fourth set and match from big Ove Bengtson of Sweden, 6-1, 7-9, 6-2, 6-4.

Connors, who wore a sweater throughout in the cloudy, chilly day, said, I'm glad to be playing again. I'm quite satisfied with my game."

Billie Jean made a 33-minute appearance in center court to beat Kathie May of Los Angeles 6-1, 6-1 and open her campaign for a sixth Wimbledon singles crown. Miss Casals took only a little longer to dispose of Britain's Penny Moor, 6-2, 6-1. Another of the American delegation, eighth-seeded Arthur Ashe also had an easy win over Hans Kary of Austria 6-4, 6-2, 6-2. Sharon Walsh of San Rafael defeated Jeanne Evert, 8-6, 6-4.

Defending champion and sixth seed Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia was one set down and 1-4 in the second to powerful Leif Johansson of Sweden before he found the range and plodded into the last 32 of the singles 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Martial Arts Championships

SAN FRANCISCO — The first world invitational martial arts championships will be held in the Civic Auditorium Saturday and Sunday.

Competition will be in Kung Fu (full contact), Tekwon-Do, Kempo and Karate.

Cost of the two-day tournament, which benefits the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, will be $5 for adults and $3.50 for children under 16. The competition starts each morning at 10 a.m. and lasts until 10 p.m.

Football Strike Looms

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A pro football players' strike loomed all-but-inevitable even in the eyes of a federal mediator who called both sides in for another round of bargaining today.

Mediator James Scearce emerged from a 5½-hour negotiating session with player and owner representatives yesterday to report: "I can't be overly optimistic even though a mediator is supposed to be optimistic. "There are tremendous differences between the two sides and they've got to get moving to close the gap."

Bill Curry, president of the NFL Players Association, left little doubt that the second football strike since 1970 would occur just before the NFL teams open training camps in July.

"It looks very much as if it's going to happen," the Houston Oilers' center said after yesterday's session, charging the owner representatives were "shadow boxing" in the collective bargaining talks. Still untouched were the so-called "freedom issue" demands by the players on reserve and option clause terms of their contracts, which the owners contend would lead to "anarchy."

Curry also accused the owners of trying to "intimidate" rookies and free agents into reporting for preseason camps and of using them as "pawns" and "strikebreakers."

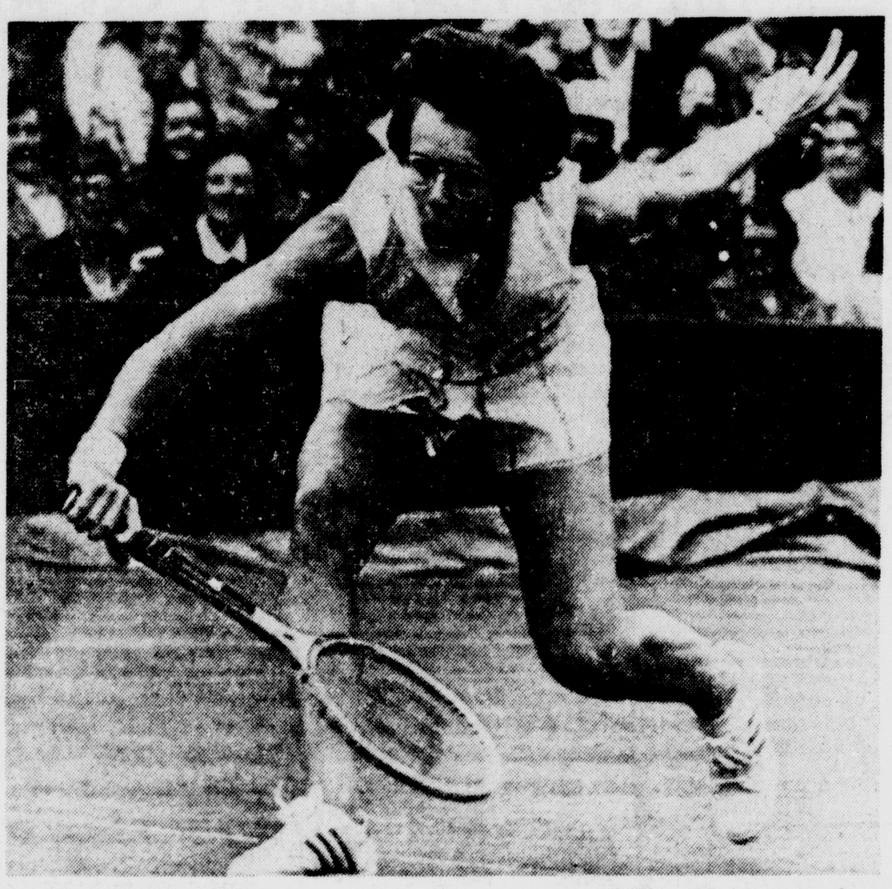

John Thompson, executive secretary of the owners' Management Council, which is on the other side of the table, tried to sound a more hopeful note.

"We're still shooting for a settlement and are optimistic it can be reached to avoid trouble before it really counts," he told newsmen. This presumably would be prior to July 26 when the College All-Star team plays the Super Bowl champion Miami Dolphins in a nationally televised game in Chicago.

"We're not presuming a strike and we don't intend to lock out the players."

The first strike manifestation would become evident in San Diego where Charger rookies have been summoned to report July 3.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the players' group, already has arranged for NFLPA veterans to man a picket line in San Diego and the association has made a determined effort to persuade rookies and free agents to boycott pre-season camps until a new contract is signed.

THE KING — Billie Jean King returned this shot against young American Kathy May yesterday on her way to a 6-1, 6-1 victory.

A Return Of Fireworks Greets A's 6-1 Victory

OAKLAND (AP) — Fireworks have returned to the Oakland Coliseum, much to the dismay of the California Angels.

The rockets and bombs splashed skyward last night following a home run by Gene Tenace and after the Oakland A's had whipped the Angels 6-1.

Maybe it was just a coincidence, but the return of the fireworks coincided with a Coliseum visit by A's owner Charles O. Finley. The Oakland fire marshal approved the use of fireworks yesterday afternoon after banning them for the first part of the season because of construction work around the Coliseum.

Jim (Catfish) Hunter made sure there would be post-game fireworks by stopping the Angels on nine hits for his 10th victory of the season. He struck out three and walked one.

"I felt like I knew what I was doing," Hunter said. Before he won his ninth game last week against Kansas City, he had lost three straight.

"It was a little thing I was doing wrong. Now, I'm back in the groove," he said.

The victory was the fifth in the last six games for Oakland, keeping them 2½ games ahead of the Texas Rangers and the Chicago White Sox in the American League West.

The A's complete the home stand this afternoon with Dave Hamilton, 4-1, pitching against California's Bill Stoneman, 1-6.

PADRES GAIN GROUND

Trail Giants By Only Two

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Lowell Palmer pitched his second complete game in the majors, and his first since his debut performance in 1969, last night to move the San Diego Padres within two games of the fifth place San Francisco Giants in the National League West.

Palmer scattered nine hits while striking out seven and walking five as the Padres dealt the Giants their 13th loss in 16 games, 3-1.

Despite throwing 172 pitches, Palmer (1-0) said he wasn't tired.

"Once in Triple A ball I threw 306 pitches," he said.

"Ninety-five per cent of my pitches were fastballs. I turned it over on lefthanders and brought it in on righthanders."

"I don't even know what his ball is going to do," Kendall said. "It sails, turns over and runs in. He just rears back and throws and has good enough stuff to do it."

Padres manager John McNamara says the reason for his club's rise is that it is more technically sound than it has been in the past.

"The improvement of our club comes in execution," he said. "We're doing everything better and that has a lot to do with overall performance. You can call it lucky, but it's execution."

Charlie Williams (1-1) suffered the loss for the Giants in an unusual starting role. He got the call when fellow reliever-turned-starter Randy Moffitt was taken to the hospital prior to the start of the game with what was at first believed to be an appendicitis attack.

Dr. H. Paul Bauer, the Padres' team physician, said Moffitt did not have appendicitis, but did have a lump in his side and further tests will be taken today at Sharps Hospital.

In game three of the four-game series tonight, Bill Greif (2-10) will start for the Padres against Jim Barr (4-3).

Marinites Advance In Tennis Tourney

Ten local youths won yesterday at the host Belvedere Tennis Club to advance in the tournament, recording two upsets in the process.

The biggest surprise of the day occurred in Girls' 16, where Tiburon's Dorsey Hook beat fourth-seeded Linsey Berman of Portland, 7-5, 7-6. She was then eliminated, 6-2, 6-0, in her next match by Jody Awad of Weston, Mass.

In Girls' 16, Beth Fernbacher of Greenbrae upset eighth-seeded Susan Whittaker of Arlington, Mass., 2-6, 6-3, 7-6. Fernbacher then beat Mill Valley's Lisa Beritzhoff, 6-2, 6-4, to advance to the quarter-finals.

Fifth-seeded Craig Patterson

I-J TENNIS TOURNAMENT JULY 22-27

The Marin County tennis tournament co-sponsored by the Independent-Journal and San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department will be July 22 through 27.

More than 400 youngsters 18 and younger are expected for the tournament. Most matches will be played at Albert Park courts, but some of the early matches will be played at San Rafael High, Boyd Park and Gerstle Park courts.

Entry deadline is July 15 at the San Rafael Parks and Recreation office. Entry forms can be picked up there as well as tennis clubs throughout Marin.

The tourney is open to Marin County residents only.

Montreal's Renko Hurls One-Hitter

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Only a lack of consistency keeps Steve Renko from becoming a household word.

There are times, such as last night, when the 29- year-old righthander of the Montreal Expos ranks with the best hurlers in the business. Unfortunately, there are many times when any resemblance Renko bears to a major league pitcher is purely coincidental.

With the exception of last year when he won 15 games and posted a 2.81 earned run average, Renko's career has been filled with inconsistency. His lifetime mark entering this season was only 50-53 with an earned run average of 3.81 and entering last night's game with the Philadelphia Phillies his season record was a disappointing 4-7.

But last night he flashed some of the brilliance that he ocassionally demonstrates by tossing the third one-hitter of his six-year big league career in pitching the Expos to a 5-0 victory over the Phillies.

Renko, whose 6-foot-6, 226-pound frame gives the impression that he can throw a ball through a steel girder, was harassed by his arch-enemy—control—and walked five, but the only hit he allowed was a sixth inning single to center by Dave Cash.

"The no-hitter is always in the back of your mind, but the main thing is you've got to go out there and throw strikes," said Renko, who previously tossed a pair of one-hitters during the 1971 season. "Just because I pitched a one-hitter, I won't do anything different in the next game, although I realize I make mistakes and I'm throwing a lot of bad pitches."

Dodgers 2, Braves 1

Ron Cey singled home the winning run to cap a two-run ninth inning rally that gave the Dodgers a come-from-behind victory over the Braves. The Dodgers, trailing 1-0, put together four singles sandwiched around an intentional walk to post the triumph. Mike Marshall, raising his record to 8-3, once again was the winner in relief.

Cardinals 8, Pirates 7

Lou Brock singled home the winning run in the eighth inning as the Cardinals edged the Pirates to move into first place in the NL East by one percentage point. Brock, whose single capped a two-run rally also stole two bases in the game, raising his season total to 47. Ted Simmons homered for St. Louis.

Reds 3, Astros 2

Cesar Geronimo homered to trigger a three-run seventh inning which enabled the Reds to defeat the Astros. Following Geronimo's blast the Reds collected four more hits with Johnny Bench doubling home the go-ahead run and Dan Driessen singling home the final run of the inning. Jack Billingham, with ninth inning relief help, won his seventh game. Cesar Cedeno hit his 16th homer for Houston.

Mets 5, Cubs 1

Ed Kranepool's three-run homer, his first of the season, sparked the Mets. Koosman allowed only four hits in going the distance, with the Cubs' only run coming on Rick Monday's sixth homer of the year.

THE ONE THAT DIDN'T GET AWAY

Young Marin Netters Advance In Belvedere

of Belvedere was himself the victim of an upset, falling to Glenn Lucey of San Francisco, 6-4, 7-5.

The other two seeded Marin players both advanced yesterday.

In Girls' 18, fifth-seeded Sue Beatty of Tiburon had an easy time of it with a 6-0, 6-0 victory over April Hanrath, and Boys' 14 seventh-seeded Charles Bolcom of Belvedere beat Drew Brosseau of Carmichael, 6-0, 6-3.

Locals did especially well in Boys' 18, with four of them advancing to today's round.

Doug Carlisle of San Rafael beat Robert Malinow of Oregon, 6-4, 6-3; Henry Jacobsen of Belvedere defeated Mark Friedman of Santa Clara, 6-1, 6-2; Tiburon's Cary Stansbury blanked Tom Mott, 6-0, 6-0; and Gene Lachelt of San Anselmo beat Alan Wong of San Francisco, 6-0, 6-4.

Also remaining in the tournament for Marin are: Herman Bauer of Tiburon in Boys' 16, who beat Phillip Leung of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-2; Bob Greene of San Rafael in Boys' 16, defeating Tim Carr of Portland, 6-3, 6-3; and Miles Walker of Greenbrae, who beat Russel Caplan of Burlingame, 6-2, 6-4 in Boys' 14.

Meanwhile, the top-seeds had little trouble yesterday.

In Boys' 18, Rocky Maguire of Woodside beat Doug Ditmer of Oakland, 6-4, 6-4, and in Girls' 18, Susan Mehmedbasich of El Cerrito defeated Lynne Marhefra of Mercer, Wash., 6-2, 6-3.

A Troubled Night For O's Cuellar

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Mike Cuellar lost it all last night, his winning streak, his temper and his spot on the field.

The usually mild-mannered lefthander was ejected in the third inning and was long gone by the time Mickey Lolich completed his seven-hitter that gave the Detroit Tigers a 2-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles, snapping Cuellar's nine-game winning streak.

Cuellar, who usually has good control, was enraged that umpire Russ Goetz was calling the close pitches against him. The result was that he was charged with five walks in three innings. The call that really got to Cuellar was a ball four to Jim Northrup with the bases loaded, forcing in the Tigers' second run.

Cuellar squawked at the time and then continued the argument with Goetz after he retired Jerry Moses to end the inning.

Goetz decided that was enough and ejected Cuellar, a move that brought Manager Earl Weaver out of the dugout—and he was ejected, too.

In the fourth inning, guess who walked out to the mound for Baltimore—Mike Cuellar. The Orioles tried to claim that only Weaver had been ejected. But Goetz hadn't forgotten his ejection of Cuellar and ordered him off the field.

Cuellar is now 9-4 while Lolich, who started off with a 1-5 mark, is now 10-7.

Lolich is now 9-2 over his last 11 starts, all of which had been complete games. He's won five straight.

Lolich struck out nine. He has 75 strikeouts over his last 82 innings and has 104 for the season.

White Sox 10, Royals 9

In a 3-hour, 47-minute marathon, Bill Sharp was the difference in Chicago's win over Kansas City. Sharp led off the 10th and 12th innings with singles and scored both times. In the last of the 10th, Kansas City came back to tie it but Terry Forster, who went five innings for the win, blanked the Royals in the last of the 12th to end the game.

Rangers 7, Twins 3

Jeff Burroughs and Mike Hargrove helped ignite a pair of three-run innings for Texas in its victory over Minnesota as Twins' Manager Frank Quilici continued to have a shaky hold on his job. Burroughs also hit his 14th homer of the season for Texas. Ferguson Jenkins won his second straight after four straight losses to boost his record to 9-8. Rod Carew went 4-for-5 for the losers to boost his average to .397.

Sandifer To Miss Training Camp

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Defensive tackle Bill Sandifer, one of the San Francisco 49ers' first round draft choices, underwent knee surgery yesterday to repair ligament damage he suffered during the Coaches All-America game.

A club spokesman said Sandifer's chances for a complete recovery were "excellent," but that the former UCLA star would probably not attend training camp.

The 49ers' other first choice, Alabama running back Wilbur Jackson, suffered a sprained ankle in the game, but his condition was said to be not serious.

BOATING

By STAN DAVIES

Some Effects Of Boat Safety Act

Who hasn't been to a boat show, or to a showroom or marine store to buy something only to come away completely bewildered by the unbelievable array of things offered. There are so many choices in almost every type of product that it is difficult to decide what to buy.

Naturally you want to get the thing that's the best value and also safest for your boat. But how do you judge?

The effects of the Boat Safety Act of 1971 are now being felt in the application of high standards of quality and safety for all boats and boating equipment.

One can now buy almost anything with greater confidence.

New standards for boats and marine equipment have been developed and are being constantly improved upon by the Coast Guard.

Before a standard for a certain piece of equipment is promulgated, the Secretary of Transportation consults with the Boating Safety Advisory Council to determine whether a hazard exists in the area in question and whether the proposed new standard is a sound solution to the question.

The advisory council is composed of representatives of the industry regulatory bodies and the boating public.

Another provision of the Act calls for prohibition against sale of boating products that do not meet federal safety standards.

The creation of standards of safety in boating products has been going on for several years by the American Boat and Yacht Council which was created in a pooling of resources and authority by the Boating Industry Association (based in Chicago and the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers (based in New York).

The ABYC has been developing standards on such diverse things as galley stoves, compass design and location, steering mechanisms and sail craft rigging.

Q. My dealer wouldn't stand behind the warranty on my motor. He said I had abused it. How good are warranties?

A. The warranty on a boat or engine is only as good as the care you give them. Remember the warranty on your car is only valid if you give it specified "preventive maintenance." Most people just neglect this maintenance on their boat motors. Write for a pamphlet "Keep it Shipshape" from the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, 420 Lexington Ave., New York.

Q. The old boat I traded in on a newer one had a small plate on it saying how much it shoul'd carry. The new boat — a trihedral hull — doesn't have one. Why?

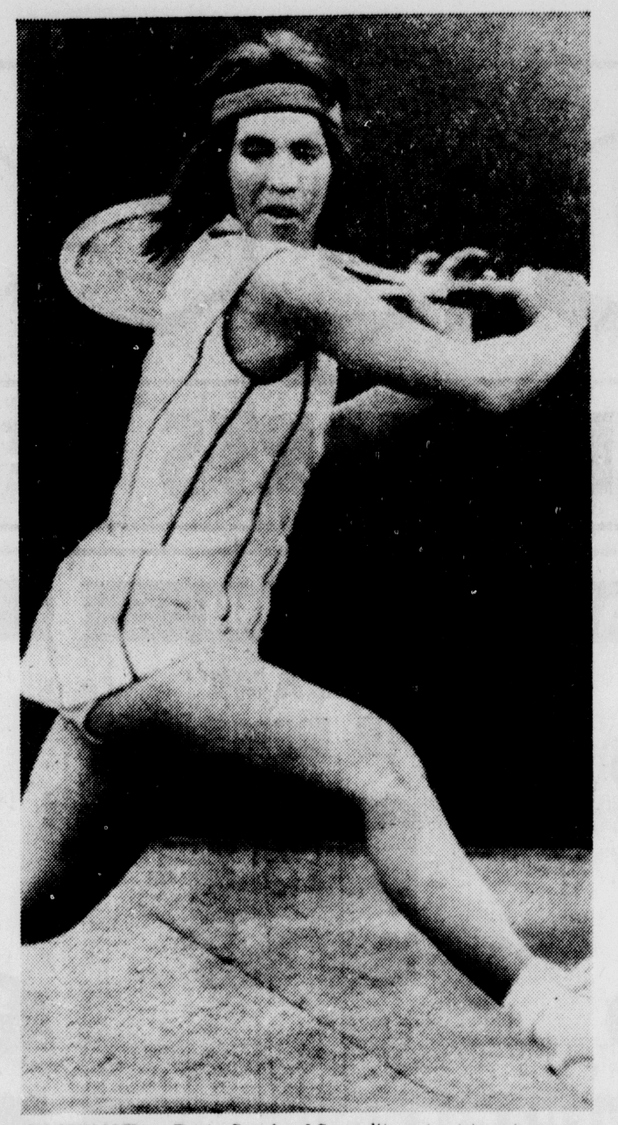

A. It has taken some time to work out the safety standards for the new hull shapes — gull wing, cathedral, trihedral, and others — but boats in these shapes being produced now carry the plates. The idea of the plate is to prevent accidents from overpowering or overloading small boats.

Q. I exchanged the gas engine in my cruiser for a diesel early last summer. Then I discovered six months later that the insurance on diesel power is lower. But the company would not give me a refund . . . Why?

A. All marine insurance companies I contacted said you reported the change six months too late. A couple said they might have considered some kind of concession. There's a lesson here for others. Any major change on a boat should be mentioned to one's insurance agent.

Q. I bought a fine abrasive cloth to polish my scratched windshield. It scratched it even more. I know there is a polishing material for plastic. Where can I get it?

A. Look under "Abrasives" in the yellow pages of the telephone book of your nearest big city. Many of the big abrasives companies make the micro abrasive that will polish plexiglass and other plastic windshields.

Veteran Kelly Out Of Job

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns were sure veteran Leroy Kelly would retire this year, but he didn't, so now the former star running back has been placed on waivers.

"Leroy is going through the transition period of being placed on waivers," said Bob Nussbaumer, vice-president of player personnel for the Browns. "There has been considerable interest shown in him."

Kelly, 34, has played with the Browns since he was drafted eighth from Morgan State in 1964. Kelly could not be reached for comment, but his attorney, Carl Character, said he hadn't talked with Kelly about the waiver issue.

"I have no comment other than that the Browns have expressed considerable interest in trading Kelly and we are checking into all the inquiries, but have not discussed this in detail," Character said yesterday.

Kelly, who played out his latest contract with the Browns, was expected to retire and continue with the club under a different contract, one that might have thrown him into the scouting field.

MINOR LEAGUE REPORT

Olson Snaps His Slump

Catcher Tom Olson is escaping with his bat.

The Kentfield product broke out of his season long slump last week, hitting .308 for the New York Mets' Anderson, S.C. club in the Class A Western Carolinas League. Olson stroked four singles in 13 at-bats to raise his season's average to .171.

Three other Marinites were not quite as productive last week, according to Player Periscope statistical service of Novato.

Marin City outfielder Clifford Hall saw his batting average fall from .290 to .279, while hitting .235 during the week. Playing for the Chicago Cubs' Newport News, Va. team in the Class A Carolina League, Hall banged out eight hits in 34 at-bats. One of those hits went for his fifth home run of the season. He drove in four runs.

Novato outfielder Tom Thomas also tailed off last week, hitting .182 to see his average drop from .417 to .364. He hit two singles in 11 at-bats for the Pittsburgh Pirates' Thetford, Vt. club in the Class AA Eastern League.

San Rafael's Dewey Forry lowered his earned run average from 5.14 to 4.76 last week, but lost one game in two appearances for the Los Angeles Dodgers' Waterbury, Conn. team in the Class AA Eastern League. In three innings of relief work, he allowed six hits and two walks and struck out two.

FAVORS WTT

Rosie Not Excited About Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Rosie Casals would like to win Wimbledon but she is not too excited about being here.

But to win Wimbledon you've got to play the 12-day tournament at the Mecca of tennis where change comes slowly no matter what else is happening in the sport.

Sponsorship is the name of the game around the world today. Nobody plays in white any longer, but Wimbledon has firmly turned its back on sponsorship and insists on the all-white dress rule.

The crowds still come in the thousands so the club can easily find the record $234,480 it has put up in prize money this year.

"I find Wimbledon staid after team tennis where people cheer during rallies and come apart while joining in the action. It's good for spectators to get involved. I certainly enjoy it.

"It really is funny to hear the umpire call for 'quiet' here," Rosie said.

Casals, of Sausalito, also is not happy about playing on grass, even Wimbledon's grass which tournament officials claim is the best in the world.

"After playing on an artificial carpet indoors, where you can play your strokes without fear, it's hard to change to grass where the bounce is irregular.

"On grass mis-hits turn into winners and when you are in position to make a good shot you make mistakes. It's all to do with the bounce," she said.

Casals, however, is confident she can adjust her game to the requirements of Wimbledon. "I've been here nine times before, so I know how to cope."

The women's third seed, who has won her share of doubles titles here, rejected charges that WTT is bad preparation for a major tournament.

"We all train seriously. Sure the format is different in WTT, but we are fit. Some of the men may find five sets tough going, but these days how many tournaments require five sets? Three or four, maybe," she said.

Rosie is quietly confident of finally winning after being a perennial semifinalist. "If I don't, Billie Jean will. We're in the same half, you know."

She shrugged when Chris Evert and Evonne Goolagong were mentioned.

Reds' Anderson Out Of Action

HOUSTON (UPI) — Cincinnati Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson has returned to Cincinnati for treatment of a sprained back suffered a week ago.

A team spokesman said Anderson hopes to rejoin the Reds in Atlanta Thursday. The Reds and the Houston Astros complete a three-game series tomorrow night.

The second annual Reno Shoot will be held at the Valley of the Moon Gun Club in Sonoma, July 7 at 10 a.m. The shoot is sponsored by the Sonoma State Hospital Auxiliary.

E. Germans Vs. Brazil In Soccer Cup Match

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) — Joao Leivinha of Brazil kicked off the 1974 World Soccer Cup finals 13 days ago with a confident tap to his teammate Franco Valdomiro.

It's a fair guess that if Leivinha knew then what he knows now, he would have miskicked.

For a start, champion Brazil after a stumbling and sometimes humiliating stagger through the first round—met up today with East Germany, the pious, purist outsiders everybody expected to crumble under the footballing skills of favorite West Germany and the rugged defense of tough-minded Chile.

East German coach Georg Buschner still modestly proclaims: "We are the weakest team in the last eight."

The Communist East nevertheless defeated the capitalist West 1-0 Saturday and West Germany's own fans have taken to whistling its team's performances and chanting "Germany out."

Today's schedule:

Group A — East Germany vs. Brazil and Holland vs. Argentina. Group B — West Germany vs. Yugoslavia and Sweden vs. Poland.

Mao Fights Ideals Of Confucius

TOKYO (AP) — Over the past 2,000 years Chinese rebels unsuccessfully fought a daunting foe named Confucius. Communist revolutionary Mao Tse-tung has joined the seemingly endless battle.

To outsiders, the campaign being waged by the 80-year-old chairman of the Chinese Communist party seems a curious one, wrapped up as it is in denunciation of a recently dead Red hero named Lin Piao and entwined in the threads of political intrigue.

But to Mao — a scholar, poet, calligrapher, historian and political thinker — it is as significant and important as any past battle he has fought on his way to power.

For millions of Chinese still live by the ethical system handed down by Confucius 25 centuries ago, precepts which have seeped into the Chinese bloodstream.

The sayings of Confucius are legion. But essentially what he stood for was perfect order in human society. To achieve it, he advocated a freezing of the Chinese classes, a place for everyone and everyone in his place.

Above all, he counselled loyalty — of sons to fathers, wives to husbands, of the ruled to the ruler, of the people to the emperor.

Though there were periodic uprisings — chiefly by peasants — in Chinese history, little changed. The new rulers applied the Confucian formula and stability returned. The first real revolution in 2,000 years is said to have been the Communist one, which swept Mao to power in 1949.

But was it?

The intensity of the campaign against Confucius suggests Mao believes it has not yet succeeded. Confucius' hold on the Chinese heart and imagination remains largely unshaken. Until it can be loosened and thrown off, Mao's rival system, a mixture of the Chinese experience and the alien philosophy of Marxism-Leninism, cannot push up through the undergrowth and grow roots of its own.

But Mao regards it as a struggle for the survival of the body of political thought called "Maoism."

Lin Piao, a shy, diffident man primarily a military leader, shot to the Chinese heights during the 1966-69 Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution. Taking the lead, alongside Mao's wife, Chiang Ching, his personal secretary Chen Po-ta, and a handful of other radicals, he pictured himself as Mao's most faithful disciple.

He became deputy chairman of the party, and Mao's publicly acknowledged successor after the cultural purge ended, only to die in a plane crash in Mongolia in September 1971, branded as a traitor caught red-handed plotting to murder his old chief.

Except among the scattering of people who supported him — now driven underground — his influence is not believed to be great in the China of 1974.

But Mao counts on him, and the horror he believes was aroused by his treason, to serve as a bludgeon with which to beat the still animate Confucius.

His objective appears to be to convince the ordinary Chinese that a bright future is in store for him if he follows the road of Chinese socialism.

Presbyterian Group Votes Merger Try

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Without any dissent, delegates to the United Presbyterian Church General Assembly yesterday approved local study of a plan aimed at reuniting the 2.9 million member denomination with its 900,000 member southern counterpart.

Church leaders had anticipated no opposition to action to submit a plan of union with the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. to local churches and none developed.

If approved at the regional level of the two major Presbyterian bodies, the plan of union could merge the northern and southern denomintions into one church as early as 1977, ending a split that has existed since the Civil War.

However, the Rev. Randolph Taylor of Atlanta, Ga., co-chairman of the Joint Committee on Presbyterian Union and a leading southern Presbyterian spokesman on union, has predicted it probably will take up to 10 years for his denomination to give final approval to the merger.

Dr. Claire Randall, first woman ever elected general secretary of the National Council of Churches and a Presbyterian, told the 186th general assembly that "in times like ours, ecumenism is no luxury."

"Only through interdenominational efforts like the National Council of Churches can we adequately minister to the trauma of our times," she said.

She called upon churches for a new commitment to ecumenical action to serve the needs of a nation "in which both individuals and systems need new directions."

Dr. Randall told a news conference that churches should make a much greater effort to recruit women for the clergy.

"Not just women, but all persons to be motivated-including representatives of minorities," she said. "We are well past the day when women have to be confined to lay roles in the church. Modern life styles now make it much more convenient for women to go into the ministry and still be wives and mothers."

Arraignment In Robberies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A San Francisco insurance salesman was arraigned yesterday on charges stemming from bank robberies and kidnaps in Ukiah and Petaluma.

Mitchell E. Spangler appeared before U.S. Magistrate Owen Woodruff on grand jury indictments voted last week. The magistrate ordered him to appear before U.S. District Judge Lloyd H. Burke on June 26 for plea.

Spangler, who is in federal custody, was charged with the $14,000 armed robbery of the Ukiah Crocker National Bank and the kidnaping of its vice president on June 13. He was charged with a similar robbery of the Exchange Bank in Petaluma on June 7 in which $13,900 was taken.

He then handed bank manager Howard Deselle a note ordering him to produce money and then forced Deselle to drive him away in a bank-owned car.

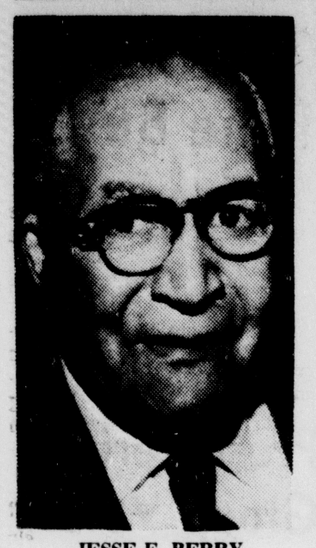

About a mile from the bank, he halted the car and fled on foot.

Six days later, Spangler was captured shortly after the robbery in Ukiah, which was executed in similar fashion.

He is held on $25,000 bail.

Margaret B. Azevedo of Tiburon is a member of the Marin County Planning Commission. She was incorrectly identified in an account of a Tiburon City Council meeting in yesterday's Independent-Journal as a councilman.

JESSE E. BERRY
Sausalito Lions president

Jesse Berry Will Head Lions Club

Jesse E. Berry of Marin City has been voted president of the Sausalito Lions Club for 1974-75. He succeeds Robert C. Martin.

Berry, 69, of 29 Burgess Court, was installed at a dinner meeting Saturday at the Alta Mira Hotel.

A six-year member of the service organization, he served for two consecutive years as chairman of the Lion's annual student speakers contest. He also was first vice president last year and second vice president in 1972.

Berry, a retired electrician, works as a volunteer at the Marin Senior Coordinating Council in San Rafael, which aids the elderly, performing electrical and maintenance jobs.

A native of Riverton, Ala., he is a 33-year resident of Marin City and worked for numerous electrical contracting firms in this county and San Francisco before retiring in 1971.

Berry is vice president of the Marin City Homeowners and Improvement Association, a member of Charles H. Hinsley Masonic Lodge No. 92 and St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City.

He and his wife, Flossie, have three grown children, Annie L. Smith of Marin City, Magnolia Henry of Berkeley and Jesse E. Berry Jr. of Dallas, Tex.

Others installed were: Leonard Turner, first vice president; Donald Jarvis, second vice president; Jerry Recor, third vice president, and Harry Campbell, secretary-treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Ernie Depaul, Myron Kaplan and Frank Trojanowski.

Auto Dealer's Luck Too Good

HERKIMER, N.Y. (UPI) — Robert Castle operates a successful automobile agency here, but there are times when he just can't give a car away.

He donated a 1974 automobile to Temple Beth Joseph as a prize in its fund drive. He also purchased two tickets.

Then he won the Monday night drawing.

The moon is in its first quarter. The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

American novelist Pearl Buck was born June 26, 1892.

On this day in history:

In 1900, Dr. Walter Reed led a medical team formed to wipe out Yellow Fever in the Panama Canal Zone.

In 1917, first troops of the American Expeditionary Force reached France for action in World War I.

In 1944, Cherbourg, the third largest port in France, was liberated from Nazi occupation in World War II.

In 1948, the United States began operation of the "Berlin Airlift" to bypass a Soviet road and rail blockade of the divided German city.

A thought for the day: Author Pearl Buck said: "... If there is no other life, then this one has been enough to make it worth being born, myself a human being."

At Any Table It Is Very Wise To Read Partner's Opening Lead

When the national tournament opens in New York on July 12, every expert at the tournament should be able to tell you that brown horses eat more than white horses. The reason is that there are more brown than white horses. I've put the horse before the cards but will now show the connection.

Opening lead — ♣ 9

When this hand came along in a national tournament a few years ago, West led the nine of clubs against four spades.

Declarer put up the king of clubs from dummy, hoping to panic East into taking the ace at once. If East took the ace of clubs and returned the suit, nothing would come of it. Declarer would win and lead trumps. He would lose only the two black aces.

East thought about playing the ace of clubs but decided against it. Instead, he signaled encouragement by playing the seven of clubs.

Declarer played trumps at once, but West got his ruff. He took the ace of trumps and led his other club. East took the ace of clubs and returned a club for West to ruff, thus holding South to ten tricks.

In a rubber bridge game this trick would be quite unimportant, but in a tournament the extra trick often makes a considerable difference. If the contract had been five spades instead of only four, the trick would have meant going down instead of making the contract.

Perhaps you noticed that both declarer and East assumed that West's opening lead was the top of a doubleton rather than a singleton. South and East both went on the principle that there are more doubletons than singletons. Extreme suit breaks are less common than fairly even suit breaks. When in doubt, play for the usual rather than for the unusual situation.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:
♠ - A 10 9
♥ - J 10 6
♦ - 9 7 6 4 2
♣ - 9 8.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid three-no-trump.

Don't bother to show the diamonds since there is no reason to think that you will be better off in game or slam in diamonds than at three no-trump.

Manning's Plans Big Cafeteria For Firemen's Fund Center

Mannings, Inc., the food service chain based in San Francisco, will operate a 500-seat cafeteria in Fireman's Fund American Insurance Companies' giant new computer center which is under construction north of San Rafael at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road, opposite Northgate Industrial Park.

Don Guilliams, area director of operations for Manning's, said the opening of the new cafeteria will depend on how soon the building can be completed. He hopes the cafeteria can be in operation sometime next year.

Manning's has 220 outlets on the West Coast including a regular dining service at The Tamalpais Retirement Center in Greenbrae and a cafeteria at Santa Rosa Junior College. The company tailors its services to the needs of various institutions such as hospitals, retirement homes, businesses and industrial centers.

CLYDE A. STEVENS of San Rafael, who has been in the title company and land and securities investment field in Marin for 28 years, won his real estate license this month and has joined Robert H. Greene Real Estate at 818 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael. Greene specializes in commercial and industrial properties.

Stevens was with Marin County Abstract and Title Co. from 1946 to 1962, serving for 10 years as vice president and general manager. During that period, he was also managing director of Scarco Inc., purchasing and selling property in

Stevens

Larson

Marin. From 1962 to 1968, he managed the Space Age Small Business Investment Co., dealing exclusively in real estate. The last six years, Stevens was with A. L. McCormick Investments in San Rafael.

LAUREN (LARRY) LARSON of Novato has been appointed senior account executive for the San Francisco office of Putnam Financial Services Inc., San Rafael.

Before joining Putnam Financial, he was a sales executive for more than 20 years with Liberty Mutual and also served as financial planner with Capital Planning Associates.

TWO FLAGS PUB at 928 Grant Avenue in Novato, which has been closed since March, will re-open sometime next month under the new ownership of Hubert M. and Maria Paul of Petaluma.

The Pauls will remodel the interior and operate the English-American inn under the same name. Two Flags Pub, located across the street from Great Western Savings, will feature fish and chips, sausage rolls, English-American sandwiches, beer and wine. "We'll be serving family type fast foods for both lunch and dinner," said Paul, a former Navy commissaryman who retired from the service in 1964 and lived in Novato until about 1969. For the past two years, he managed a Straw Hat pizza place near Eureka, then moved to Petaluma two months ago.

They will take over the Two Flags Pub from Jack A. and Joan Whitcomb of Novato next Monday. Whitcomb, who had it for five years, will continue as realtor associate at Tankersley Realty. Whitcomb said he is selling the pub because running two businesses became too much for him.

A FREE SEMINAR on silver investment will be sponsored by the Pacific Coast Coin Exchange tonight at 7:30 in the Bay Room of the Holiday Inn, San Rafael. James Seely of PCCE will discuss silver as an investment medium and inflation hedge.

PRIDE INTERNATIONAL, a new sales association is being formed in Marin by a group of business people, according to Eric L. Alexander, president of the Phoenix Group Inc. of San Rafael.

The purpose is to provide a forum to exchange selling ideas and innovations for members, promote the selling profession and develop community projects, particularly for youths, said Alexander. He plans weekly breakfast meetings with guest speakers. "Membership will be limited to 100 sales representatives representing a cross section of Marin businesses," said Alexander.

SWENSEN'S Ice Cream Factory and Shoppe at the Red Hill Shopping Center in San Anselmo will offer two heavyweight (quarter pound) ice cream cones for the price of one this Saturday.

Joan and Don Ham, owners, are celebrating the first anniversary of their ownership of Swensen's by rolling back the prices to the good old days. They will also give away balloons, buttons and cable car posters during the Saturday celebration.

PERRY'S DELICATESSEN just opened another outlet, its seventh, at the new Carriage House Foods at 735 College Avenue, Kent Woodlands Shopping area. Managing Perry's Deli in Kentfield is Henry Shaw, who formerly ran Perry's Novato store.

Founded in San Rafael in the 1920's, Perry's Delicatessen now has outlets in San Rafael, Novato, Fairfax, Santa Rosa, Petaluma, in the P & X Market in Loch Lomond, and now in Kentfield. Among the principals are Robert Schilling and George Lagomarsino of San Rafael.

CHARLES E. LOCATI Bookkeeping and Tax Service opened last week at 131 Camino Alto, Office C, in Mill Valley, across the street from the Mill Valley Middle School.

A 1970 graduate of Golden Gate University with a degree in accounting, Locati has 10 years of experience working for another accountant in Marin.

ELECTRIC CAR ON MARKET

A small electric passenger car called the Elcar will be marketed in the United States by the Elcar Corp., in Elkhart, Ind. Elcar President Leon Shahnasarian said the car is manufactured in Italy by Zagato and is the only electric car mass produced in Europe. A two-seater, with two optional jump seats for children, the Elcar comes in two models. Model 1000 will have a top speed of 25 miles per hour with a range of 35 to 50 miles before recharging. Model 2000 will have a larger electric motor and is capable of reaching a top speed of 35 miles per hour with a range of 25 to 35 miles. Base price is expected to be under $3,000.

Inflation: You're Told 'Buy,' Not 'Produce More'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — If the world's leaders appear puzzled about rising prices, the man in the street can be excused if no longer he seeks to understand inflation any more than he does his teen-age kid.

"It's a phase," he says, suggesting to himself that it will pass.

But here's an observation about life in an inflated economy that might help you understand why prices are rising all over the world, and why they're likely to continue rising for a long time to come.

First, what messages did you receive today from the media, your family or friends. Think about it for a moment and you'll probably find many of them fall into a category called consumption, such as:

Eat your breakfast. Get all your vitamins. Fill up the gasoline tank. Pick up the paper while you're at the store — and get me a carton of cigarettes too. Let's take in a show tonight. Why not vacation in Europe? Big sale on suits.

All day long the typical American is exhorted to consume, to spend, to acquire, to experience, to do. It is a consumption society; by means of appealing voices, fluttering pennants, sexual suggestion, visual displays and dozens of other techniques you are urged to buy, to consume.

The intensity of the message was once considered typically American, but what once was called the American way of life is now quite likely the life style of the Brazilian and the Frenchman too.

In contrast, how often are you exhorted to produce? Efforts by government officials to bring attention to lagging productivity have been relatively unsuccessful, a situation that an economist might deplore but which a psychologist can understand.

As most of us know, consumption is usually more comfortable than production, at least over the short run. Eventually, however, if production isn't maintained, consumption costs more or becomes impossible.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

3 Good Purchases For First-Time Buyer

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I am 42 and have had no experience buying stocks. Please advise me on a few conservative issues to buy. — M.R.

On the basis of your age and your desire for conservative investments, I have selected three high-quality stocks with a record of rising earnings and dividends. All three issues are trading below their historical P/E levels and well below their all-time highs. With earnings in each case expected to be up significantly for 1974, these shares are attractive for their long-term growth potential. The three Big Board listed stocks are: First Pennsylvania Corp., Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing and Pfizer, Inc.

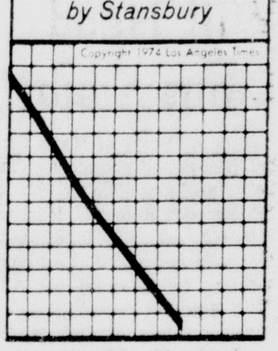

First Pennsylvania Corp. is the holding company for First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust, the oldest such institution in the country. In addition, FPA has expanded into other financial service areas with subsidiaries in the fields of government bond underwriting, mortgage banking and investment management. Over the last decade, earnings have increased 245 per cent; dividends have been raised annually. An 11 per cent gain in profits in 1973 lifted earnings to $3.35 a share. Given an easing in interest rates an even larger gain could be reported this year.

Based on its long-term performance, MMM has come to be known as a 10 per cent growth company. Sales and earnings have risen annually since 1951. Although not totally recession resistant, the repeat nature of its product line, continuing penetration of foreign markets and management's ability to stimulate sales in growth areas have resulted in an historically strong earnings trend. The shares have been relatively stable and currently are trading only 15 per cent below their all-time high, having risen 13 per cent from the 1974 low point.

Pfizer, primarily a pharmaceutical products company, has important representation in cosmetics, health aids, veterinary drugs, animal feed supplements and refractory products. Now well into its billion-dollar-plus sales year, Pfizer has maintained its 9.4 per cent profit margin in the face of rising costs. Shares should outperform the market, reflecting continued steady earnings progress.

(Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally, but will answer all questions possible in his column.)

Wall Street Feels Prime Rate Boosts

NEW YORK (UPI) — With many more banks throughout the nation raising their prime lending rate to 11 ¾ per cent, investors stayed on the sidelines today and prices fell in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Several banks within the past two days have raised the prime rate—that charged key corporate customers—to 11 ¾ per cent from the prevailing rate of 11 ½ per cent, and this has distressed investors.

There had been hope recently the rates had reached a peak, but now there is speculation the prime soon will climb to 12 per cent.

Travelers Corp. was the most active issue, off 1 at 22 ¾ on 160,500 shares, including a block of 151,900 shares at 22 ¾.

Chemicals and oils lost ground. Eastman Kodak lost 1 ½ and Dupont ¾. Both are components of the Dow industrial average. Getty Oil, Schlumberger and Kerr-McGee all were point-sized losers.

Gold mining issues retreated as bullion prices went lower on foreign markets. ASA Ltd. lost 1 ¼ and Dome Mines 1.

Other groups were irregular.

Prices were lower in slow trading on the American Stock Exchange. National Paragon was the most active Amex issue, off ¾ at 5 on 30,000 shares.

Population Center Of U.S. Shifts To Mascoutah, Ill.

By GROVER BRINKMAN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

The first United States census was taken in 1790, when the country was young. At that time, strange as it might seem today, the nation's population center was 23 miles east of Baltimore, near Chestertown, Md.

But through the years since then, people have been following Horace Greeley's advice to "go west!" Presently the population center is 727 miles west (and about 45 miles south) of the first marker.

The population center seems to have moved continuously. It was in Virginia in 1810. Fifty years later it has crossed to Ohio soil. The state of Kentucky got it in 1880, and then for the next 60 years, Indiana claimed it. That's a longevity record for any one state.

By 1950, as a result of heavy industrial development on the West Coast, the center shot across the Wabash River to Dundee, Ill., a shift of 42 miles west and 7½ miles south. It moved to Shattuc, Ill., in 1960.

Now the 1970 (last population center is pinpointed at Lawrence Frederich's farm five miles east of Mascoutah, Ill. Named after an area Indian tribe, Mascoutah is in that segment of Illinois known as "Egypt."

The population center is described by the U.S. Census Bureau as the point at which an imaginary, flat, weightless and rigid map of the country would balance if weights of identical size were placed on it so that each represented the location of one person on the day the last census was conducted.

Until 1980, the little town of Mascoutah will have a terrific tourist image. An obelisk set on the front lawn of the city hall has already proved a magnet.

But Horace Greeley's words still echo in the land. The present population center is less than 30 miles from the Missouri border. Maybe by 1980, the year the next census will be taken, "middle America" will be St. Louis. That will be fitting, since St. Louis has always been the gateway to the west.

HONDA CIVIC
Gas Mileage King

Your best bet yet mileage-wise, economy wise HAS to be the jaunty little HONDA CIVIC. CIVIC gets up to 30 miles per gallon using regular gasoline. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, the Civic, showing 29.1 mpg, PROVED to have the most economical gas consumption of ALL the 1974 models tested.

Low gasoline consumption is a big story, true, but the CIVIC is economical in so many other ways as well. There's an extremely low cost maintenance, and, of course, there's the HONDA CIVIC'S low initial purchase price.
